

MINING PEOPLE BUILDING ROAD

Passage From Black Eagle
Deposit to Lotz-Larsen
Property Goes Ahead

Engineer H. H. Lotz, of the Lotz-Larsen Mining company was in Salem Thursday, having been at Portland, looking up more machinery for the mining operations on the Little North Fork of the Santiam, near where Gold creek enters that stream.

Also, some of the Vancouver, Wash., men interested in the development of that property were in Salem, having just made a trip by auto to that mining property—or at least as far as the Black Eagle mine.

They say the work of building the wagon road from the Black Eagle mine to the Lotz-Larsen property is now 10 to 15 per cent finished.

The managers of the company, finding they could get no help for the present year from the county, have themselves undertaken the extension of the road to their camp house and the site of their mill, which is also under construction.

The extension of this road, including the putting of a new bridge across Horn creek, will cost $5000 to $6000, and it will take about 60 days more to complete it.

Then one may be shipped by wagon and truck from the mine the mine the year through; and good loads hauled, if a little draining and rocking or graveling can be done for several miles west of the old Elkhorn postoffice.

With the reduction of the ores at the mine, it is thought the helping in this way may be made profitable. If so, that will mean the opening of other mining properties in that district, and their actual operation; a thing that would be impossible without this wagon road extension which the Lotz-Larsen people have undertaken at their own expense.

Large sums of money have been expended in the past, in getting the wagon road as far as the Black Eagle mine, and the part of the road from Elkhorn east will be in condition to be used at any season, for it has a rock bottom nearly all the way; a good deal of it being blasted out of the solid rock along the sides of the mountain rising sheer from the bed of the Little North Fork of the Santiam, on the north side of that stream.

To Help Nature Shed a Bad Complexion

Beauty devotees are enthusiastic over the rejuvenating qualities of ordinary mercurized wax. Nothing discovered with in recent years accomplishes so much, so quickly, without harm or inconvenience. The principle reason for its wonderful merit is that it works in harmony with physiological laws. Instead of hiding complexion defects, it removes them. It actually takes off the aged, faded, sallowness, freckled or blotchy surface skin, gently and gradually. This is Nature's way of renewing complexions. When the natural process is retarded, because of defective circulation of nerve force, mercurized wax comes to the rescue and hastens the skin shedding. The new complexion which appears is a natural one, youthful, healthy, exquisitely beautiful. If you've never tried mercurized wax, get an ounce of it at the drugstore, use nights like cold cream, washing it off mornings—and have the surprise of your life!

Another natural beautifying treatment—for wrinkled skin—is to bathe the face in a lotion made by dissolving an ounce of powdered azoxide in a half pint of witch hazel. This is remarkably and almost instantaneously effective.

BITS FOR BREAKFAST

Fair for the fair.

And fair for the prunes; and that's fair enough.

The Statesman has a sample of the first cook of sulphite of the new Salem paper mill; "blow-off" at 3 o'clock yesterday morning; the kick-off for that part of the big mill. It looks good.

In a very few days now the whole mill will be running regularly on orders that are already in for the output—and at last the money will be coming in as well as going out.

A straw vote collected among the textile workers of the country on the presidential race resulted in a total of more than 92 per cent for Harding and a little less than 8 per cent for Cox. What do the little less than 8 per cent expect? Do they want to lose their jobs? Or do they want to work under Democratic free trade in competition with the labor of Japan, China, India and Europe? There is every reason why the vote of the textile workers should be 100 per cent for Harding. And just as much reason why it should be the same with all other voters in the United States—for no man lives or works to himself alone in this country. We are all in the same boat, and we all go up or go down together.

The Oregon exchanges of The Statesman are full of news of people coming to the state fair with their exhibits. Everybody is coming.

There will not be enough beds in Salem; but there should be no vacant beds next week. Every Salemite should do as much as possible to sustain Salem's reputation for hospitality; then all can have clear consciences.

Candidates Get Space in Pre-Election Book

The voters pamphlet to be devoted to the interests of candidates procuring space in the booklet and which will be distributed throughout the state before the November election will contain approximately 50 pages.

The Republican state central committee has made arrangements for four pages for arguments in behalf of the entire Republican ticket and candidates have procured space as follows:

Harding and Coolidge, Republican nominees for president and vice president, eight pages; Cox and Roosevelt, Democratic nominees for president and vice president, seven pages; Watkins and Calvin, Prohibition candidates for president and vice president, five pages; Debs and Stedman, Socialist candidates for president and vice president, five pages; Cox and Gilhaus, Industrial-Labor candidates for president and vice president, eight pages; Robert N. Standfield, Republican candidate for United States senator, four pages; George E. Chamberlain, Democratic candidate for United States senator, two pages; Thomas A. Hayes, Independent candidate for United States senator, one page; W. C. Hawley, Republican candidate for representative in congress from the first district, one page; C. N. McArthur, Republican nominee for representative in congress from the third district, one page; Esther Lovejoy, Democratic-Prohibition nominee for representative in congress from the third district, two pages; Sam A. Koser, Republican nominee for secretary of state, one page.

West Salem Coming to Front With Big Strides

West Salem is coming to the front these days, decidedly.

VACATION IS OVER

Again the school bell rings at morning and at noon; again with tens of thousands the hardest kind of work has begun, the renewal of which is a mental and physical strain to all except the most rugged.

The little girl that a short time ago had roses in her cheeks, and the little boy whose lips were then so red who would have insisted that they had been "kissed by strawberries", have already lost something of the appearance of health.

Now is a time when many children should be given a tonic, which may prevent much serious trouble. No other is so highly to be recommended as Hood's Sarsaparilla, which strengthens the nerves, perfects digestion and assimilation. It aids mental development by building up the whole system.

Equally good as a medicinal preparation are Hood's Pills, which are so well adapted for both children and adults. In small doses they are a gentle laxative, in large doses an active cathartic.

G. M. Douglas, the contractor, is to start immediately on the construction of a beautiful new home, on the main street, in West Salem. The house is to be a five-room bungalow with colonial style architecture and is to be one of the finest residences newly constructed on either side of the Willamette. It will cost in the neighborhood of $6000. Mr. Douglas is already a resident of the west side and he has recently sold his old home over there.

There is this to be said in favor of an Airedale dog—he always looks as if he did not care.
