FIVE THOUSAND COME HERE FOR BLOSSOM FETE

Lines of Automobiles Radiate From Salem for Miles to All Parts

PERFECT WEATHER HELPS

Hundreds Are Taken Into Dome of State House During Afternoon

Salem's first Blossom day was a success without qualification. Five thousand people were expected about a thousand visitors. It is estimated there were 5000. Luckily most of them came in automobiles, and because of the commendable co-operation on the part of Salem citizens, who volunteered the use of their automobiles for the day, there was no lack of waiting cars for the thousand or more persons who came in on the trains.

The weather was all that could be desired. Because of the tardy spring the blossoms were not at their best, not having completely opened out, but this was not a noticeable detraction from the success of the day. Automobile drivers who were familiar with the valley roads improved on the program by deviating from the road as mapped out, and hundreds of visitors saw every scenic point of interest in this section of the country.

It was an all-day event. Beginning early in the forenoon, automobiles lined the roads south of Salem, and the cars increased in number as the day advanced. A large part of the crowd went into the Polk county hills and hundreds of people and scores of cars lined the railing of the intercounty bridge to watch the operations of the airplane.

A big business was done by the airship throughout the day. Upon its first arriving from Portland, P. E. Fullerton and Will Carver were taken on as passengers and from the air dropped floral bouquets over the city.

Between the hours of 1 and 5 o'clock 515 persons were taken to the dome of the state capitol. Most of them were strangers who were here for Blossom day. The capitol was kept open for the benefit of visitors, and the elevator was available throughout the day. The dome of the state house affords an excellent view of the Willamette valley for miles in every direction, and the clear weather Sunday made the view exceptionally fine.

BITS FOR BREAKFAST

Blossom day was a success; but the blossom will be more blossomy every day now.

The farmers are yelling for help in the advertising columns. And the yell will grow louder till after the harvesting is done.

This vicinity is no place for an idle man. No one has even time to talk to him.

The Non-Partisan League is simply Socialism under the worst form; in a lying form, pretending to be something else.

The Salem Slogan subject for Thursday's Statesman is "Grapes;" and there is enough matter in hand now to prove that this is a great grape country—for the right kinds of grapes; and that we must raise more grapes.

The paved roads will now begin to lengthen out; and there must be no thought of halting the program.

Everybody's doing it—making garden.

Not a vacant lot in all Salem should go without a garden this year.

CITY NEWS

African Missionary Speaks—The Willamette Student Volunteer band held an unusually attractive open meeting last night in the chapel of Kimball college. Mrs. E. C. Cormack, a missionary from Africa on a furlough, after a service of 13 years in the dark continent, spoke to the young people of her experiences there and of the need of the foreign lands for teachers and physicians and ministers. She also showed many rare specimens of African animal life and some of the handwork of the natives in baskets, cloth, carved wood and inlaid ivory tusks, rhinoceros hide and tusks, and various other relics and curios of educational value and interest. A fairly large attendance was recorded, in spite of spring weather and athletic events.

A Fine Smelt Treat—Charles Moore, blacksmith for the Charles K. Spaulding Logging company for the Salem plants, went smelt fishing Sunday, down on the Sandy river, in Multnomah county, along with all the way from 10,000 to 100,000 other Oregon and Washington people, in 5000 to 25,000 automobiles. Mr. Moore was successful. He brought home five large sacks full of fine fish, and he gave every Spaulding employe he could find on Sunday evening a generous mess of smelt. One of the men who got a fine gift of the smelt came to the Statesman office to ask that a vote of thanks be given to Mr. Moore; and this is it. Mr. Moore says the run of smelt in the river will last from seven to 15 days more. In the meantime thousands of tons of the fine fish are being taken. They are being salted down, shipped to near and distant points, and even being used by some farmers for fertilizer. The Sandy river is literally full of the smelt, and they are being dipped up in nets, a bucket full or a sack full at a time.

Washington Will Elect Republican Delegates

BELLINGHAM, Wash., April 26.—Washington Republicans in convention here tomorrow, will elect 19 district delegates and four delegates at large to the Republican national convention and adopt a platform outlining the party's policy on state and national issues. More than 1000 delegates will attend tomorrow's sessions.

If results of pre-convention caucuses are followed, delegates to the national convention will go to Chicago instructed to further the candidacy of United States Senator Miles Poindexter for the presidential nomination. A fight is expected over the proposal to bind the delegation to a second choice.

Headquarters for supporters of the candidacy of Herbert Hoover, were established here today, and supporters of Major General Leonard Wood and Senator Hiram Johnson were active at caucuses. Johnson supporters announced they would support Senator Poindexter's candidacy, anticipating that if the Washington senator failed of nomination at Chicago the votes of the state delegates would be thrown to Johnson.

The convention will be called to order by State Chairman Sam Walker at 10 o'clock. At caucuses held yesterday and today, it was practically decided to name Judge C. W. Howard of Bellingham temporary chairman, and W. P. Bell, Everett, as permanent chairman.

Mr. Clark said he had not communicated with Mrs. Sanders "for two or three months."

"I have not said a word," he said, "or written a line or lifted my finger to get the nomination at San Francisco and I do not intend to do so."

Years of cultivation and care were required to produce "Madame Butterfly" before it was declared perfect enough to market. The rose is what florists and rose lovers call a sport. Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—Most Women Can Have

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system. If you have a pale face, yellow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.
