Drum Corps for Scouts of City
Organization of Thirty-Five Instruments Will Perform This Summer

If you happen to wake up some beautiful morning and find that the city is being swarmed after a very rousing fashion, just remember that the Boy Scouts of the city have received the instruments for their bugle and drum corps. The instruments for this corps, numbering 35 in all, will be ordered during the next week, delivery to be made about May 1.

The drum corps will be used, not only for the furtherance of scouting in the city, but for all good and worthy civic enterprises which may rightfully call on the Boy Scouts for assistance under the rules and regulations of the national movement.

Besides the Scout Executive Cook, there will be 20 drums in the corps, and 15 bugles. A great many applications have already been received from boys throughout the city for a membership in the corps, and it is believed that within 60 days the organization will be ready for its first appearance. Only high class instruments are being ordered, in order that the corps may be in keeping with other similar organizations in the city, and just as soon as a sufficient degree of proficiency has been reached by members of the corps, a tour will be made of the Willamette valley in an attempt to arouse interest and enthusiasm for scouting in other valley cities.

Besides the 15 drum bugles, there will be six snare drums, two bass drums, and 12 ordinary corps drums. Every member of the drum corps will necessarily be uniformed, and the general appearance of the drum corps will be highly favorable.

Boys who know how to handle any of these instruments should get in touch with Scout Executive Cook as soon as possible, as immediate work must be planned in this connection.

CAMP GROUND FOR SALEM IS NOW ASSURED

Double Advantage of Modern Stopping Place to City is Pointed Out

EXPECT HEAVY TRAVEL

Salem Is Urged to Prepare for Reception of Thousands Coming Summer

BY LEW A. CATES

That Salem will have an up-to-the-minute tourists' camp ground is practically assured. The Commercial club, the Cherrians and the Automobile Dealers association are now laboring to this end, and with the cooperation of the municipal government, the undertaking will undoubtedly reach successful consummation ere the opening of the tourist season.

From a publicity point of view the establishment and maintenance of such an institution must necessarily prove of inestimable value to the entire community and the wonder is that Salem, the capital of a commonwealth, endowed with unrivalled scenic grandeur that are attracting widespread attention throughout the length and breadth of the land, and the geographical center of a vast territory whose advantages, resources and possibilities are unsurpassed by any similar area on the continent has thus long procrastinated in providing this convenience for visitors.

Thousands Anticipated

Thousands of motorists bent on pleasure will pass through the Willamette valley during the approaching season, and it is but natural that a large percentage of these will take advantage of the opportunity to visit the capital of Oregon. With adequate camping grounds provided with modern conveniences and with pleasant surroundings, such as those promised by the joint committee representing the organizations named, many of these tourists will doubtless remain here a sufficient length of time in which to "view the manner of the town," inspect the various state institutions and further acquaint themselves with the agricultural and horticultural offerings, resulting in the augmentation of our population at no distant date, thus "making two blades grow where now there is but one."

The Willamette valley with its approximately two million acres of tillable soil—exclusive of foothills—is capable of sustaining thrice the population now boasted by the entire state, and with its more complete development no community within its confines would profit more largely than Salem. The forward strides recorded during the past decade have been little less than marvelous. Hundreds of families have left snow-banked and storm-torn homes to take up permanent residence in this garden spot of the great Pacific northwest—this sunset land of opportunity. It is but the beginning of what will eventuate in a most surprising end, and the community that buckles on its armor and enters the fray with a whole-souled determination to better conditions will unquestionably reap a rich reward.

Will Increase Flow of Money

Looking at the camp ground project from another and more mercenary angle its successful consummation cannot fail to give, directly or indirectly financial aid to practically all by increasing the flow of coin of the realm through various channels of trade.

The Automobile Tourists' association estimates that tourists expend an average of $10 per day while traveling, and that three persons occupy the average car. Last season with the local camp ground on the outskirts of the city—with adequate accommodations but sadly lacking in modern facilities, between 200 and 300 automobiles were frequently parked there for the night. From this the true benefit to Salem will be apparent.

With well appointed grounds more centrally located, as proposed in the Albert tract, and with every facility for the convenience of tourists, such as tent houses, gas plates for cooking, city water, shower baths, a swimming pool and a play plot provided with swings and other devices for the amusement of youngsters, the Salem "stopping place" would prove an irresistible attraction for motorists from north to south and visa versa. The Astland and Roseburg camp grounds have gained a reputation that will long live in the memory of thousands who have enjoyed their hospitality, and there is no good and sufficient reason why progressive Salem should not participate in similar "glory."

The community, in the opinion of the writer, should interest itself in the proposed temporary home of the tourist, and give the promoters of the undertaking such assistance as may be found necessary to make it the success to which it is entitled.

WILSON GETS BACK TREATY FROM SENATE

on ratification had failed to meet the necessary two-thirds. It was delivered to Secretary Tumulty who received for it in the name of the President.

Recall Being Talked.

Scarcely had the bulky document passed physically out of the capitol building when some of the senators who worked for ratification began a movement to recall it and try once more for a compromise. However, the prediction of leaders on both sides was that no proposal for another consideration would take serious form.

The unsettled state of senate opinion nevertheless had the effect of slowing up the plans of the republican leaders for passage of a declaration of peace, and it was decided after many conferences that the resolution for that purpose probably would not be urged before late next week.

In making this decision the majority managers in the senate are understood to have been influenced in part by undetermined factors in the house, which also would have to act on a peace resolution and whose leaders balked at a similar proposal last December.

Foes Are Jubilant.

During the day the senate was not in session but the question of a peace declaration was raised in the house by Representative Tinkham, republican, Massachusetts, who introduced a declaratory resolution and had it ratified without debate to the foreign affairs committee. In its general provisions it follows the resolution of Senator Knox, republican, Pennsylvania, which is backed by the republican senate leaders. Both provide for the repeal of the declaration of war, for certain settlements with Germany, and for a declaration of international policy.

Until some affirmative action is taken by congress or the President to end the war status legally, the technical position of the country remains, officials say, just what it was the day the armistice was signed.

Three courses are open to Mr. Wilson. He can return the treaty to the senate, in which case the republican leaders declare it will be pigeon-holed indefinitely; he can do nothing, while he waits for the verdict of the people in the political campaign, or he can treat the treaty as a dead letter, so far as international diplomacy is concerned, and proceed to negotiate a separate peace with Germany, a step which he alone under the constitution could initiate.

BEARCATS AND SENATORS MEET

Scoring Secondary Consideration; Hayes' Peg Attracts Attention

Biddle Bishop's Senators practiced with Coach Matthews' Bearcats on Willamette field yesterday afternoon. In spite of the rain there were demonstrations of good ball by both teams. More attention was paid to hitting and handling the ball than to scoring, but the Senators had a few runs to the good.

Cole worked out in the box for the Senators and Jackson for Willamette. They handled themselves carefully prior to getting thoroughly thawed out but demonstrated that they will be in form at the opening of the active playing season.

Both of Bishop's catchers showed strong. Kracke is agile and heady and Jack Hayes both of these with a wonderful peg for the bases.

Bob Brown of Amity has been added to the pitching staff of the Senators. Bishop made conclusive wrangles with Brown after a two weeks' search for box material to match up with Cole and Craig. Brown delivers from the right and is expected to be twisted into one of the most reliable men to face the home plate.

Manager Bishop is fairly well satisfied with the present lineup but justified to play safe for some of the leading positions he says he is in the field for one or two more boys who can pitch.

Brown who has been given employment with the state highway commission, comes here with a good reputation.
