

SOCIETY NEWS OF THE WEEK

the supervision of Mrs. Jean Park McCracken, of Portland, the latter being a pupil of Mrs. Thomas Carrick Burke, formerly of Portland, now of New York City. Miss White was presented several times with much success in Portland, and is continuing her work with her original instructor, the Whites motoring to Portland each week-end for that purpose.

Salem folk in Portland this week should not fail to drop in at the large gallery of the Portland art museum, for in it is an exhibition of miniatures as fine as anything to be seen in the big eastern galleries. It is one of the most attractive displays ever presented to the art lovers of Oregon. The miniatures are the work of Sidney Bell, and they depict a number of Portlanders of prominence. The exhibit will continue until and including November 15. Among the portraits are some grown-ups, but they are chiefly of children of leading families of the city. Mr. Bell is annually one of the foremost exhibitors at the state fair, so his work is not unknown to Salemites.

While the exhibit is one that connoisseurs can enjoy from the artistic standpoint, and while the coloring and richness of tone effects are undeniably a triumph, the fact that the subjects are well known makes the group of miniatures all the more interesting. The exhibition was shown recently in San Francisco, where it attracted wide attention and much favorable comment from art critics. The lifelike expression and the beauty of light and shadow effects are most charming.

The subjects shown include Jane Rockey, Sandy Lowengart, Nan Smith, Mary Alice Rockey, Judith Honeyman, Mrs. Martin Fitzpatrick, Mrs. Edmund C. Devreux and Mollie. Mrs. Edward Grelle, Burnie Hoffman, Max Wood, Mary Robertson, Mrs. C. E. S. Wood and Gertrude Kerr. In addition to the miniature exhibit at the art museum there are some beautiful water colors by Henry F. Wentz, showing some of Oregon's rugged scenery, from mountain and seashore spots of scenic loveliness. This artist has not only been represented at the state fair art department, but had some of his finest work on display at the Salem Arts League exhibit last year. There also are drawings by W. L. Barnes, formerly a student at the art school, and six oils by Miss Hope Avery of New York. These are worth while, and as the gallery is open on Sundays and daily, there doubtless will be a representative number of Salem folk who will view the collection.

Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Colony arrived in Salem Friday night from Choteau, Mont., where they go each year to pass the spring and summer on their ranch. The trip was made by motor.

Mrs. R. E. Anderson and Mrs. F. G. Bowersox were joint hostesses Friday night, entertaining at the home of the former in Moringside. Marigolds and autumn foliage beautified the rooms where five tables were arranged for the card games. High score trophies were won by Mrs. Ralph Glover and J. E. Brophy, consolations going to Mrs. E. Gillingham and H. S. Polsal.

This club, which is known as the Monday Bridge club, meets every fortnight for card sessions, and once each month an evening is devoted to the entertainment of husbands of club members.

Mrs. Ralph Glover will be the club's next hostess, entertaining Monday afternoon, November 22.

Friends here of Mr. and Mrs. Lamar Toose will be interested to learn of the recent arrival of a baby daughter in their home in Cambridge, Mass., where Mr. Toose is attending Harvard university. The little girl has been named Virginia.

Mrs. Grover Bellinger entertained with a prettily appointed luncheon Wednesday. Salem friends motoring out to the Bellinger residence for the affair. Pink cosmos were employed in the table decorations, the minor decorative details also bearing out this color note. Covers were laid for 14.

THE music-loving portion of the Capital city is eagerly looking forward to the initial concert of the trio, which the Salem Musical Bureau, under the management of Mrs. Everett Anderson, is giving. Harold Henry, noted American pianist, to be the first artist presented next Friday evening.

It is the aim of the women of the bureau, Mrs. A. N. Bush, Mrs. William H. Burghardt, Jr., Mrs. John J. Roberts, Mrs. Clifford Brown, Miss Elizabeth Lord and Mrs. Anderson, as well as the music teachers of Salem, to bring a number of celebrated artists to Salem each year if the patronage of the concerts this year warrant them doing so. It is their desire to bring musicians of note to the city at a price that will enable anyone who can afford a seat at a circus or vaudeville show, to hear artists of national repute, the season tickets for this year all being sold in a way that will place them within reach of every music-lover's pocket book.

