CHAMPIONS BATTLE FOR WORLD TITLE

Brooklyn and Cleveland to Open World Series Contest in New York Today, Weather Permitting

ALL SEATS TAKEN FOR INITIAL BALL GAME

Betting Is Held in Favor of Indians While Field Gives Dodgers Advantage

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—The Brooklyn Nationals and the Cleveland Americans open their world series battle at Ebbets field tomorrow afternoon, weather permitting. Twinkling stars in a cloudless sky early tonight seemed to bear out the forecasters' preliminary announcement of "fair" weather with moderate winds but a fairly heavy rainstorm came at nine o'clock tonight, the weather man said the storm was due to low atmospheric pressure and promised that it would be clear although somewhat cooler tomorrow, for the initial battle.

The playing field of the Brooklyn park has been maintained for some time and every reserved seat disposed of, while thousands of disappointed fans are engaged tonight in a fruitless hunt for speculators or friends who will sell or loan them a ticket for at least one game.

The Brooklyn players, winners of the National league pennant, are resting tonight. The Cleveland team is due in this city early tomorrow. Manager Robinson and every member of the Brooklyn team express firm belief in their ability to defeat their American league rivals, while Trip Speaker and his teammates hold the opinion that the world series banner will be hoisted next spring in the Cleveland park.

Crowds Must Give Features
Their attitude toward the baseball classic and players who participate in the struggle is an angle which cannot be forecast. General opinion among close followers of the game leans to the belief that the thousands who will file into Ebbets' field tomorrow will be perhaps more observant and critical in their comment upon the play but beyond that, it was said by baseball enthusiasts, the recent season's sampling, in view of the fact that the popularity of the series unless some unfortunate occurrence should arouse suspicion afresh in the minds of the fans.

All Seats Are Sold
Certainly the climax of the baseball season has shown no loss of interest as far as the fans of Greater New York are concerned. Every reserved seat at the Brooklyn park has been sold for the series. Sunday President Charles Ebbets stated that he had been obliged to return more than $60,000 in checks and currency to those who had hoped to purchase seats for the four games for which the Brooklyn club printed reserve coupons.

Those in charge of the press stands reported that at noon today more than 400 applications were on file from newspaper writers from all parts of the country. About 300 similar requests were received during the series between Brooklyn and Boston in 1916.

The sale of unreserved seats in the field stands and bleachers began at 10 a. m. Announcement was made yesterday that the plan to sell the seats today and as a result a line of fans was formed several hours before the time set for opening the sale. A woman had the honor position at the head of the line. When asked how early she had come she replied: "Early enough to get first place in line."

These seats sold at two dollars for the field stands and $1 for the bleachers, plus the war tax. Purchasers were permitted to buy seats for any one or all of the games to be played at Ebbets' field. It was estimated that with all seats sold and all available standing room occupied approximately 24,000 persons could see the games.
