PICTURES ARE COMING DAILY FOR EXHIBIT

Expectations of Arts League Members Are More Than Fulfilled

SPECIALS ARE ARRANGED May 12 to 13 Is Period Fixed for Display of Paintings at Marion Hotel

Pictures for the exhibit of the work of the artists of the northwest, which is to be held in the sample room of the Hotel Marion, May 12, 13 and 14, are arriving daily, and more than fulfill the expectations of the officials of the Salem Arts League, under whose supervision the exhibit is to be hung.

Three splendid examples of the work of Paul Morgan Gustin, of Seattle, arrived a few days ago, as well as the large canvas, "In the Studio," by Miss Charlotte Mish of Portland.

Each day's mail also brings acceptances of invitations to exhibit pictures from some well-known artists. Among this number is Fred Strickland of Portland, whose work is rapidly coming to the attention of the artistic world. Mrs. Alfred Schreff, of Eugene is another to comply with a request by the league. She will be represented by some of her beautiful miniatures. She is now in Portland working upon some important commissions.

A number of western artists were seen by R. Monroe Gilbert during his visit in Portland this week, and as a result much of the best work on exhibit at the second spring exhibition of paintings by the Portland Palette club, will be brought to Salem. This list includes some of B. Bruce Horsfall's best work in bird paintings. He is considered the best painter of birds in the United States, much of his work being reproduced in the geographic magazines.

Fan Lauritz of Los Angeles will be represented by some of his best canvases. His specialty is Alaskan and California scenes, and through them he has gained national recognition.

"Barn on the Hill," and "Mt. Tamalpais," both by Clyde Leon Keller, of Portland, and which won first honorable mention at the exhibit by the Seattle Fine Arts society in 1919 and 1920 will be shown here along with other specimens from his brush.

A beautiful study of Crater lake by C. C. McKim of Portland will add to the group of Oregon paintings, and will be hung with other pictures by this widely-admired artist.

A number of pictures by S. Mizuno, a Japanese artist of Portland, will be a conspicuous part of the exhibit, and will show the western influence.

The display by Strickland, being as it is so interesting and distinctive, including a large number of sketches made during the war, and which form a complete pictorial diary of his travels from Oregon to Germany and return, will be set aside for a special display at the public library Saturday, May 15.

The members of the arts league will be given a private showing of the pictures on the opening night of the exhibit, following the lecture at the library, by Mrs. Grace R. Wilmot, of New York, lecturer on house decorating for the federal government. The lecture will be free to the public, and is to be given under the auspices of the Arts league.

"Yokohama Maid" Proves Rare Talent of Students

The Japanese comic operetta "Yokohama Maid" given last night at the Grand Opera house by the music students of Willamette university was a musical production of rare merit. It partook of the nature of a professional entertainment more than one produced by amateurs—indeed, one may well question if the players are yet amateurs or have advanced to the stage of professionals. Much credit is given Prof. John R. Sites, head of the department of music at Willamette, who directed the play.

Miss Vesna Williams was leading lady in her part as "O Sing A Song," a Japanese heiress, and quite captivated the audience by her many charms. Miss Marguerite Cook showed dramatic ability in her excellent interpretation of "Tung-Waga," the elderly nurse. Fred McGrew was great as "Fatedo," the rich, comical old mayor. Others who took prominent characters in the cast and all of whom played their parts very skillfully, were: Sadie Pratt as Kissimee, the companion of the heiress; Floyd McIntyre as Knogdi, secretary to the mayor; Edwin Socolofski as Takasi, the herald of Kybosno; John Luckner as Muvon Yu, a policeman; Leon Jennison as a Chinese laundryman from the U. S. A.; Francis Cramer, as Harry Cortcase, an American lawyer; Helen McInturiff and Margaret Bowen as American tourists; Laura Shipley as "Chop-Suey," and Luella Atwood as a Japanese dancer. Besides the main characters, there was a chorus of 40 voices.

During the intermissions the Willamette orchestra entertained.

Salem High Is Victor Over Molalla Visitors

Seven hits, coupled with wild base running, gave the Salem high school ball team a 9 to 0 victory over the Molalla high school nine at Oxford field yesterday afternoon.

The local tossers lost to Molalla at Molalla last week and were determined to get revenge yesterday. The score shows how the boys lived up to their determination.

Fisher, pitching for Salem, held the visitors to four scattered hits and struck out 16 opposing batsmen. An error, a hit, two stolen bases and a passed ball accounted for Salem's two runs in the first frame. Two hits and six stolen bases brought in two more in the fourth. The local boys chalked up two more in the sixth, two in the seventh and one in the eighth.

The score— R. H. E. Molalla 0 4 8 Salem 9 0 4 Batteries: Hurless and Faurie; Fisher and E. Gill.

CARRANZA FLEES; IS REPORTED FUGITIVE

and General Pablo Gonzales in Puebla, according to information here. Several sweeping victories were claimed by anti-Carranza agents on the border. The state of Durango was reported to have seceded and to have joined the revolution. General Cesario Castro, who had been operating in that region, has sent a part of his forces to Piedras Negras, opposite Eagle Pass, Texas, upon learning that the Carranza garrison there had fled.

President Carranza is reported to have ordered the abandonment of the northern states of Mexico and the concentration of "the few loyal forces there" in Mexico.

Torreón, Coahuila, Zacatecas and Aguas Calientes, capitals of states bearing the same names, and Saltillo, capital of Coahuila, were also claimed today by the revolutionists. From Nogales, Ariz., comes the report that President Carranza of Mexico had been captured by forces of General Alvaro Obregon and Gen-
