Steamship Line Between Portland to Galveston

PORTLAND, Or., May 11.—Announcement was made here today through the public dock commission that a steamship line between Galveston and Portland has been established, and that the first ship, the Cethana, a British motorship, is due shortly in Portland from the Gulf of Mexico with a cargo of three thousand pounds of sulphur consigned to the Crown Willamette Pulp and Paper company.

Two additional ships already have been chartered for this service, each of which will carry a cargo of sulphur from Galveston to Portland for use in the paper mills, it was said. One is a sister ship of the Cethana, the Cuburra, and the third is the American wooden steamship Collcha.
