

SCHOOL GUIDE IS PUBLISHED

Annual Publication issued by State Superintendent Churchill

J. A. Churchill, state superintendent of schools, has issued the

$5,000 a Year

That is what a young man of our acquaintance is earning today. He is a vigorous, intelligent fellow, with a good education and a special training in business. "Special training did it," is what he says. The special training enabled him to make definite use of his other educational advantages. He received that special training in this school. The business world is kind to the properly trained young man or woman. Begin your training now. Call, let us talk matters over.

official educational directory of the state for 1920 and 1921, giving among other information the names and addresses of all superintendents, supervisors, principals, high school teachers and a list of the standard high schools of the state. Also there is included a list of all educational boards and all state and independent schools. The book will be distributed among school authorities of the state.

In the official directory of school districts, all of more than one room are embraced, and statistics for each cover the number of pupils in high school, the number in the grades, the number of high school and grade teachers, the number of years in the high school courses, the number of months of school in 1919 and 1920, and special tax levies in mills for 1920.

The table of superintendents, principals and high school teachers gives subjects taught, years of experience, years in present positions and annual salaries.

The directory lists the rules governing the standardization and accrediting of secondary schools as adopted by the state board of education on November 1, this year.

All apparatus shown in the science departments of Oregon high schools is listed and the titles of a large number of books suggested for high school libraries are printed.

In the standard high school directory of the book is shown the assessed valuation of each district, the special tax levy in 1919, total indebtedness of each district, including bonds, the number of teachers, enrollment of pupils and annual cost per high school pupil for the year 1919-1920.

NOTED LECTURER AND TRAVELER TO ADDRESS ROTARIANS

Dr. Lincoln R. Wirt, noted lecturer, late superintendent of education in Alaska, Red Cross commissioner to Europe, director of United States relief expeditions to near east who will speak at luncheon of the Salem Rotary club at Hotel Marion dining room on Wednesday noon.

Dr. Lincoln R. Wirt, who is a noted Chautauqua orator, one of the most eloquent living, and an author and great traveler, will address the Salem Rotarians at their regular Wednesday luncheon on Wednesday noon. The main dining room at the Marion will be used, and Rotarians have already taken a large part of the tickets for themselves and their wives at $1 a plate. Those that are left, as long as they last, will be sold to the general public at $1 a plate. The tickets may be had at Hotel Marion.

Thousands of roses of Sharon were dropped down from an airplane on the British headquarters at Jerusalem in recognition of the British feat of arms in having wrested that city from the Turks, by Dr. Lincoln Wirt when he was in Palestine on a tour of survey for the near east relief.

"I have visited Jerusalem before when the sacred shrines of Christendom were in the hands of the Turk," said Dr. Wirt, on his return recently, "but this time I found the city in the hands of the British, and it was a vastly different place. In my gratitude for the change I asked permission to fly over the city in an airplane and drop roses and letters on the transformed city. I have received many letters from British officers since then expressing their appreciation of the act. It was a little thing to do, but these little things count in cementing the friendship between the United States and England."

AT THE LIBRARY

In honor of children's book week which is being observed all through the United States, the library makes a specialty of children's books in this week's output.

"Leaders to Liberty," brief stories of the lives of the outstanding military leaders of the World War: King Albert, and Generals Joffre, Pershing, Haig, and Foch, all written by Mary H. Wade. This is the fourth volume of biographical stories which Mrs. Wade has written for boys and girls of the junior high age. The earlier volumes, all of which may be borrowed at the library are: "The Wonder Workers," "The Light Bringers," and "Pilgrims of Today."

"Fighters for Peace," a collection of briefer stories of the same heroes, described in the previous book and additional biographies of Gysener, Clemenceau, Lloyd George, Victor Emmanuel, Admiral Beatty, President Wilson and Generals Maude and Allenby, all told by Mary R. Parkman.

"The Story of General Pershing," from his boyhood in Missouri to his service in command of the A. E. F. in France, told by Everett Tomlinson, a favorite writer for boys.

"Boys' Book of Battles," how 11 famous battles were fought including four from the late war: Ypres, Verdun, the Second Marne and Argonne-Meuse, described by Chelsea Fraser.

"Uncle Sam, Fighter," some accounts of our way of preparing for war and the home services given in shipbuilding, in industry, and invention, written for young readers by William DuPuy.

"Joan of Arc," a new biography of "Maid of Orleans," by Laura E. Richards.

"The Sun of Quebec," the sixth of the French and Indian war stories by Joseph Altscheler.

"Boy Scouts in Glacier Park," a story of the mountain adventures of two boys, by Walter Eaton.

"Elephant Stories," a number of stories taken from St. Nicholas.

"King Arthur and the Knights of the Round Table," a new telling of these stories by Rupert S. Holland, charmingly illustrated by Lancelot Speed.

"Sergeant Jane," a story by Margaret Moore Matlack.

"Rainbow Island," a new story for boys and girls by Edna Brown.

"The oak Tree Fairy Book," favorite fairy tales told with a special effort to omit unpleasant stepmothers, cruel fathers and other evils that make some of the old tales harmful for children, prepared by Clifton Johnson.

"Our Little Quebec Cousin," the little French girl's experiences through the year, by Mary S. Saxe.

"Great Deeds of Great Men," a neat little book for intermediates of short stories of the greatest discoverers, explorers, and conquerors the world has known, told by Eric Corney.

"Indian Lodge Fire Stories," presented as if told by the medicine man to his grandchildren, written for the younger readers by Frank Linderman.

"Adventures of Sammy Jay" and "Adventures of Danny Meadow Mouse" are two new bedtime books for the little ones by Thornton Burgess.

For the youngest readers there are "The Jolly Polly Stories" by Gertrude Smith, "Peter and Polly in Autumn" by Rose Lucia and Palmer Cox's "Brownies' Latest Adventures."

Adult Books "Far-away Stories" by W. J. Locke.

copal church since this right was granted last May by the general conference of the church, Miss M. Madeline Southard reported here today. Miss Southard is president of an association of women preachers in the United States and Canada that represents 15 denominations. She is director of Evangelism of the Epworth League.

"The first woman preacher to be licensed in the Methodist Episcopal church under this ruling," Miss Southard said, "was Miss D.

Willis Caffrey of Wenatchee, Wash. She came from a family of preachers and at the age of nine wanted to preach. She had been acting as associate pastor of the First Methodist church at Wenatchee. Her pastor who was at the general conference telegraphed word of its decision, and she was licensed as a local preacher within two hours.

The same evening Miss Winifred Willard was licensed by the First Methodist church of Denver. At the time she was 2666 miles away in the east, but the inspiring Denverites called a meeting as soon as they heard the news and took action.
