

SENATORS WIN FIRST BATTLE WITH VANCOUVER

Winning Runs Come in Last Innings of Cleverly Contested Game

VISITORS STRONG TODAY
Dick Cox, Portland Leaguer, Gets Four Hits in Four Times Up

After holding the Senators in check for seven innings yesterday afternoon in the first game of the Elks series of three games of baseball, the Vancouver team dropped its game by the score of 9 to 5. The score stood 4 all until the fatal eighth when the moorings of the Vancouver balloon were severed and the balloon was punctured by four Senators, making the score 4 in their favor. Both teams were apparently evenly matched, both hitting the pitchers freely. The Senators annexed 12 bingles to their credit during the afternoon fray, while the Vancouverites touched "King" Cole for 15 base knocks.

Brown, who performed on the slab for the Clark county invaders of Washington state, had a puzzling slow ball which the locals were unable to meet squarely. When his slow ball was hit, it resulted in a puny grounder or a pop-fly. Cole labored under an off day and his usual effectiveness was not observed in the game. He struck out 10 batters. Brown was only able to whiff a lone batter.

League Prowess Shown.
"Dick" Cox brought his Portland suit along and his Coast league prowess yesterday, and scrawled his name on the slab of Salem baseball history by slamming out four hits out of four trips to the platter. His batting average for the day is therefore 1000 per cent. On his second trip to the plate, for a little batting practice, he tapped the pill high over the left field fence. When he had completed his circuit swat, he walked over to the bench and said: "I only tapped that ball." If the pamesake of Cox hits 1000 per cent next fall, it is likely that he will finish under the wire a furling in advance of Harding.

When he had completed his circuit on Salem's hot corner, continued his terrific hitting of last Sunday yesterday by clouting for a three-base play into deep center in the seventh inning. It was his second hit of the day. Stewart scored on Cole's two-bagger.

Extra Base Hits Made.
Extra base hits were gathered in by Hayes, two-bagger; Cole, two-bagger twice; Sax of Vancouver, a two-base hit and Boytana a home run over right field fence in the ninth inning.

Bishop scored the first run for Salem when he was walked in the third inning, advanced to second on a balk by Brown and scored from second base on Stepp's hit to right field. Two more runs were added in the fourth inning when Brown issued Hayes a free ticket to first base and was scored a little later on Cox's home run. Stewart and Cole spiked the plate in the seventh inning after making a three-base and a two-base hit respectively. Hayes, in this inning, scored Cole on his double to left. The scoring ended for Salem in the eighth inning when they chalked up four runs by Cox, Kracke, Stewart and Cole.

The Vancouverites were handicapped by the failure of Koehler, Ring and Mohler their star twirler, to appear in suits. The Vancouver manager said these men would be in uniform for today's game. The men were unable to leave their employment for the first game. Mohler, the fans will recall, was the port-sider who eased the local team down, with four scattered hits several weeks ago. He is scheduled to perform on the mound this afternoon, which promises a hot time for the local batters. Koehler, the Vancouver slugging catcher, will also be in the lineup for this afternoon's game. In fact, Vancouver is to have its strongest lineup in the game.

This afternoon's game promises to be the best of the series, Meyers will probably do the heating act for the Senators. Also if Dick Cox only tapped a home run yesterday, Biddy Bishop says, the Coast leaguer is going to do some tall hitting today.

Growers Find it Impracticable to Sort Good Cherries From Bad Ones

PITTER DOES GOOD WORK
Largest Prices Paid for Loganberries Said to be 12 and 13 Cents

The Statesman wishing to give its readers the latest and best information on the cherry and loganberry situation in Salem and vicinity, sought two representative sources and the probability that their views and their knowledge are practically the same as could be derived from others similarly situated toward the public.

