Brodie Not Candidate—The Statesman has received from E. E. Brodie, publisher of the Morning Enterprise at Oreg. City, a letter to the effect that he will not be a candidate for secretary of state. His letter was made necessary, he says, because of a recent article appearing in the Oregon Voter in which he was mentioned as an avowed candidate. Mr. Brodie was one of the first men to announce his candidacy for the position, but withdrew three weeks ago.

Keep Chickens Pinned Up—Keep your chickens pinned up in the latest order of the city authorities. During the last few days numerous complaints have been voiced by indignant citizens who charge that the chickens are ruining their gardens. A city ordinance was enacted some time ago having to do with the owners of chickens. The city authorities are contemplating the enforcement of this ordinance. The violators of the ordinance are subject to fine.
