

REVELATIONS OF A WIFE

The Story of a Honeymoon

A Wonderful Romance of Married Life Wonderfully Told by ADELE GARRISON

CHAPTER 691

WHY MADGE FOUND HERSELF IN A MOMENTARILY EMBARRASSING POSITION.

Either the note of command in the voice from the road, or the appearance of the owner of the voice started the trolley conductor into instant obedience.

Naturally, I looked around in amazed relief for this opportune deliverer. I hadn't far to look.

The handsome motor car I had noted passing us a moment before had evidently turned around and come back. At any rate, it was drawn up beside the trolley, and from it was alighting a tall rangy youth in an army officer's uniform.

"Get along now," the officer commanded. The conductor, evidently not daring to utter a word, but with ugly resentment written all over his face, obeyed.

"Will you allow me to see if he's injured?" a pleasant drawing voice said. It was hard to recognize it as the same voice that had just cowed the conductor so efficiently.

"Oh, if you will be so kind, I shall be most grateful," I turned, for the first time getting the opportunity for a good look at the young officer.

At my permission he knelt down in the grass beside the road and spoke to the dog soothingly. "Come here, Pete, old fellow."

"If you'll just assure him I'm all right," he went on, "I'm sure I can manage him. Naturally he's suspicious of all men just now."

"Now I hadn't the slightest idea how to assure Pete that the young officer's intentions to him were strictly altruistic.

idea how to assure Pete that the young officer's intentions to him were strictly altruistic. And Pete was distinctly reluctant to accept the stranger's ministrations.

worthy of confidence. I can only try his method and hope it will be successful. I stooped to the dog. "Pete, old fellow," I said soothingly, "come here."

Should Finish Hearings Senator Reed said in reply. "I have no comment to make on our investigation at this time. The duty of the committee is to investigate and report to the senate what it finds when the investigation is over and to pursue any other course is in my opinion indecent."

Senator Reed brought out that several thousand dollars had been received from Honolulu and that there was no quota on Mr. Upham's sheets for the Hawaiian Islands. Mr. Lee said that under the law of averages the practice of expanding quotas did not result in contributions beyond the total limit set by Mr. Upham.

Oregon Quota Almost Met The witness instanced four western states where the drive had been closed with the contributions short of the total. Oregon, he said, had contributed $21,000 on a quota of $25,000; Washington half of its $60,000 assessment; Idaho a third of the $15,000 it was asked for and Utah about half of its $25,000. He said that in Minnesota there was a quota of $50,000 but no effort to collect it.

"I wish you would tell me what the trouble is in Minnesota," said Senator Reed. "I only know as Mr. Upham explained that internal conditions there make it unpropitious for us to enter the field," said Mr. Lee.

Do You Own a Tractor? If you do, then you are a progressive farmer and are making the most of your opportunities. This is the day when speed and efficiency count. The farmer is no longer thought of as one who works in the ground from early sun up to dark, that erroneous idea has been replaced with the right idea, that the farmer is a business man, a manufacturer, and the progressive farmer is recognizing his real position and station in life. He uses modern methods and operates power machines that reduces his work and increases his production. The Fordson Tractor has come to be known as the "Farmer's Necessity." It is always on the job, and only "eats" when it works. It makes possible doing work when the time is right, and at a minimum of expense. We are getting behind with our Tractor orders, but can yet make a few immediate deliveries, being assured by the Factory that we have shipments coming without interruption. Don't waste your time and energy with old methods; be in the circle of progressive farmers and share in their prosperity. Valley Motor Co. Power Farming Specialists

Old Age Held Back "The only thing that holds old age back is health."—Painless Parker. Health is what keeps people young. It is what makes good complexions. It is back of success, happiness and nearly every other good thing in the world. Health is largely a matter of teeth—good teeth, good health—bad teeth, bad health. The dentist has more to do with human progress than most of us know. You get more for your money out of good dentistry than anywhere else you can put it, but you have to choose a good dentist if you want good work. When you think of TEETH, think of PARKER.
