M'NARY STRONG FOR MR. BROWN

United States Senator Endorses Candidate for Supreme Court Bench

A strong endorsement of Judge George M. Brown in his candidacy for the supreme court at the election Tuesday of this week, is given by United States senator, Charles L. McNary. Judge Brown now holds the office by appointment. Senator McNary says: "In the usual confusion attending the closing days of a political campaign, the voters should not forget that an associate justice of the supreme court is to be selected by writing on the ballot the name of some desirable candidate. "Hon. George M. Brown, formerly attorney general, now occupying the position of justice of the supreme court, is a candidate for the office. For many years I have known Mr. Brown and have been in a position to know the character of his work, and I can cheerfully say that his public service has been exemplary, and in his private practice he has demonstrated very great ability."

Six Are Injured in Auto Accident

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 30.—Six persons were in a hospital tonight seriously injured as a result of an accident here today when two automobiles collided at a street intersection. George Tunkkamen, driver of one of the machines, was arrested on a charge of reckless driving, and is being held pending outcome of the hospital cases.

Miss Buena Cobb, a teacher in the Salem schools, was a spectator at the Oregon-California football game at Corvallis yesterday, and for the week-end is a guest of Miss Ruth Rosebraugh at the Delta Zeta house.

The various Parent-Teacher associations of Marion county are becoming unusually active and are taking a great interest in the general welfare of the students as well as in the upkeep of the school. Meetings are being held in which the school nurse problem and recreation work is given serious consideration.

The Hazel Green Parent-Teacher association meets Friday afternoon, in the school house. Mrs. M. L. Fulkerson, county superintendent, was present and addressed the gathering on "The School Work Outlook for the Year." It was a helpful address, in which she spoke of the benefit derived in the school work from the co-operation of the association, the right of the foreign born and obligations toward them.

This Parent-Teacher association have bought for the school, a football, two new pictures for the walls, and is putting up a volleyball set for the girls. It is the intention to standardize the Hazel Green school this year, and from all appearances the task will be accomplished.

The officers for the association were elected for the year at this meeting, as well as the delegates for the county Parent-Teacher association which will be held the Saturday before Thanksgiving in Salem.

Chemeketa Odd Fellows Have Annual Home-Coming

The members of Chemeketa lodge No. 1, I. O. O. F., celebrated their annual homecoming on Wednesday night at the hall which brought out the largest attendance of Odd Fellows of all similar events in the history of the lodge. Members from far and wide gathered to renew old acquaintances and to exchange reminiscences of the early days of Odd Fellowship in Salem.

Chemeketa lodge, the oldest Odd Fellow lodge in Oregon, numbers among its members men prominent in the early life of Salem.

Rev. C. H. Powell made the principal address of the evening, then followed short talks and reminiscences by John G. Wright, oldest living member of Chemeketa lodge, McKinley Mitchell, A. N. Moores, Frank Wrightman and others. Mr. Hicks entertained with a very enjoyable cello number, and Lyman McDonald gave two vocal selections which were enthusiastically received by the audience. Responding to the roll call, each member of the lodge present made a short talk. After the program a banquet was served.

ROLL CALL PLAN IS FORMULATED

Red Cross Campaigners Not to Begin Active Work Until November 11

Plans for the fourth annual Red Cross roll call are rapidly being formulated, according to a statement by Chairman Bruce McDaniel, who is in control.

"Active work will not begin until November 11," said Chairman McDaniel. "Salem has been divided into districts. Over each district it is planned to have a manager in charge of business matters. I possible we desire a business man to assume this responsibility. Each district is to have a worker's team which will visit each resident of the district assigned. It will report directly to the manager, who will in turn report to the Red Cross headquarters."

No attempt has been made to secure members for the teams or for the managers' positions, says Mr. McDaniel.

"We need the names of those persons who are interested and willing to give their time for such a great work between the dates of November 11 and November 25. Great aid will be given the committee if all Salem men and women who desire to co-operate will phone Red Cross headquarters, No. 756, and give their names to the chairman of the roll call. It is necessary to have 122 women and 41 men to form the required teams."

Burcher Arrested in Portland for Forgery

PORTLAND, Oct. 30.—Herman Burcher, alias Charles Ansbach, was arrested here tonight just after he had cashed a check for $199 on the Continental National Bank of Los Angeles in the purchase of a watch from a jeweler. The police said they believed the check to be spurious. At the police station officers found six new watches in Burcher's pockets indicating, they said, that he had made six purchases recently. A jeweler from whom he had purchased a watch earlier in the evening, became suspicious and trailed Burcher to the store where he was arrested. The police said Burcher had confessed to a number of forgeries, but denied that he had been in Los Angeles, whence his checks purported to come. He said he came here from Salt Lake.

