GRANDMOTHER KNOWS WHAT'S GOOD

Mrs. V. M. Katz 502 Armondale St., N. S., Pittsburg, Pa., writes: "I used Foley's Honey and Tar for my little grandson as he had a bad cold, and it did him lots of good. I used a lot of it when my own children were small." This old reliable medicine helps coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough.—J. C. Perry.

MAY FESTIVAL AT WILLAMETTE PRETTY EVENT

Coronation of Queen Gorgeous Affair at Which Governor Presides

DONEY GIVES WELCOME

Winding of May Pole Attractive Feature of Brilliant Afternoon Program

The Willamette university campus was the scene of a royal coronation yesterday when Queen Evelyn I was crowned Queen of the May by Governor Olcott who was master of ceremonies.

The coronation ceremony was very impressive. The royal party was led by four heralds and by the varsity quartet, composed of Francis Cramer, Edwin Socolofsky, Fred McGrew, and Floyd McIntyre, who sang the annual coronation hymn, "The Herald's Song." This is a typical Willamette song of unusual merit, composed by Dean Mendenhall, once the music instructor of Willamette university. Next came the master of ceremonies, Governor Olcott.

The crown bearer, little Miss Julia Johnson, preceded the queen-elect who appeared, arrayed in a robe of dazzling whiteness. The two sides of her radiant train were held by the Misses Josephine and Beatrice Evans. Before the queen were her two maids, Freda Campbell and Odell Savage, who wore dainty pink robes. Behind the queen came the attendants, a dozen beautiful maidens who wore dresses of snowy whiteness and attractive pink hats. The court jesters followed, Leon Jenkinson and Vern Ferguson, who were honored for their willingness to play the fool, by being clothed with cardinal and gold garments. The long array of dancing maidens followed and arranged themselves along the sides of the court in square.

Winding of May Pole Attractive Feature of Brilliant Afternoon Program

The master of ceremonies and the crown-bearer proceeded to the throne, from which vantage ground Governor Olcott made the coronation speech. At the right moment the small bearer of the crown handed it to the governor who placed it upon the head of the queen. Queen Evelyn I then proceeded to her royal throne, followed by her train-bearers who arranged her trailing garment carefully before taking their seats at the foot of her throne. The maids of honor were seated one on either side of the queen upon the royal throne. The wall at the back of the throne was composed of sword fern and other spring greenery. Fairly and indeed seemed no longer a meagre account in books but a present reality and distinctly visible.

In spite of the warmth of the afternoon the dainty dancers did well their part of entertaining. The campus trees threw their kind shade over the cool green grass so that the exercises of the dancers were enacted in a spot that was cooled by their shade and a light breeze. Ten distinct dancing numbers were given, some by the Willamette university women and some by members of Mrs. White's dancing classes. There were dances of the "Dawn", "Sun", "Flowers", "Bluebells", "Black-eyed Susans", "Spring", "Autumn", "June Time", and "Daisies."

The last number was the winding of the Maypole by members of the women's gym class at the university. The girls who wore pink costumes allied with those who wore white. As the girls passed each other in going opposite directions, a neatly woven fabric appeared at the top of the Maypole and gradually got lower and lower until the winding of the Maypole was completed and the exit of the dancers pronounced the end of a delightful program.

Crowds Are Welcomed At noon yesterday a large company of people assembled on the Willamette campus to hear the address of welcome by President Doney and to partake of the picnic lunch which the Willamette students had provided for the entertainment. President Doney, with an insight into human nature bred by years of experience with it, knew that many of the guests had come from afar and had taken such an early breakfast that an early lunch would be more appreciated at the time than a speech of any kind. So his address was postponed until after the picnic dinner and just preceding the coronation of the queen.

The picnic dinner committee, Miss Emma Shnafelt and Miss Mildred Clarke, did a noble service in preparing the "feed." Everyone took a plate full of wonderful culinary concoctions, a banana, and a cup of lemonade to some shady spot. During the dinner hour some of the Willamette students gathered near the gym and sang many of the college songs. President Doney made his address of welcome short and to the point. His main topic was the late interclass rivalry contest for the raising of funds toward the $100,000 campaign. This contest was proposed by the senior class who challenged the other classes of the university to compete with them, the winning class to be presented with a pennant which would be reminder of their loyalty and worthy support.

The senior class itself won the pennant which was presented by President Doney to Merrill Ohlins, president of the class. Mr. Ohlins accepted the award in a few sentences, saying that he only hoped that the friends of Willamette would do as much in proportion to their ability to the further the work of Willamette university as the members of the university has done.

Lining Up Thoroughbreds for Great Kentucky Derby

LOUISVILLE, May 7.—Twenty-two three-year-old thoroughbreds, twenty colts and two fillies, considered the best on the American turf, today were declared fit for the Kentucky derby. Those whose owners accept the issue will attempt to negotiate a mile and a quarter at Churchill Downs tomorrow afternoon for a stake carrying $50,000 in added money, the richest 1920 turf prize in the country.

Expectations today were for a record breaking attendance, predictions reaching as high as 60,000 spectators. Already hotels were reported taxed to capacity.

At the race track the number of pari-mutuel betting machines under the greatly enlarged grandstand has been increased to 105 and will provide what is believed to be ample facilities for the speculative public which, with approximately half that number, wagered $572,000 on the 1919 derby.

JUNIOR PLAYERS CONQUER CROWD

Willamette Students Display Exceptional Talent in "Lady of Lyons"

The Willamette juniors gave their production of the "Lady of Lyons" before a large audience last night in the Grand Opera house. The selection of this fascinating play by Edw. Lytton proved a very happy one as it attracted intense interest. The play was exceedingly well produced and showed much ability of the players as well as reflecting much credit upon the director, Miss Elizabeth Barnes. The play may be said truthfully to have been one of the most meritorious that has been put on in Salem by amateur talent for some time.

The scene was laid in Lyons, France, about 1800. The theme was the winning of a lady's love by a worthy but poor young man. The entanglement was another variation of the "eternal triangle." The part of the hero, Claude Melnotte, was played splendidly by Loren Basler. Miss Fay Feringer did excellently in her role of the heroine Pauline, the "Lady of Lyons." Edw. Socolofsky played the difficult part of the villain, Monsieur Beauchant. Miss Myrtle Mason made a splendid Madam

Deschappelles and Ralph Thomas an excellent Colonel Damas. Paul Fiegel did well in his part as Monsieur Deschappelles. Dorothy Buchner took the part of Widow Melnotte, mother of the hero. Monsieur Givis, a thoughtless young friend of the villain's, was Robin Fisher. Other members of the cast were Ivan Corner, Mary Notson, William Sherwood, Keith Lyman, Fred Alderich, Russell Rarey, Frank Foster and Harold Emmel. The play was produced under the direction of Elizabeth Barnes, head of the dramatic department of the Ellison-White Conservatory of Music at Portland. The entire audience stood when Queen Evelyn I entered and took her seat with her escort. As she entered

Floyd McIntyre and Francis Cramer sang the "Herald's Song" announcing the coming of the queen. During the intermissions which were necessitated by the changes in scenery in the play the variety orchestra or by the variety clowns. The clowns were made up to represent an irresistible country family. They were Verne Ferguson, Leon Jenkinson, Oscar Payne and R. C. Cook, with a few borrowed children to help out. "A man cannot always tell when he reaches the door of opportunity. That may be true, but the fellow who tries every door, he comes to will open one sooner or later." Birmingham Age-Herald.
