Girl Fesses Up—

The Salem Y. W. C. A. took in

Georgia Smith who said that she lived on Twenty-fifth street in Portland, and that her mother who had been employed by the Oregon laundry had died and that she had been given transportation to Salem to enter the orphan home. Upon receiving information from Portland it developed that her true name is Jessie Hoemer of Twenty-fifth and Upshur streets, Portland, and that her mother is not dead, and was greatly worried about her absence, and had instructed the authorities to try and locate her. When she was interviewed yesterday by the police major and the chief of police she sobbingly confessed her identity. She was returned to Portland yesterday.