No Candidate's Name on Ballot

THE selection of an attorney general for the State of Oregon to succeed George M. Brown, recently appointed to the Supreme Bench, must be made at the election Tuesday by writing in the candidate's name. This vacancy occurred too late to place candidates' names on ballot.

J. O. BAILEY
(Republican)
IS THE MAN

J. O. Bailey, Asst. Attorney-General for the past five years, conducted or participated in most of the important litigation handled by the Attorney-General's office, including:

The Hyde-Benson land fraud suits, resulting in the recovery for the State School Fund of approximately 14,000 acres of land valued at several hundred thousand dollars.
The Pacific Livestock Company case, whereby $125,000 was recovered for the state, and approximately 10,000 acres of land opened to settlement.
The Columbia River rate case (for Portland-Puget Sound), involving lower rates down the Columbia than over the Cascade.
Also the cases involving the constitutionality of the following state laws:

a—Workmen's Compensation Act
b—Ten Hour Factory Act
c—The Water Code
d—Minimum Wage Law

By Experience and Performance J. O. Bailey is Qualified for Attorney-General of Oregon

Choice of Attorney-General
Brown for Land Fraud Suits
As a witness in the Hyde-Benson cases, Attorney-General Brown testified:
"I saw that if I tried these cases personally, it was going to take all of my time . . . in the meantime, I saw it was possible to obtain an assistant attorney that I believed entirely qualified to try these cases, and I attempted to get the best lawyer in Oregon I could for the money allowed me to try the Hyde-Benson cases."
"With this end in view, I invited John O. Bailey to become one of my assistants. He had no political pull with me, so far as I was concerned, and was selected simply for his own qualifications."

Chapman Indorses Bailey's Candidacy
Is the Oregon Voter, October 23, C. C. Chapman says:
"Among the candidates to succeed George M. Brown as Attorney-General is his special assistant, who has been handling some of the most important of the state's litigation. J. O. Bailey of Portland. Mr. Bailey has demonstrated marked ability in the cases he has handled in behalf of the state, and his candidacy is entitled to serious attention on his proven merits and capacity."

Why Stand for Them Any Longer?

The Remedy is simple: Vote the Republican ticket on November 2 and put the United States Government on a sane, constructive, protective basis, in the hands of competent men.

Here's the Way Out.

"The Republican party reaffirms its belief in the protective principle and pledges itself to a revision of the tariff as soon as conditions shall make it necessary for the preservation of the home market for American labor, agriculture and industry."—Republican Platform.

"I propose to do all in my power, if elected, to restore the Protective Tariff and stop the dumping of cheap foreign goods and agricultural products on the American market in competition with and to the great detriment of our farmers and workers."—Robert N. Stanfield.

Harding and Coolidge need a Republican Senate and House to re-enact a Protective Tariff. Send them Stanfield and Hawley. Vote the Republican ticket straight

STANFIELD A WINNER

Oregon Sees Ruin Without Protection FARMERS ARE WORRIED

Robert N. Stanfield, Republican nominee for United States senator, left Portland last Saturday for eastern Oregon to continue his campaign tour.

He took with him two interesting exhibits. He had bought them both over the counters of a grocery store in Portland. One was a six-pound can of Argentine beef. The other was a cube of New Zealand butter.

"The Democratic Underwood tariff law permits the importation of this Argentine beef, duty free, to compete with Oregon beef in its own home market, at prices so low that the Oregon cattle raiser could better afford to give away his herds or leave them to perish on the range in winter than even to try to meet them, for that cannot be done. "It is the same with wheat. Oregon wheat raisers have their warehouses bursting with grain because there is no market for it. And the reason that there is no market is because Canadian wheat is being dumped into this country, duty-free at prices the Oregon wheat grower can not meet and live, because it is below his actual cost of production.

Oregon Needs Protection
"The Oregon farmer, the Oregon stock man, the Oregon producer in all lines, must have protection. Under existing conditions it would be nothing short of disastrous to have a Democrat returned to the United States senate. A Democratic senate can mean only one thing; and that is a continuance of Argentine beef, New Zealand butter, Chinese eggs, Canadian wheat, Australian wool and mutton, underselling our own products in our own Oregon markets, at prices actually lower than we can produce them for in Oregon."