M. O. Evans, field man of the Oregon Growers' Cooperative association, who is very intimate with the situation, in answer to the Statesman's inquiries said: "There is no doubt now that the cherry crop was damaged worse than for many years. Such a large percentage was damaged that a great many growers have decided that it was unprofitable to attempt to sort out the good cherries from the cracked ones, as required by the canners. Quite a number of growers have attempted to sort them, but only a few have succeeded in getting satisfactory work done. Pickers in general do not take kindly to that sort of work. It is hard to tell how large a percentage of the crop has not been picked, but considerable, especially a few miles from town, where it is hard to get help."

Pitter is Installed
"A considerable percentage of the Royal Ann crop had been harvested before the rain of the night of July 12, but only a very small part of the Bings and Lamberts, fortunately these are not so numerous, however." "Within 24 hours after the rain stopped, the Oregon Growers had installed a cherry pitter at the dryer of George Weeks, north of Salem, and this with the F. E. Evans dryer in the same neighborhood, has been engaged day and night since the morning of July 14 taking care of the cracked cherries, nearly 100 tons which would have been otherwise lost, having been pitted and dried in that time. Most of the cherries thus dried were from the Salem neighborhood, but several boxes came from the vicinity of Amity. "For the most part this year there have been plenty of pickers for cherries and loganberries, on account of the high wages paid. While not attempting to run an employment agency in any sense, the Oregon Growers' have placed around 50 pickers during the last three weeks. Most of these were people from California, Washington and parts of Oregon, who were traveling through by machines and stopped to work a week or so, then passed on after making some easy money.

Logans at Zenith
"The loganberry crop movement is about at its height. The large pool of Oregon Growers, which was sold to the Rupert Canning company, is being shipped largely to the Rupert Cannery at Lebanon. A considerable tonnage, however, has been shipped to their cannery at Newberg. The crop has been uniformly good and the prices have been very satisfactory."

M. Evans was not quoting prices, but it is generally known that the largest part of the loganberry crop was sold several weeks ago at 12 to 13 cents a pound.

There is practically no market for cherries that were not cracked, except some choice lots of Bings and Lamberts that were not cracked. Two things contributed to the demoralization of the cherry market, namely, the rainfall, which damaged the fruit, and the immense yield which was of far above expectations or estimates that buyers were swamped.

Royal Anns Sell Well
W. H. Allen, manager of Hunt Brothers cannery said that "while the cherry market is not flourishing just now, yet there is quite a little activity. The Royal Anns are about through coming in, while the Lamberts are starting. "The bulk of the Royal Anns were marketed for 13 cents a pound, the Bings and the Lamberts bringing 12 cents up to recently, but are now 2 or 3 cents off that figure. Those prices mean for sound cherries, of course. The low grade cherries have no market. Those that were not card for immediately are entirely spoiled before now in most cases and the trouble of sorting out the cracked and damaged cherries from the sound ones meant a good deal of work, which discouraged the enterprise to a large extent."

Berries Plentiful
"While the growers in this field have lost some cherries, I think they have saved more than they ever saved before, because the crop was unprecedented and a great deal larger than was expected. "Loganberries are coming in quite plentifully now and I think between 60 and 70 per cent of the crop has been marketed, bringing from 12 to 13 cents a pound. We are canning logans mostly now, though we are also canning cherries, some Royal Anns as well as black cherries. Blackberries will come on a little later. "Every factory has been running at full capacity but there is a little breathing spell now."

Resolute Must Win Today To Save Cup

SANDY HOOK, N. J., July 22.—Shamrock IV slipped out of drydock tonight and is ready to race again tomorrow for the America's cup. Meanwhile the crew of the Resolute, American defender, made things ship-shape aboard their craft and also are prepared to give battle. With the tally now standing 2 to 1 in favor of the challenger, the American sloop must win the next contest if the hundred guinea cup, valueless trophy is not to travel back overseas in custody of the Royal Ulster Yacht club.

Shamrock arrived at Staten Island shipyard early today under tow and at once was put on the ways in order that her underbody might be scraped. It was the belief of her crew that she had collected oil on her sleek sides since she had left drydock about a week ago, but when she was slid back into the water this
