

HIGH OFFICIAL VISITS SALEM

Robert E. Magner, Secretary National Auto Dealers Association Here

Robert E. Magner, field secretary of the National Automobile Dealers' association, visited Salem yesterday to confer with George Halvorsen, secretary of the newly formed Oregon Automobile Dealers' association, and Fred Delano, president of the Salem Automobile Dealers' association.

Mr. Magner addressed the convention at Eugene April 15 when the automobile dealers of the state met and formed the Oregon Automobile Dealers' association, affiliating as a body with the national association.

"Because of the great importance of every automotive dealer of pending legislation in all the legislative halls, whether it be congress, the state legislature, the county commissioners, or the city council, it is imperative that the automobile men organize, and into closely connected affiliated bodies, covering the different political divisions of the country," said Mr. Magner. "Since the saloon has gone, the automotive industry is the target of all quick and large revenue-getting schemes, as well as for such freak legislation, that apparently must be gotten off the chest of some long-haired man, or short-haired woman. The statute books even now contain many such, in the different states—laws that have demonstrated the utter foolishness of enforcement."

Mr. Magner called attention to the power of the federal government to seize and confiscate automobiles when liquor is found aboard, regardless whom the title is vested in, thus giving the innocent dealer no rights whatsoever.

Mr. Magner will return to Salem May 7 to address the Salem dealers, and Mr. Delano and Mr. Halvorsen wish every automotive merchant to plan to be present, as this will be an important meeting.

Magner, who has been organizing in southern Oregon, reports much interest in the newly organized Oregon Automobile Dealers' association, meetings having been called and local associations formed in Medford, Grants Pass, Roseburg, Marshfield and Eugene.

PORTLAND, Or., May 1.—Officials of the Chamber of Commerce and shipping men here were notified today that the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce is conducting a survey here to ascertain the amount of cargo available for South American ports. Indications were said to be that a large amount of freight would be found available.

PORTLAND I. W. W. FOUND GUILTY

Lawrence Sorllie Convicted of Violating Oregon State Syndicalism Act

PORTLAND, May 1.—A jury in the case of Lawrence Sorllie, alleged Industrial Worker of the World, was returned a verdict tonight of guilty of violation of the state syndicalism act. The jury had deliberated more than 24 hours.

The Oregon state criminal syndicalism act was given a strict interpretation by Circuit Judge Morrow Friday in his instructions to the jury. Judge Morrow told the jurors that the state must have shown that Sorllie knew the purposes of the I. W. W. when he joined, that the purposes were unlawful and that he joined with the intent to carry out such unlawful purposes. The court further held that the evidence must have shown that the I. W. W. advocated violence within Multnomah county since February 3, 1919, when the law became effective, and that evidence showing the organization's advocacy of violence elsewhere during that time should not be considered.

DEMOCRATS AT SEATTLE SPLIT

Hold Twin Conventions and Adopt Separate Platforms

SEATTLE, May 1.—King county Democrats held twin conventions in the same hall here today, elected two contesting delegations to the state convention in Spokane and adopted two separate platforms, while police reserves, called by County Chairman Charles D. Fullen, occupied vantage points on the floor.

Judge G. A. C. Rochester, registrar of the federal land office, presided over the first convention. It adopted a platform, instructed the delegation to Spokane to support George Harroun, Seattle, for national committeeman to succeed A. R. Titlow, Tacoma, and adjourned.

The second convention, called to order by Chairman Fullen, instructed its delegation to support Mr. Fullen for national committeeman and adopted resolutions, reading from the party Judge Rochester, Collector of Customs Roscoe Drumheller, district attorney R. C. Saunders, immigration Commissioner Henry M. White, Federal Prohibition Director Donald A. McDonald and "thirty-four unnamed Democrats" who had participated in the first convention.

HOT TIME AT TACOMA

TACOMA, May 1.—A personal fight between A. R. Titlow of Tacoma, Democratic national committeeman, and David J. Williams, collector of internal revenue for Washington and Alaska, upset the entire county Democratic convention here today and resulted in the repudiation of Titlow by a vote of 157 to 120, and the endorsement of W. R. Rust, Tacoma capitalist, to succeed Titlow.

So bitter was the fight, carried to the floor by speeches by both men, that when adjournment was taken it was discovered that no platform had been adopted; names of the 191 delegates to the state convention had not been made known and no "keynote" address had been heard.

The only concrete statement was in the shape of a resolution endorsing Mrs. Ernest Lister for delegate at large and Mrs. George A. Libbey for district delegate to the San Francisco convention and pledging the county delegates to support both women; adoption of the unit rule of instructing the county delegates to vote at the state convention and support Mr. Mr. Rust for national committeeman.

A feature of the convention was the fact that a number of waitresses, principally from the Todd Shipyard restaurant, found themselves holding the balance of power in their hands and their votes practically determined the results today, much to the expressed chagrin of the old-time Democratic county leaders.
