

SOCIETY

By La Von Coppock

MR. W. C. Hawley was invited by a committee composed of Mrs. Raymond Robbins, Mrs. Mary Roberts Rinehart and Mrs. Richard Edwards to attend the convention at Marion, O., October 1 to hear Senator Harding present his convictions on matters of particular interest to women, but was unable to attend.

THE tri-annual state board meeting of the Daughters of the American Revolution was held at the old McLoughlin home in Oregon City, Saturday, September 25.

Chemeketa chapter of Salem is represented on the state board by the following: Mrs. Seymour Jones, regent of Chemeketa chapter; Miss Edith E. Benedict, state recording secretary; Mrs. Chester C. Clark, state chairman of the program committee; Mrs. Homer Gouley, state chairman of the badge committee.

The scene of the meeting was the old McLoughlin home which now stands in a small but beautiful park donated to Oregon City by Dr. John McLoughlin. The business session took place in the spacious dining room of the old mansion, and the sumptuous banquet, which was a pleasing feature of the occasion, was served in Dr. McLoughlin's private room on the first floor. This room has been preserved, as to the papering and other features, as nearly as possible as in the days of the "Father of Oregon."

Mrs. Amanda Rinehart of Rainier chapter in Seattle was present and gave many pleasant reminiscences of her girlhood, she being a playmate of Dr. McLoughlin's daughters.

Mrs. E. V. Emery Dye, author of "McLoughlin and Old Oregon," spoke on the Old Doctor, a benevolent despot, stern and exacting to those under his command, and kind and helpful to all in need, whether travelers or immigrants from beyond the Rocky Mountains. The historic house in which the banquet was held was the first large house built in Oregon, in 1846, with nails and locks, glass and even firebrick for the fireplaces all brought out in Hudson bay trading ships from London. Some of the doctor's uncles, the Frasers, fought against the colonies in the Revolutionary war, and one was killed in the battle of Saratoga, but the doctor always abhorred war and in the friction over the boundary in 1846 did all he could to keep the peace. In his last years Dr. McLoughlin proudly boasted, "I prevented a war. I am sure I prevented a war between the United States and England." It is certain that his conciliatory attitude did much to allay hostile feelings in Americans coming to Oregon in the early days. The doctor died in this house September 3, 1857.

Americanization and means to further this important task assumed by the Daughters of the American Revolution as well as by many other woman's clubs, was the keynote of the business session. Child-welfare was also dwelt upon at considerable length as this organization realizes that the children of today are the citizenry of tomorrow.

Mrs. Oscar Bowers has had as her guest during the week Mrs. John Shunk and Mrs. Sam Moreton of Portland.

Wednesday Mr. and Mrs. Rockey E. Mason and Mr. and Mrs. John French motored from Albany to attend the state fair.

James E. Howet, of Klamath Falls, was in Salem during the week to attend the automobile exhibit at the state fair.

Rev. C. L. Reynolds, pastor of the Christian church at Corvallis, visited friends in the city during the week.

Rev. R. L. Hutchinson, of the Methodist church at Oakland, spent Wednesday in Salem.

At the residence of I. L. Cleave, 1225 Norway street, Wednesday, Sept. 22, at 6 p. m., Ralph J. Squires, of Spokane, and Miss Elizabeth Thomas, of Spokane, were united in marriage, Dr. W. C. Kantner officiating. Only a few intimate friends were present. Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served after which the young couple took the train for Portland and other cities which they were planning to visit. Mr. and Mrs. Squires are thinking of making Salem their home.

Monday evening at the Stadium, local music lovers welcomed the Portland Symphony orchestra, and Mae Dearborn Schwab, soloist, with ecstatic enthusiasm.

Carl Denton, a former Salem man and brother of Walter Denton of this city, directing the perfectly trained orchestra with creditable artistry, was the recipient of much commendation. The program was unusually attractive in its arrangement, and the offerings of the soloists were well received.

Portland folk who motored here for the day, and to attend the orchestral concert in the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. Warren E. Thomas, Mrs. John F. Logan, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Bushong, Dr. and Mrs. A. T. Tison, Mrs. Henry Ladd Corbett, Mrs. W. D. Wheelright, Mrs. A. B. Ayer, Mrs. Frank Cobb and Mrs. A. F. Kerry.

Among the Salem people who were present were Mr. and Mrs. John J. Roberts, who entertained in their box Mrs. Donald Spencer, manager of the orchestra, Judge and Mrs. Lawrence T. Harris and Mrs. Carlton Smith occupied a box together. The George Rodgers and Mrs. Henry Meyers were interested spectators. Paul Wallace's party was Mr. and Mrs. George Hug, Miss Helena Willet and Miss Edna Sterling. Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Bishop, Judge and Mrs. Bean and Miss Grace Bean and Miss Sally Bush, who entertained 20 members of the younger contingent in honor of her cousins, the Misses Charlotte and Eugenia Zieber, were occupants of box 4.

