Chautauqua Program to Open Here Next Sunday

Julius Caesar Nayphe, with his oriental pageant, assisted by local people, will open Chautauqua week in Salem next Sunday, July 18.

The proximity of the opening date finds the local committees with many tickets yet unclaimed and unsold. Many who pledged themselves for the purchase or disposition of season tickets would facilitate the sale of tickets by claiming their quota at Hartman Brothers' jewelry store.

Probable congestion will be averted if those intending to purchase season tickets will buy now. The management of the local Chautauqua desires all interested in this year's program to make an effort

SOIL EXPERT IS EMPLOYED FOR COUNTY

Agriculturists Procured by Bankers of Vicinity, Says Announcement.

CIVIC QUESTIONS UP More Generosity in Renting Houses Urged upon Residents of City.

A large membership of the Commercial club attended the open forum meeting at the club rooms last night to hear the reports of different committees, and the discussion of problems vital to the community. No new business was transacted by the club.

With the exception of the chairman of the industrial committee, the chairmen of all outstanding committees failed to make their reports. These were deferred to the next meeting.

The industrial committee submitted its report, informing the members that an agriculturist has been authorized for Marion county. His name has not been announced. It was stated that Marion county had an agriculturist in the past who rendered good service to the community. The fact that Marion county is an agricultural district, it was asserted in the report, makes it obvious that an agriculturist is needed.

Bankers Take Lead. The bankers of Marion county, it was stated, have taken it upon themselves to support the agriculturist until such time when the farmers may assume the responsibility. In the meantime the bankers are to finance the office and to act as a board in devising plans for his work. The report averred that many lands in Marion county could be reclaimed by drainage and thus increase the cultivated acreage.

The report suggested that Marion county could well be divided into five drainage districts, thus expediting the work of the agriculturist.

Several suggestions of civic interest were presented to the club by different members. Alleged unsanitary conditions in some restaurants and of comfort stations were mentioned. As a solution it was suggested that such conditions be brought to the attention of the city health officer.

Rent Property Needed. Houses labeled for sale, it was suggested, should be placed at the disposition of people who wish to rent homes. It was claimed that many people have been unable to rent homes, though many of the houses in Salem are marked for sale. No action was taken.

Opportunities in Salem from the horticultural and industrial point of view were discussed by C. I. Lewis in a 10-minute talk. He made the statement, based on statistics gathered through his work with the Oregon Growers' Co-operative association, that Salem has a $10,000,000 industry in its canneries, the paper mill, dehydrating plants, mills and fruit concerns which reasonably could be increased to $50,000,000.

He stressed the fact that Salem peculiarly has diversity of soil in its rolling lands, lowlands and beaverdam lands, condition of climate, and adaptability for several plants. He declared that all needed to enhance the industrial opportunities of Salem is to grasp the things that are at hand and make them productive.

D'Arcy Reminiscent. Mr. Lewis said this aspect of diversity in Salem is an asset of the community.

"Since there is a diversity," he said, "it stands to reason that some lean years will be experienced; but the same is true in the mercantile world."

"When depression comes," he admonished the members, "don't say that industry. It looks bad to the outsiders. The thing to do is to overlook it and wait for another year."

P. H. D'Arcy was called upon to make a few suggestions. Mr. D'Arcy was in a reminiscent mood, for he reviewed the history of the Commercial club, its early ups and downs. He spoke at length in favor of encouraging education. He scored the Portland papers for misquoting him in this regard, when they said, according to Mr. D'Arcy, that he was opposed to education. He stated that he worked his way through Willamette university and does believe in education.

McCroskey Boosts Tourists. The meeting was closed by a short talk by Secretary T. E. McCroskey, calling the members' attention to a Salem asset that should not be overlooked. He referred to the tourists. He quoted a letter from Los Angeles that classified one of its assets as being the tourists. According to the letter Los Angeles estimates its tourist asset at $150,000,000. This amount is larger than all of the other assets of Los Angeles, in oranges, lemons, deciduous fruits, cotton and alfalfa crops combined. The letter clearly showed that the tourist is an asset, and that he will be an asset of Salem as soon as the highways are completed.

Chautauqua Program to Open Here Next Sunday

Julius Caesar Nayphe, with his oriental pageant, assisted by local people, will open Chautauqua week in Salem next Sunday, July 18.

The proximity of the opening date finds the local committees with many tickets yet unclaimed and unsold. Many who pledged themselves for the purchase or disposition of season tickets would facilitate the sale of tickets by claiming their quota at Hartman Brothers' jewelry store.

Probable congestion will be averted if those intending to purchase season tickets will buy now. The management of the local Chautauqua desires all interested in this year's program to make an effort to obtain tickets before the opening date on July 18.

Those acquainted with the programs of other seasons in Salem claim that this summer's Chautauqua has an especially strong program. The program is exceptionally well balanced. Eminent lecturers of national reputations in economic history are scheduled to discuss reconstruction problems of vital interest to the American people. The music numbers are of a high order, as are the numbers representing foreign peoples and their customs.

What A Business Man Wanted

A business man, who called on us a few weeks ago, said, "We want a lady in our office; a typist who has a thorough knowledge of business and can use her own head. We want such a person as Mrs. ... who is secretary to Mr. ... I presume you know her."

The fact is, the Mrs. ... referred to, took her course at this school several years ago, later attending night school to do some special work.

The business man was told that we could not then refer him to any available person. He left with instructions to keep him in mind and telephone at his expense when we found such a lady. Could you have filled this place?
