S...EAMERS of red hearts falling from the ceiling and dozens of flaming carnations held in huge baskets the handles of which were tied with cloud like masses of red tulle formed a lovely setting for the dancing party with which Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Kuhn gave Monday evening in Cotillion hall.

In one corner a red arch was placed over the punch table and from this hung more hearts and cupid. About 50 couples danced away the evening hours enjoying the lovely hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Kuhn on that evening. Later the party were taken to the Gray Belle where a sumptuous supper was served. Daintily potted puppets formed the table decorations here.

MRS. Ralph White was hostess for one of the most enjoyable parties of the week when she gave a masquerade dancing party to her senior class on Wednesday evening. The room was prettily decorated with red hearts and Japanese lanterns shaded the lights. Under an arch of red hearts and cupid, Miss Jeanette Sykes and Miss Pauline Monicell served punch.

Music was furnished by Mrs. Sykes at the piano, Miss Joy Turner with the violin, Dave Talmadge, with the drums, and Miss Mary Talmadge at the violin. During the dancing Miss Talmadge and Miss Frances Ward, dressed as Yama Yama girls sang and played as they danced. Miss Margaret White charmingly dressed as a Spanish girl gave a solo dance. Miss Valerie Briggs, Miss Marie Briggs, Miss Leah Nichols, and Miss Margaret White gave a Grecian dance. Miss Luella Patton and Mrs. White dressed in quaint old costumes gave the minuet dance.

Mrs. Harry Pugh interpreting an Indian girl carried off the first ladies' prize for beautiful costumes and Chester Frazier as a scotchman won the men's prize. Mrs. Jessie Lee Campbell dressed and cleverly acting as Topsy during the evening received the prize for comical costumes while E. T. Buselle as Liza Jane, a negro woman, won the men's prize.

About 48 couples enjoyed the evening in this fashion.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Catlin will be interested to know that they left Phoenix, Ariz., Thursday for Los Angeles where they will win the C. B. Bishops for a few days' visit.

Mrs. William H. Lerchen has as her guest her mother, Mrs. J. Lacy of San Francisco, who is here for an indefinite stay.

The geology class of Mrs. H. Dolman met Wednesday for its regular evening. The class finished reading "The Two Islands" and discussed Shakespeare and the different famous actors who have acted in Shakespearean roles.

The next book which the club will read is Professor Winchell's "Walks and Talks From the Geological Field."

Miss Florence McKinney has returned home from a several weeks' visit in Pendleton where she was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Bynon.

Miss Marie Tibbetts of Portland is passing the week-end in Salem as the guest of Mrs. Fred Buchtel.

Mrs. E. J. Mahood of Spokane has been the house guest during the week of her cousins, Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Robertson.

Miss Maud McCoy is spending the week-end in Portland with friends.

Miss Grace Humphreys of O. A. C. is here for the week-end with her parents.

Justice and Mrs. Henry J. Bean are home from a few days passed at Newport.

Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Hoover, 565 North Cottage street, returned Friday from a three month's sojourn in California, spending some time in many of the interesting places. Their son, Theron, who is a student at Oregon Agricultural college is home for the week-end with his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Lewis and Mrs. Raleigh Hutchason of Portland motored down Friday afternoon and are passing the week-end as the house guests of Rev. and Mrs. Thomas S. Anderson.

Mrs. R. E. Anderson entertained the Monday afternoon club at her home this week in a charming manner. Guests of the club who attended were Mrs. W. I. Staley, Mrs. James Lewis and Mrs. H. S. Poosal. Mrs. Ralph Glover won the awards for high scoring. At the close Mrs. Anderson served a dainty luncheon.

Miss Florence Bayne of Portland is spending the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Bayne and her sister, Miss Agnes Bayne.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Rueff have as their guests today, Miss Marian Cummins, and T. C. Heitrich of Portland.

Professor and Mrs. Morton E. Peck had Dr. and Mrs. Grover C. Bellinger as their guests for an informal dinner Thursday evening at their home.

Rev. and Mrs. R. N. Avison entertained at luncheon Wednesday Rev. J. H. Mahood and Miss Mahood.

At a special meeting of the members of the Salem Canoe club called by the president, August Neugebauer last Wednesday evening, it was decided to reorganize and start a membership campaign. The club prior to the war was one of the most popular clubs for those that enjoy canoeing and water sports. Due to the fact that most of its members were in the service the club has not been active for the past year and a half. Interest is being aroused and an effort will be made to place the Salem Canoe club well up on the list of clubs in Salem.

Those present at the meeting were August Neugebauer, C. A. Vibbert, Oliver J. Myers, Harrie E. Hoxie and William Johnson. Anyone desiring to become a member of the organization may secure particulars from any of the above parties.

Miss Ruth Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Moore, is spending the week-end in Corvallis as the guest of her sister, Miss Helen Moore at the Delta Delta sorority home.

