THE Chemeketa street Evangelical church was the scene of an unusually pretty wedding Tuesday evening when Miss Frances Alice Launer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Launer, became the bride of Barclay Newman of Astoria. Baskets of Caroline Testout roses and ferns were hung from the balcony at the rear of the auditorium, the wicker baskets similarly filled were grouped around the piano, and flowers and roses were banded high back of the altar. At the altar, an improvised arch wound with greenery and roses supported a huge bell of pink rose petals. Before the ceremony Miss Elsie Lippold sang "Carrie Jacobs Lippold's 'Love You Truly,' accompanied by Franklyn B. Launer, brother of the bride who also played the wedding march, the bridal chorus for Lohengrin being used.

Two white frocked little girls, Miss Beulah Launer and Miss Marie Payne acted as ribbon bearers, and little Miss Marie Lippold was flower girl, scattering rose petals for the bride's path. Following her was tiny Master Robert Payne, who carried the ring in the heart of a large pink rose. Miss Gwendolyn Evans, bridesmaid, wore rose-colored organdie and carried an arm bouquet of pink carnations. Walter Weinhart was

Mrs. R. L. White, and her daughter, Miss Margaret White, will go to Portland where they will attend the National Dancing School convention, and where they will take the ballet course under the well known Italian maestro, Louis Spasiano, who is recognized as the greatest authority on the dance in America. This is the first time the national convention has met in Oregon, and many entertainments have been arranged for the delectation of the teachers who belong to the National Association of Dancing. Mrs. White is a member, including a trip on the Columbia River highway. This convention does not confine itself to ballet dancing, but determines as well what the new ballroom steps for the year will be. Mrs. White and her daughter will be in Portland for a fortnight.

length veil of net was caught with lilacs of the valley and she carried a shower bouquet of white roses and sweet peas. Miss Agnes Fowlds, her sister, was maid of honor. Her gown was of silver cloth Mrs. Fenwick. Newell of Anas City, matron of honor, was gowned in a blue taffeta. The bridesmaids, whose frocks carried out the color scheme of blue and pink, were Miss Ruby Page Ferguson and Miss EdGrude Hoerber, both of Portland and Miss Grace Mollenkop of Salem. The attendants carried pink roses.

"William Hoppes, brother of the bridegroom, was best man and the ushers were Otto Hoppes, Frederick Greenwood and Loren Coldwell of Portland.

"The church was attractive with greenery and white flowers. Mrs. Eugene Moore of Portland sang "At Dawning" and "Because" and Ralph W. Hoyt played the wedding march.

"A formal reception followed the wedding in the church parlors. Mr. and Mrs. Hoppes will make their home in Portland. This is Mrs. Hoppes' first visit to the United States.

"Mr. Fowlds and his daughter, Miss Agnes, will tour the United States and return to New Zealand in November."

Fatal Accidents Listed for Use at Milwaukee

During the week from August 22 to 27 the state industrial accident commission listed all the fatal accidents in the state, together with data concerning them for use at the convention of the National Safety Council in Milwaukee next month. Every state in the union gathered similar data during the week. It is to be used by the council in determining the most frequent cause of accidents and in the program of accident prevention.

A birth is found recorded in an old family Bible at West Haven, Conn., as follows: "Elizabeth Jones, born on Nov. 20, 1786, according to the best of her recollection."

Helpful Health Hints

The surgeon supplies inside information at cut-rates.

The very things we like the best are often those we can't digest.

Be moderate in the use of all things, save fresh air, cold water and sunshine.

The best patient is the patient who can and will co-operate with the doctor. Patients acquire health only as they utilize the service and ideas of their physician. Co-operate!

If Osteopathy had done nothing more than to curtail the number of experimental doses of medical poisons and lessen the number of "exploratory incisions" and bloody operations, it has earned the everlasting gratitude of an afflicted humanity.

Health is that harmonious condition of the three divisions of man—body, mind and soul—which enables the physical organs to properly perform their functions and promotes the development of the positive faculties and qualities to the greatest degree.

THE FALL COAT
