either misplaced or destroyed, so that nothing was done at the time.

After receipt of a second unsigned letter which "they believed emanated from the Sands family," Mr. Thompson said, Mr. Bolling had told him Tucker Sands had made "an urgent demand that he (Bolling) see the president and use his influence with the president to have activities of the department of justice stopped and the prosecution against Sands dropped."

"Sands," the statement continued, "was under federal indictment charged with violation of the banking act. On advice of Mr. Thompson, Mr. Bolling wrote a letter to Sands telling him that while he regretted he had become involved with the government, he could not and would not approach the president.

All Checks Disapproved Charge Investigation by the department of justice was then ordered at Bolling's repeated request, Mr. Thompson said.

Pre-war transactions between Mr. Bolling and Tucker Sands, which "aggregated not more than $300" were mentioned, and in this connection Mr. Burke's report said Mr. Bolling had produced his check stubs and other documents, "which after investigation proved to be transactions outside of and prior to the date on which Sands charged Downey paid over a sum of money, part of which he charged was given to Mr. Bolling."

"Bank accountants from the department of justice traced out all checks, notes, drafts and other papers," the report said, "and failed to find anything that corroborated the statement of Sands," adding "in the belief of Mr. Thompson, it was blackmail engineered by Sands to force Mr. Bolling to intercede with the president to save Sands from further prosecution."

SCOUTS READY FOR WHISTLE

Boys Ask Citizens to Cooperate in Gathering of Paper This Week

During the first few days of this week the Salem Boy Scouts are going to give the people of Salem an opportunity to do as little as they possibly can for a mighty worthy cause. At least that is what the paper drive will eventually amount to, as far as those who subscribe the paper are concerned.

However, to the Scouts, each little bundle of paper you put out on your front porch, providing it is all that is available, will add just that much toward the 200,000 pounds of paper necessary to help in raising the estimated budget for the Salem council, Boy Scouts of America.

The Boy Scouts are all ready for the drive. They are expecting every home and office in the city to contribute toward the success of this drive with large amounts of paper, which, of course, will mean lots of hard work in collecting for the Scouts, but Salem will find its boys willing at all times to do their share in putting the Scout program across.

The Salem council, Boy Scouts of America, is now in the midst of a gigantic financial campaign, in which it is attempting to raise an estimated budget of $7400. The money which will be derived from the paper drive, while expended under the direction of the Salem council, will not form a part of the annual budget, but will be expended for equipment necessary to establish branches of the scouting program in this city.

The Scouts have long done without equipment which is necessary to establish permanently a working program in this community, and every Scout is willing and anxious to do his very best to help gather enough paper to assure the purchase of this equipment. H. B. Churchill, who has the drive in charge, assures the people that the Scouts will do their best, as they always do, and his only request is that Salem citizens equal the effort put forth by the Scouts in putting this campaign across.

Electrical Contractors and Dealers to Meet

Plans are being forwarded for the Salem district meeting of the Oregon association of Electrical Contractors and Dealers, which will be held about December 7 at the Marion hotel. Men prominent in electrical industry will be present to address the meeting and questions pertaining to contractors and dealers thoroughly discussed.

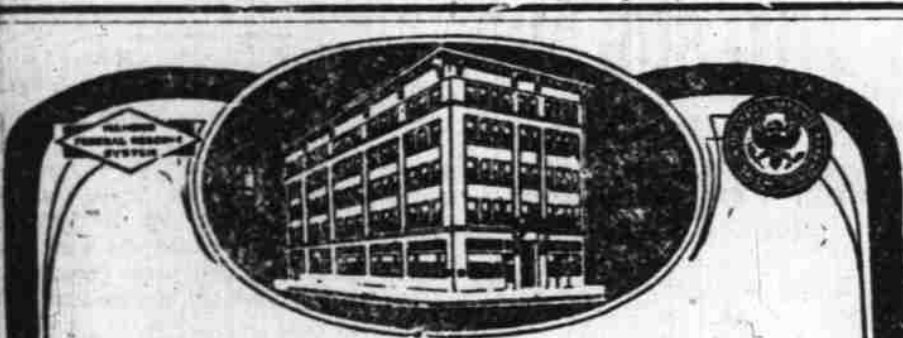

F. R. Whittlesey, state secretary for the association, was in the city Friday making arrangements for the conference, as this is the headquarters for the Salem district, which includes Polk, Marion and Linn counties. It is thought Salem district should have a representative on the governing board of the state association and there is considerable discussion as to whether the representative will be a Salem man or some other townsman in the Admiral Kerr said at an airman's wedding: "Women often marry men to reform them, and oftener succeed in this. The reformed husbands, however, are seldom grateful. My wife married me to reform me, a man said bitterly on a sea voyage. 'Did she succeed?' asked another man. 'You bet she did!' said the first one. 'Why, if I lived to be as old as Methuselah I wouldn't marry again.'"