Wallace Carson of the University of Oregon is home for the week-end with his mother, Mrs. John A. Carson, and to attend the T. A. girls formal dancing party.

Mrs. J. A. Carpenter and daughter, Helen, were in Portland during the week-end to attend the wedding of Mrs. Carpenter's brother, Willard Smith, on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Denton returned home Thursday evening from a several days' stay in Astoria.

Miss Sally Cusick and Miss Ianthia Smith, prominent young maids of Albany, were guests of friends in Salem Friday, coming down for the basketball game between Salem and Albany high schools.

Mrs. A. M. Odell of Portland, state president of the P. E. O. Sisterhood, was honor guest for the regular club meeting on Thursday which met at the home of Mrs. F. W. Seele. Following the business session Miss Cornelia Marvin, state librarian gave a very interesting talk on her travels and displayed the pottery, ivory, linens and other things which she purchased while in the orient.

Miss Alice Holman is spending the weekend in Portland visiting with friends.

Miss Alice H. Holman of the school of music at Willamette university, will give an illustrated lecture on American music, Wednesday evening at the public library. This will be the fourth of the public library series given on Americanization. Negro, Indian music and contemporary Americans will be mainly discussed and the Willamette university glee club and the university quartet will sing. George Barrick of Chemawa will give a cello solo and Miss Holman will give a piano solo.

REVELATIONS OF A WIFE

The Story of a Honeymoon

A Wonderful Romance of Married Life Wonderfully Told by ADELE GARRISON

CHAPTER DXXV

WHY MADGE FELT FOR ONCE SHE HADN'T BEEN "TOO EASY."

I can imagine that a disinterested observer would have obtained a great deal of amusement from the interview Cousin Agatha and I were having behind the closed doors of my room.

"A stranger to me, although a cousin of my mother-in-law's," she had sought me out within half an hour of her unexpected arrival in our home to pour complaints of Katie's behavior into my ears. Fortunately I had heard Katie's side of the story first. My faithful little maid had come to me in a paroxysm of tears and sobs on account of the unpardonable behavior of the woman. Because of her long tenure of a position which gave her unlimited authority over certain girls, Cousin Agatha evidently felt it her duty and privilege to tax Katie with her condition, under the belief that she was unmarried. Katie had called her "vun old liar", had flown to me, and was now preparing dinner behind the locked doors of the kitchen, while I faced the wrath of Cousin Agatha.

That wrath was rising now and threatened to wreck its possessor's professional calm of manner. Goaded by my inner conviction that everyone around me, including my husband, thought me "too easy" as Katie expressed it, and treated me with a careless disregard of my feelings which they wouldn't have dared to employ toward a woman of sterner fibre, I have given Cousin Agatha's strictures upon Katie with a manner that I knew was unardonably insolent, a manner I had never dreamed I could ever employ to any one.

Madge Plays Trumps.

"You're unpardonably insulting!" Cousin Agatha gasped, after my last retort to her. I gave with hidden savage delight that the veneer was stripped from her. She was so angry she could mask her feeling no longer.

"Perhaps you will feel differently about this when you know that your precious maid, whom you are defending so stoutly, has been deceiving you."

Her voice was a venomous snarl. She evidently thought that her information would evidently crush me. I couldn't help giving her the benefit of a cool tantalizing smile before I answered.

"Since when has it become a crime for a married woman to have a child?" I asked coolly.

Cousin Agatha looked at me with such absolute chagrined amazement that I had hard work to keep from laughing. In her anxiety to make mischief she had lost all sense of proportion and perspective and the possibility of Katie's being married had never dawned upon her. It isn't a pleasant thing to realize that you have just made an absolute idiot of yourself, and Cousin Agatha evidently found the pill a bitter one to swallow. But she made an attempt to stand her ground.

"Oh, I see!" she said. "The girl has been to you with her side of the story. She's a quick one, I'll admit. But when you have been as long in the business of taking care of those animals as I have, you'll know better than to trust their stories."

After the vulgarity and cruelty of that speech I had no further compunction about dealing with Cousin Agatha as I ached to do. I caught her eyes and held them with the cool, scornful look I used sometimes to employ effectively with her type of embryo woman in my school days.

"It may interest you to know that I prepared Katie's wedding dress with my own hands, that she was married from our home, that her husband is our man of all work," I said icily. "It may also interest you to know that I don't care to have you as a guest in my home. You may stay until it is convenient for you to go somewhere else, but no longer. And you are at perfect liberty to tell my mother-in-law or my husband what I have said."

"However, if you choose to keep silent I will not say anything to them about it. You may, if you wish, make any other excuse for not remaining. But remember, it is only consideration for you that leads me to offer you this alternative. Tell them everything if you wish. And now I must ask you to excuse me."

Without a word she scurried from the room, and I, sinking into a chair, burst into hysterical tears. For once I hadn't been "too easy", but I was horribly afraid that I had been a much worse thing.
