

STATE URGED TO PASS ON BONDS

Irrigation and Drainage Securities in Oregon Now Total $2,205,000

Applications are before the state securities commission for the certification of irrigation and drainage bonds amounting to $680,000, and payment by the state of interest on securities aggregating $2,205,000, according to a report prepared today by Percy Cupper, state engineer and chairman of the commission.

The Silver Lake irrigation district, including more than 8000 acres of land in Lake county, asks certification of bonds in the sum of $300,000 and state payment of interest on the securities for a period of five years.

The Gold Hill irrigation district, covering an area of about 1100 acres asks state guarantee of interest on $85,000 in bonds issued for development purposes.

The Talent irrigation district comprising 12,000 acres in Jackson county, requests state guarantee of interest on $600,000 in bonds.

The Grants Pass irrigation district including 6000 acres of land in Josephine county, asks both certification and state guarantee of interest on bonds in the sum of $290,000.

The Teel irrigation district, located in Umatilla county and comprising about 16,500 acres, would have the state guarantee interest on bonds aggregating $930,000.

The Enterprise irrigation district covering about 24,000 acres of land in Klamath county, requests the certification of bonds amounting to $40,000.

The Kingman Colony Drainage district in Malheur county asks for certification of bonds totaling $50,000.

Under a law passed at the 1919 session of the legislature the state is authorized to pay interest on irrigation and drainage bonds for any part of the first five years after their issuance.

Some Peoples Eyes Are Perfect

But not many. Most of us have more or less defective eyes. Some scarcely use their eyes for close work—their occupations do not demand it. Consequently they may reach old age before realizing that anything is wrong with their eyes.

Trying Eye Work

Everything nowadays tends to cause more eye-work. More reading is done, often under unsuitable conditions; this, and other things tax our eyes and aggravate small defects which might otherwise pass unnoticed. And because we need the clearest of vision we are anxious the moment it begins to fail.

Glasses are very desirable long before the sight begins to fail. They should be such glasses as exactly compensate for the defects and make you see clearly without effort.

after the adoption of the ward boundary ordinance at which time he will be eligible to election as Wiest's successor, thus retaining his position on the board from which he would have been entirely eliminated had the council proceeded to fill the vacancy.

Action is Postponed

Councilman McClelland came to the rescue of Simeral in support of the motion to postpone action of Wiest's successor declaring that it would "look like the cards had been stacked" if the election was pushed through at last night's meeting.

Councilman Vandervort sensing the play to save Simeral's scalp, urged immediate action on the matter declaring that "the cards sure will be stacked at the next meeting."

Previous to Wiest's motion to elect a successor to himself the ordinance changing the boundaries had been introduced and read for the first and second time. A motion to suspend the rules and place the ordinance on its final passage made by Councilman Volk "in honor of Councilman Wiest who is with us for the last time tonight" had been blocked by Wiest's refusal to acquiesce in the move, the unseemly ploy of which he declared not to be justified by the circumstances.

Wiest later agreed to withdraw his objection which was defeated by Vandervort's "point of order."

Boundaries of the new city wards as established by the ordinance introduced last night and which is expected to come up for final passage at the next meeting of the council, March 1, are fixed as follows:

hall. He was south of the hall, he said, but shots from behind him first attracted his attention. He told defense counsel he did not observe any elderly men aiding Grimm across the street after the latter had been shot. No intimation that any such men had aided Grimm had been made heretofore.

Court Rebukes Lawyers

Attorney Vanderveer questioned Dr. Robertson closely as to his reason for wearing his uniform upon the witness stand, bringing forth a retort from state counsel Abel, who remarked that "the uniform was apparently distasteful to Mr. Vanderveer." This brought forth a rebuke from the court.

Dr. Robertson was in the first platoon of the Centralia contingent. He broke ranks and ran down Second street shortly after he heard the first shots, which he testified, seemed to come from the east. He saw a man shooting at the fleeing marchers from behind the cooperative store, he said.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night, just to keep right. Try them. 10c and 25c.