Three hundred season tickets have been sold up to date. It is necessary to have five hundred subscribers in order not to have a deficit, and surely Salem can do this when a small town like Monmouth sold 600 tickets for the Minneapolis symphony orchestra recently.

Salem must have something to offer people of culture who come here to buy a home, beside jazz, dances and picture shows, which all amounts to this: Have you bought a season ticket to the Artists' Course? If not, do it now!

Harold Henry, who opens the season, is one of the most brilliant, the most serious and pleasing pianists of today, and his programmes are constructed to suit a variety of tastes. Nothing is more helpful than to hear a great artist's interpretation of what a student has labored over. Better music develops truer culture, and culture insures the substantial home life that is the backbone of every growing city.

It is the quality and amount of music that a community provides for its citizens that attracts and holds the newcomers from other places, who wish to invest their capital and purchase homes.

Following Henry comes Kathleen Parlow, the greatest living woman violinist, who will be presented at the Armory in February and last, Mme. Matzenauer, the world's greatest contralto, who will appear at the same place in April.

Mr. Henry will present the following programme: Preambulo and minuet from Partita in G Bach Gigue Vivaldi-Bach Sonata, Op. 31, No. 2, Beethoven 1, Allegro; 2, Adagio; 3, Allegretto. Etudes, Op. 25, No. 7, Op. 10, No. 7 Chopin Scherzo, Op. 20 MacDowell Keltic Sonata MacDowell Valley of the Bells Ravell Will O' the Wisp Palmgren Ballad, Op. 65, No. 5 Grieg The Dancing Marionette, Harold Caprice Espagnole Moszkowsky

Mrs. H. D. Trover returned yesterday from a two months' eastern trip that included her old home in Neville, Ohio, Cleveland, Akron, Chicago and other points of interest.

The regular fortnightly meeting of the Salem Arts League will be held next Tuesday evening in the auditorium of the public library, a program of much interest to be presented at that time.

At high noon today Miss Gertrude Tasto will become the bride of Morris Richter at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Tasto, on the Garden road, Rev. George H. Koehler performing the ceremony. The service will be very simple, and only close relatives and friends will be in attendance.

At 4 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Richter will leave for Washington, D. C., where they will make their future home. Mr. Richter being an employe of the government in that place.

Mrs. Sara Brown Savage, who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. C. B. Brown, since last June, in Bangor, Me., has returned home. Her daughter, Miss Odell Savage, is taking post graduate work at Wellesley college, graduating last June from Willamette university.

Friday evening in the Assembly hall of the Kimball school of Theology, an informal reception was held in honor of Mrs. Henry James Talbot, who, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Luther F. Steele of Portland, has been making preparations for several days for her intended removal from Salem.

The reception was tendered by the Kimball student body, together with the faculty, resident alumni and the Luella Kimball club. William Nichol was chairman of the evening and enlivened the occasion by his cheerful spirit and native Irish sense of humor. A short program was rendered, including several selections by the Kimball chorus. Prayer was offered by Rev. H. N. Aldrich. Brief addresses, taking the form of a symposium of appreciation of what Mrs. Talbot's presence has meant to the different departments of the school, were made by Prof. Edwin L. Sherwood and Prof. E. S. Hammond of the faculty; by C. M. Keefer of the alumni; by Mrs. Minnie Marcy Bates of the Luella Kimball club, and by Alexander Hawthorne of the student body. The latter closed his remarks with the presentation to Mrs. Talbot of a sterling silver vase as a token of appreciation from the entire "Kimball" family. Mrs. Talbot responded in a brief speech full of grace and

THE LITTLE HOUSE

By Gertrude Robison Ross

The Little House is white and low
With purple asters at the door,
And flower beds—where pansies grow—
And daffodils have bloomed before;
And tiny lawn so cool and sweet
It must have grown for children's feet.

The Little House is warm and light
There is a hearth where dreams are born;
There white hopes fold their wings at night
To wake refreshed each scented morn;
And from her frame of russet brown
A pale Madonna watches down.

