

After Whooping Cough—What?

This is No. 4 of a series of advertisements, prepared by a competent physician, explaining how certain diseases which attack the air passages—such as Pneumonia, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Measles or even a long continued Cold—often leave these organs in an inflamed, congested state, thus affording a favorable foothold for invading germs. And how Vick's Vapo-Rub may be of value in this condition.

Whooping cough is the "meanest" disease that childhood is heir to. While rarely fatal in itself, except to children under two years of age, still it hangs on so long—the coughing paroxysms are so violent, preventing proper sleep and digestion—that when the disease does disappear it leaves the child weakened and run down. In addition the violent coughing racks and strains the air passages and after recovery this irritation frequently remains.

During this period of convalescence the child should be most carefully watched until full strength is restored and the air passages regain their normal tone. A prominent authority even goes so far as to say—"There is more criminal neglect in connection with whooping cough than with any other disease."

While the disease is active, Vick's VapoRub usually helps to lessen the violence of the coughing, but it is during convalescence that Vicks is most valuable.

Because Vicks acts locally by stimulation thru the skin to draw out the inflammation, attract the blood away from the congested spots and relieve the cough. In addition the medicinal ingredients of Vicks are vaporized by the body heat. These vapors are breathed in all night long, thus bringing the medication to bear directly upon the inflamed areas.

Vicks should be rubbed in over the throat and chest until the skin is red—then spread on thickly and covered with hot flannel cloths. Leave the clothing loose around the neck and the bed clothes arranged in the form of a funnel so the vapors arising may be freely inhaled. If the cough is annoying swallow a small bit the size of a pea.

Children's digestions are delicate—easily disturbed by too much "dosing." Vicks, therefore, is particularly recommended, since it is externally applied and so can be used often and freely without the slightest harmful effects.

Samples to new users will be sent free on request to the Vick Chemical Company, 234 Broad Street, Greensboro, N. C.

COPENHAGEN, March 23.—Regarding the situation at Wesel, a special Berlin dispatch says that 6000 regulars within the fortress are besieged by 25,000 Spartacists. The troops are using heavy guns.

PARIS, March 23.—Following up the request of the German government that the supreme council authorize the sending of German troops into the Ruhr district, German officers have arrived in Paris to present the project before the representatives of the allies. It is understood that they will ask permission for the state government to send 100,000 soldiers or police.

MONEY IS HARD TO COAX WITHIN

Inside the "Circle" Slogan Not Lived up to by All Concerned

"Keep your money within the circle," is a slogan recently adopted by the Marion County Community federation. Its real import is to encourage reciprocal buying of local products not only among residents but also among farmers and city merchants and consumers.

Some complaint is made that this slogan is not being literally observed. When a farmer offers a product of the soil it is bought of him in Salem usually at Portland quotations less cost of transportation and commission charges. The temptation on the part of the farmer, it is said, is to send the commodity to Portland from his nearest shipping station.

But, at Portland, farmers say they fare no better. There they come directly in competition with products that are shipped in from Washington and California. Charges are openly made by producers that in that market, Oregon farm products are sometimes neglected and California sources are drawn on to fill demands. This discrimination has seemingly reached a critical stage. Consumers, according to those who fully understand the situation, have in their power to correct this abuse. If no relief can be had, the slogan, "keep your money within the circle" will go by default.

One of the market reporters in a leading Portland daily paper sums up the marketing of farm products in the following statement:

"The time has come when Oregon consumers must pay more attention to the support of their own products and not 'hit' the local producer whenever the latter asks fair prices consistent with supply and demand. This is a serious situation, and one that has tended to hold in check the growth of Oregon farm production."

"While it must be agreed that there are many wholesalers who are anxious and willing to support every reasonable price that home producers ask, there are others who will purchase supplies in California even at higher landed cost than what home growers are asking, just in order to show producers that they are independent of them."

"The bringing in of poor quality California onions at a high price to this market is a sample of this situation. While it is true that Oregon onions are scarce and prices are advancing, there is still sufficient stock to take care of local wants. The people that are bringing in the inferior quality California onions have been in a position to secure all the Oregon onions of better quality they needed but they wanted to purchase below the actual market."

HIGHER FARES FOR PORTLAND IN ABEYANCE

Service Commission Recommends Objection on City Ownership of Tracks

COREY IS IN DISSENT

Eastern Oregon Member Would Raise Fares and Charge for Transfers

Change in car fares on the lines of the Portland Railway, Light & Power company in the city of Portland is held in abeyance by an opinion of the public service commission handed down yesterday, signed by Fred G. Buchtel, chairman of the commission, and by Commissioner Fred A. Williams. Commissioner Cory dissented.

Further, the opinion recommends that at a special election, the people of Portland be given an opportunity to vote on the question of taking over the tracks of the company, which would reduce the valuation of the company's properties in the city to $5,000,000. This has reference only to the tracks in the streets, not to the street car system as a whole.

Would Lift Imposts.
The opinion further recommends that at a special election the people vote on relieving the company of various burdens which for 1920 are summarized as follows:

Maintenance of paving already laid, $47,000; bridge rentals, $65,000; franchise taxes, $15,500; car licenses, $7500; free transportation of city employes, $22,000; maintenance, depreciation, taxes and interest on prospective paving (average six months) $13,000. Total, $170,000.

Should these reliefs be afforded the company by a vote of the people the order states that a decrease in the present fares is prospective.

The order may be interpreted on the theory that increased fares do not solve the problem with which the car company is wrestling, namely to bring a return of 7 per cent on its investment as petitioned for in the application for an increase in fares, and that the general public that benefits from street car traffic should assist the car riders in shouldering the burdens.

Commissioner Coley, in his dissenting opinion, advocates a fare of 10 cents with a charge of one cent for transfers.

Five Opinions Handed Down by Supreme Court

The supreme court yesterday handed down the following opinions: Elmira Lumber company vs. H. J. Owen, et al, appellant; appeal from Lane county; action founded on promissory note, of which it is alleged plaintiff is holder and no part has been paid. Opinion by Justice Johns. Judge G. F. Skipworth affirmed.

T. W. Kendall vs. Travelers Protective association of America, appellant; appeal from Multnomah county; suit to collect benefits to which plaintiff alleged he was entitled. Opinion by Justice Harris. Judge J. P. Kavanaugh reversed and case remanded.

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Darkens Beautifully and Restores Its Natural Color and Lustre at Once.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients a large bottle, at little cost, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's" thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youth appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger.

Socialists Want Labor Cabinet.

A most significant development was the demand of the independent socialists for a straight labor cabinet.

A party delegation headed by

Adolf Hoffmann presented the independent socialists' terms to the government yesterday. These were chiefly the elimination of the bourgeois parties

from the government, withdrawal of troops from the streets and reorganization of the army.

The democratic right socialists notified the "independents" that unless the clerical and democratic parties agreed to labor government they would not recognize the independent socialists' proposition. A mixed commission is to consider the whole question. It will include two right socialists, two independents, two members of the labor federation and two members of any independent organization of labor. The proposition will then be submitted to the inter-party factious in the national assembly.

There is a general impression that the scheme will not be effective, as the right socialists are pledged to the coalition bloc and will not tolerate the elimination of the democrats and clericals from the government.
