Total	69,670,746.5	7,314,642.75	$733,280.70

February 26, 1919, according to a statement prepared yesterday by Sam A. Kozer, secretary of state. The aggregate of sales of gasoline for that month was 6,289,389 gallons. During the entire period from February 26, 1919 to November 1, this year, the total amount of gasoline sold in the state was 69,670,746.5 gallons, while the total amount of distillate sold was 7,314,642.75 gallons, and the tax paid on these amounts was $733,280.70.

The amount of gasoline and distillate sold month by month and the tax paid is shown in the following tabulation:

years and three months, is the third literary prodigy of recent fame, and this is his book. "The Eye of Zeitoun," a novel continuing the characters in "The Ivory Trail," by the same author, Talbot Mundy. "The Man of the Forest," a novel by Zane Grey. "The Skeleton Key," by Bernard Capes. "Mary Marie," by Eleanor H. Porter. "Conrad in Quest of His Youth," by Leonard Merrick.

Government Troops Sent to Coal Strike Zone

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 26.—Governor J. J. Cornwell announced here last night that he had asked the government to send federal troops into Mingo county, West Virginia, coal strike zone and added that as soon as the soldiers took charge he would ask President Wilson to declare martial law.

CAMP SHERMAN, Ohio, Nov. 26.—A provisional battalion of 400 picked troops is under arms here to leave for Williamson, W. Va., early tomorrow. A renewal of trouble in the strike district has resulted in the recall of federal troops to that section for police duty, it was announced.

Federal troops controlled the Mingo region for some time but were withdrawn about six weeks ago when the situation quieted down. Since that time many disorders have occurred, a number of persons have been shot and killed, and gangs of unidentified men have attacked coal properties.

The state government is totally unable to cope with the situation in Mingo county, the governor said. "I hope with all my heart," he added, "that martial law will be declared immediately after an investigation has been made."

Rate Schedule Is Held Up by Commissioners

The public service commission has issued an order suspending the drastic new rate schedule of the railroads on fuel wood, wood pulp and wood bolts, which was to become effective December 1. The schedule was filed by S. J. Henry, agent for the Pacific Coast Freight bureau.

NOT WORKING BUT TIRED OUT

When one feels always tired without working, or suffers from backache, lumbago, rheumatic pains, sore muscles or stiff joints it is not always easy to locate the source of trouble, but very frequently it can be traced to overworked, weakened or diseased kidneys. Mrs. L. Gibson, 12th and Edison St., La Junta, Colo., writes: "My kidneys were giving me a great deal of trouble for some time. I took Foley Kidney Pills and they helped me right away. Sold everywhere."

Why not prohibit the manufacture of pistols except for medicinal, mechanical and sacramental purposes? There has been a lot of loose handling of the weapons in this country the past few months.

AT THE LIBRARY

New Books.
"Russia as an American Problem," by John Spargo. It points out the great opportunity for American business men to get into Russia and "peacefully penetrate" it before Germany and Japan—in fact urges economic assistance on the basis of morality and political sagacity and in view of the danger of a Berlin-Tokio entente. Appendixes give much information on economic conditions and political affairs.
"Vagabonding Through Changing Germany," by the author of "A Vagabond Journey Around the World." Harry A. Frauck.
"History of the World War," the fourth volume of the five set by Frank H. Simonds. This volume covers the American people and the war, the great retreat, the battle of Arras, the French offensive, Italy and Greece, the Russian revolution, the submarine, the third battle of Ypres, Cambrai, Jerusalem, Caporetto, and Petain's achievement, Brest-Litovsk. The book is profusely illustrated.
"The World's Food Resources," a study of the food supply as it is and its possibilities for the future, by Joseph Russell Smith of Columbia university, the author of other studies on commercial geography.
"The Book of National Parks," a fascinating description of the parks as types of American scenery, with study of their formation and their meaning to the nation, by Robert Sterling Yard.
"The Model T Ford Car," by Victor W. Page. It includes the most complete practical treatise explaining the operating principles of all parts of the Ford automobile, with instructions for driving, maintenance and repairing; also complete instructions on the Fordson tractor.

"The Adolescent Girl," a study from the psychoanalytic viewpoint, a study less extensive than G. Stanley Hall's study of the boy in adolescence, by Phyllis Mary Blanchard.
"Talks to Sunday School Teachers," by Luther Allan Weigle.
"Foreign Missions Year Book of North America, 1920," a survey of missions covering the year 1919. Each mission field is briefly described as well as the five home bases; directory of foreign mission societies and statistics of the incomes are included. Of special interest are the lists of books.
"Etiquette Made Easy," by Edward Sumner Squier.
"How to Speak French Like the French," idioms and current expressions of the French language, together with a list of French proverbs, by Marie and Jeanne Yersin.
"Carpentry for Beginners," things for children to make from the little ones to the manual training boy, by John D. Adams.
"The Story of Porcelain," a story full of information about the process for children, by Sara Ware Bassett.
"The Story of Opal, the journal of an Understanding Heart," by Opal Whiteley as it appeared in the Atlantic Monthly this year.
"Daisy Ashford: Her Book," other stories by the youthful author of the "Young Visitors," by Daisy Ashford.
"The Young Immigrants," by Ring W. Lardner. A boy of 4