Friend Omar of the silver tongue
And golden heart, all wise men know
That fairer logic there is none
Than which you sang; but oh! and oh—
No book of verses 'neath the boughs
Could tempt me from the Little House!

tender memories.

Mrs. Talbot came to Salem six years ago, when her husband, the late Dr. Henry James Talbot, became president of Kimball School of Theology. In these years she has endeared herself to a very large circle of friends. Since the death of Dr. Talbot she has decided to make her future home in Portland, and in accordance plans to leave Salem tomorrow.

Mrs. G. W. Laflar was hostess to the P. E. O. Sisterhood Thursday afternoon, entertaining on the occasion of the regular meeting date. A feature of the afternoon was the presentation of a paper, "The Man With the Glove," by Titian, by Mrs. Gerald Volk. An impromptu musical program was given, followed by the luncheon, for which the members circled several small tables which were attractively appointed and centered with small clusters of chrysanthemums, the same blossoms in white and yellow perfecting a decorative scheme throughout the house.

Mrs. C. B. McCullough will be the next hostess when the P. E. O.'s meet in a fortnight.

Making up a jolly crowd to motor down to Portland Friday to witness the football game between Washington high school and Columbia university, were the following: Miss Mabel Ackerman, Miss Mary West, Miss Ruth Page, Miss Nellie Rowland, and Messrs. Frank Deckabach, Frank Reinhardt, Donald Davidson, Roland Reinhardt and Kenneth Wilson.

About 100 couples were in attendance at the first dance of the Cheriens, given Friday night at Drexland auditorium, which was given in honor of the girls who assisted the organization the past two years on the official float entered at the Portland Rose show; and for Cheriens, their wives and feminine friends exclusively. Hunt's orchestra furnished the music.

The following girls were honored: Miss Margaret White, Miss

Valeria Briggs, Miss Letha Wilson, Miss Gretchen Brown, Miss Maude McCoy, Miss Alice McClellan, Miss Maxine Buren, Miss Mary Hayne, Miss Dorothy Patterson, Miss Elsie Brudner, Miss Marjorie Mellinger, Miss Helen Rose, Miss Edna Ackerman, Miss Annabelle Golden, Miss Mildred Gill and Miss Margaret Griffith.

R. P. Boaz of Reed college, who was scheduled to speak at the November meeting of the Salem Woman's club, will not be present on the date, which falls on next Saturday, Mrs. W. Everett Anderson, who is in charge of the Americanization program that is to be featured, learned recently, Mr. Boaz, who is becoming looked upon as authority on his subject, is at present in the east, where he is actively engaged in Americanization work, his field covering New York city, Boston and the Atlantic states. He was a lecturer at the state federation meeting in Enterprise this year, and proved so interesting that the Salem women present at that time conceived the idea of bringing him to Salem.

In his place will come Dr. Philip A. Parsons of the University of Oregon extension, whom Mr. Boaz napped and recommended.

The following from the Oregonian will be of much interest: "One of the most important of Saturday's smart events will be the tea to be given tomorrow by

Mrs. Lee Hoffman and Mrs. Ferdinand Smith in compliment to Miss Bertha Young of Reed college, who has just returned from England, and for Miss Cornelia Marvin, state librarian. At the tea table will be Mrs. T. L. Eliot and Mrs. F. R. Strong, Mrs. O. A. Lyman and Mrs. Elliott Corbett. Assisting will be Mrs. Antoine G. Labbe, Mrs. Lee Hawley Hoffman, Mrs. William Wheeler, Mrs. Clarence Olmstead, Mrs. S. M. Meers, Jr., Mrs. Milton Werschkul, Mrs. Clarence Hoffman and Miss Ruth Eliot.

Governor and Mrs. Ben W. O'cott and their sons returned last night from Portland where they spent the day with the Oswald Wests.

The next dance to be given by the Elks club will be Tuesday night in the club ball room, members their wives and feminine friends, happily anticipating the event, which will be the second dance this season.

Mr. and Mrs. Claybourne Walker, of Newport, who have been the house guests of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. W. Connell Dyer, for a week or more, left Friday morning for Portland, where they will pass six weeks with friends and relatives, before going on to southern California, where they will spend the greater part of the winter."
