Public Is Careless—
On an average of 700 letters are returned to the writers by the Salem postoffice each week, and at least 50 are sent to the dead letter office on account of not having a return address. About 100 letters are received each day without the street address, which means that the postal employees have to search through the city directory in order to find the proper addresses. Postmaster Hucklestein suggests that a little cooperation from the public would help increase the efficiency of the postal department.

Salvation Army Budget for Vital Home Service

The budget asked for the Salvation army home service program work for 1920, subjected to analysis, speaks volumes for the program of service contemplated and gives some idea of its magnitude. It is also pertinent that the entire budget is to be spent in Oregon for Oregon work and that it carries to completion a program, the groundwork of which was laid with the funds raised last year.

The funds raised by the Salvation Army are to be used as follows: For the purchase and maintenance of the White Shield rescue and maternity home, which annually cares for approximately 200 girls mothers from all parts of the state. To the purchase and equipment of a boy's and girls' industrial and agricultural school, for the destitute and neglected children from all corners of the state.

For extending the Salvation Army work to the smaller communities.

To carry on prison work and scores of other activities of the Salvation Army too numerous to mention.

The organization for raising Marion county's quota will be completed at a banquet held this evening in the basement of the Methodist Episcopal church.