Miss Jean Durrell of Portland, formerly supervisor of official testing of the O. A. C. dairy department at Corvallis, and George Everett Manning, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Manning of this city, were married September 27 in Portland, Rev. J. J. Straub officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Manning are both well known here, Mr. Manning being an overseas veteran, and Mrs. Manning a volunteer nurse during the war. Both are former students of the agricultural college, where Mr. Manning is a member of the Kappa Theta Rho fraternity. The young people will make their home in Portland.

At the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Nye on Saginew street, Miss Lois Nye entertained the Epworth league of the Leslie church Friday evening. The rooms were adorned with blue and white chrysanthemums. About 60 guests were present to enjoy ruck, and other games. Refreshments were served by Messrs. Fred Aldrich, Leslie Springer and Floyd McIntire.

Mrs. Blanche M. Jones, of the Oregon Teachers' Monthly, will leave this evening to attend the institutes in eastern Oregon. She will visit The Dalles, Condon, Enterprise and Baker.

Decorations of red and white asters, the class colors, formed the background for the annual tea with which the junior girls of Willamette entertained the freshman girls when Mrs. William E.

Kirk opened her home to about 100 girls Tuesday. In the receiving line were Miss Emma Shanafelt, Miss Elsie Gilbert and Miss Loriel Hlatchoff. Mrs. Kirk was assisted by Miss Lucille Tuskier, Miss Lois Warner and Miss Dorothy Buckner.

A huge cake, topped with five red candles announced the fifth birthday of Donald Gregor Bligh Friday evening at a dinner in the little fellow's honor at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Bligh. Covers were laid for his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Bligh; Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Shortridge, Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Bligh, Jack Shortridge and Donald Gregor Bligh.

This evening Mrs. E. A. McElvain will be hostess for a small dinner. Nasturtium and ferns, in a graceful art basket, will be used as a motif around which will be covers for Mr. and Mrs. Louis Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Cady, Mrs. Emma Kline and W. Burmann of Albany, besides the host and hostess.

Bowls of autumn crucus were used as decorations when Mrs. William Burghardt, Jr., entertained Monday in honor of Mrs. Donald Spencer, manager of the Portland Symphony orchestra, with a luncheon. Covers were laid for Mrs. Spencer, Mrs. C. F. Bishop, Mrs. John Roberts, Mrs. William Everest Anderson, Mrs. Clifford Brown, Mrs. Fred Thielson and the hostess.

Friends of Miss Helen Negabauer will be interested to learn of her marriage to Charles Smith, which took place in Portland last night. Miss Negabauer is well known in Salem where she was graduated from the local high school with the class of 1916.

Mr. and Mrs. George Cotton, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Durent and Miss Alma Dehl of The Dalles, who have been here for the state fair, were entertained at a small dinner Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Cotton.

ton of Salem Heights. A quaint Indian bowl, filled with vari-hued zinnias, centered the table where covers were placed for 10.

Mrs. H. M. Cummings, formerly Miss May Elliott, who was a resident of Salem in the early '70s and who is a granddaughter of Capt. William Hall, a retired capitalist of Peoria, Ill., has been the guest of Mrs. A. V. Davidson during the week.

Miss Marion Roberts and Miss Edna Newberry spent Tuesday in Corvallis with friends.

Mrs. Ralph White entertained the little folk who are members of her junior dancing class with a dancing party at Moose hall yesterday afternoon. Wednesday Mrs. White will open her winter classes with a formal dance at Moose hall.

Miss Helen Miller of Tillamook and Miss Nora Miller of Portland spent the week in Salem. Miss Miller is county dairy agent for Tillamook county and was in charge of a booth in the Stadium. Both are graduates of O. A. C.

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Domagolla of Astoria, who have been guests for the week at the home of Mrs. Domagolla's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Davey, will motor to who will spend the week in that city with friends and relatives.

The O. A. C. rest room at the state fair is always a most attractive place. Mrs. David Wright was in charge of the booth this year, and assistant hostesses were from the Salem O. A. C. club.

Miss Florence Elgin, who is studying pipe organ under Professor Roberts, went to Portland yesterday to hear the grand opera at the Heilig.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Webb have their guest, Mr. Webb's father, Mrs. Frank Davey, will motor to Astoria today accompanied as far as Portland by Mrs. Davey.
