HUBBY STINGY, WIFE ALLEGES

In Answer, Defendant Claims Plaintiff Overestimates His Wealth

Alleging that her husband is stingy, close and parsimonious and that he has at all times refused to give her money sufficient to provide for her clothing, and that since the first year of their married life the defendant has shown no affection for her in the charge made by Mary A. Johnson in a divorce action against her husband, Hiram A. Johnson. The couple were married October 17, 1914.

Mrs. Johnson claims that upon occasion when suggested to her husband that he provide a family budget for the household expenses, he flew into a rage. Later, she admits, he did provide a budget in the sum of $25. She claims that she was successful in holding down the expenses to $24.68 and that her husband reclaimed the 32 cents which she had saved from the monthly allowance.

Mrs. Johnson avers that she has been treated as a stranger by her husband since the second year of their marital life, and then, she claims when the defendant spoke to her he did so in a cold indifferent manner. As a relief from the treatment she asks for absolute divorce, $75 permanent alimony, one-third of an estate valued at $25,000, $75 a month for the support of a minor adopted child until he attains his majority, for $500 legal expenses $75 a month during the pendency of the suit and the costs and disbursements of the action.

On a motion of the defendant the case was shifted from Multnomah county to Salem and will be heard during the fall term of court.

The defendant, Hiram A. Johnson, has filed an answer denying the allegation of his wife that he is worth $25,000 and earning $500 a month as an insurance agent, setting forth the claim that his assets total only $10,000, and that he realizes $155 a month from his insurance business.

As a counter complaint Johnson makes charges similar to the ones made by his wife in her complaint, and makes the further claim that his wife is guilty of misconduct and unfaithfulness as a wife. He also alleges that he denied her the right to use his name in making purchases from Salem business firms because she was making such purchases extravagantly, and with a purpose to find grounds for divorce. For this reason, he says, he caused the publication of a notice, that he would not be responsible for debts assumed by his wife in his name and that he paid cash for what necessities he needed.

Dallas Soon to Have All Concrete Walks

DALLAS, Or., Aug. 31.—(Special to The Statesman.)—The several miles of concrete sidewalks which are being put down in Dallas will be completed by the latter part of September, according to the contractors, Fugh & Sower, of Salem, who are doing the work. A short delay was experienced during the early part of the summer on account of the inability of the contractors to obtain cement, but since its arrival the work has been progressing rapidly. Within another year practically all of the old wooden sidewalks in the city will have disappeared, a new city ordinance forbidding the laying of wooden walks in the future.

Newfoundland Tries to Control Fish Industry

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Aug. 31.—The colony of Newfoundland has initiated an attempt at government control of the export of cured fish, the most important industry of the island. Over the protest of many of the shipping, fish exporting and other trading concerns, the legislature at its session recently closed, enacted severe measures to this effect.

The most important of these created a board which will have full jurisdiction, subject only to the governor-in-council, over the exportation of cod-fish. Under its terms no one will be permitted to export fish without a license and licenses must comply with regulations to be prescribed by the board with regard to the quality of fish, the time when it may be shipped, the quantity that may be forwarded to any particular market and the minimum price that may be charged. Monthly statements will be required showing the amount of each grade of fish in the hands of exporters.

Other measures provide for the grading of fish and the inspection of vessels to be used for exporting the product, most of which goes to the Mediterranean and South American ports. The sponsors of the legislation said it was designed to improve the quality of the cured fish, to ensure its safe transportation and to prevent glut in foreign markets with consequent price cutting.
