

FLARES AND FLICKERS

The late Clyde Fitch undoubtedly was one of the most successful playwrights of his day. One of his most popular comedies was "The Frisky Mrs. Johnson," and it enjoyed a long run in New York. This play has been pictureized by Paramount with dainty Billie Burke as the star and it will be shown at the Oregon theater for three days beginning Sunday next.

This seem to be a comedy week for the Grand theater. Tuesday comes "The Bandbox," starring Dorris Kenyon; Thursday, Eileen Percy in "Beware of the Bride," and Saturday, Owen Moore in "The Poor Simp."

Did you ever forget your door key? Did you ever look under the doormat, where you were sure you had placed it, to find it gone? What would you do in an instance like this, particularly if nobody was at home? And particularly if you were a girl who had gone out against the wishes of your parents? See Mary MacLaren at the Bligh next Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Owen Moore in his latest "The Poor Simp," will be the main attraction at the Grand theater next Saturday and Sunday.

William Farnum will be the attraction at the Oregon theater today in "Drag Harlan," filmed from the story by Charles Alden Seltzer. Farnum is seen as "the two-gun man from Pardo," the most feared and notorious gun fighter the west ever saw.

With an eight-piece orchestra, a band and a lot of new dance steps and jokes, the Milo Merry Minstrels troupe will make their appearance at the Bligh theater for two days starting Tuesday. Jazz specials on cornet and trombone, violin numbers and jazz numbers ensemble make up part of the musical program of the act while two blackface comedians keep the audience in a paroxysm of laughter.

A new orchestra has been arranged for the Grand theater.

For the woman who follows with close interest all the changes of styles from month to month, "You Never Can Tell" should prove an exceptionally entertaining motion picture. It is the initial Bebe Daniels starring vehicle and will be shown at the Oregon theater for two days beginning Friday.

What would happen in a large city if a powerful ape with the brain of a human criminal of the lowest type, should be turned loose upon its citizens? Marshall Neilan has graphically answered this question in his latest photoplay, "Go and Get It," coming to the Liberty as a First National release on next Sunday. The story of this tremendous picture is one of the most exciting and entertaining offered the public in recent years.

"So Long Letty" is coming.

"Kismet" broke all house records for a single day's business at the Strand on Sunday. The crowds waiting to see the picture clogged Broadway to such an extent that the police ordered the management to keep the sidewalks open. The congestion resulted in 20 policemen being detailed to handle the situation.

Joe Martin, the original trained giant monkey will be shown in his latest two-reel comedy "The Prohibition Monkey" at Ye Liberty next Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Kenneth C. Beaton, known and beloved as K. C. B. by his millions of newspaper readers for his quaint humor and philosophy, witnessed the filming of all the exteriors taken at Lake Mohogah, N. Y., for the new Detrich-Beck production of Louis Joseph Vance's story, "The Bandbox," starring Dorris Kenyon, which comes to the Grand theater, beginning next Tuesday.

Football fans! A rousing college football contest—Yale versus Harvard—is one of the most exciting features of "A Romantic Adventure," in which Dorothy Dalton will be seen at the Oregon theater next Wednesday and Thursday. The participants are all ex-college football men. Charles Meredith, leading man for Miss Dalton, who acts as captain of the Yale eleven, was formerly a well known halfback at Carnegie Tech.

Dainty Florette, a wonderful equilibrist and willowy contortionist, as one of the big numbers on the bill at Bligh today.

L. V. Jefferson, who wrote the scenario of "The Kentucky Colonel," from the novel of the same name by Opie Read, proved himself a regular speed demon when, after completing the continuity for "The Kentucky Colonel," the latest Hodkinson feature photoplay which is showing at the Grand theater today and tomorrow, he turned out no less than eight original stories for the screen and one complete two-reel continuity in six days.

The International Revue is composed of seven men and one woman who indulge in live chats, songs and dances depicting in character more than a half dozen nationalities at the Bligh theater today.

Don't fail to see the beautiful Fox star Eileen Percy, opening at the Grand theater next Thursday in "Beware of the Bride," a farce comedy of lightning speed and packed with hilarious mirth from start to finish. A masked ball, mistaken identity, material mix-up, jealous rage, frantic pursuit, etc., etc.—they're all in it.

Murphy and Klein, in sport costumes, introduce songs and musical specialties on saxophone and piano at the Bligh today.

Beautiful Dorris Kenyon wins her right to a place in the screen firmament equalling the niche she holds in the esteem of her tremendous stage following by the most noteworthy achievement of her career as the star of "The Bandbox," the Detrich-Beck, Inc. production of Louis Joseph Vance's greatest mystery story, released by Hodkinson, which comes to the Grand theater, beginning Tuesday matinee.

"The Yellow Typhoon," fascinated by the priceless diamond which Karl Lygaard, an adventurer, shows her, stakes her entire gambling establishment in the Orient against the gem. Lygaard wins. The two set out for Manila, bent on an intrigue which had for its object the obtaining of plans of a valuable war invention. From this point the plot of "The Yellow Typhoon," the latest screen vehicle for Anita Stewart, which will be shown at the Liberty theater.

beginning today begins to move even more swiftly and thrillingly. The twin sister of "The Yellow Typhoon" is sent to Manila as a secret service agent and there meets her sister whom she had long thought dead.

Dolores Cassinelli, displaying remarkable versatility, portrays the dual role of Wanda and Lucille Hubbard in "The Web of Deceit," the Pathe feature announced for today at the Bligh theatre.

Although on the screen of the Liberty theatre next Thursday the fight scene in "Love, Honor and Obey" last but a few minutes, it required actually nine hours of struggle before the camera to enact them.

Chilly and White Aveline trees, ranging from two to nine years old, from which he sells both nuts and nursery stock. The trees begin bearing at four or five years and bear from five pounds for the first bearing year to 30 pounds per tree after the age of 10 or 12 years. The price of filberts run from 25 cents to $1 a pound. This production with the production of nursery stock makes the filbert a valuable orchard tree giving good returns. Mr. Ogden says that the filbert has one advantage over the English walnut as it does not suffer from the cold weather and frost as does the English walnut.

NUT GROWING HAS ATTENTION

Farmers in Dayton Vicinity Become Interested in Filbert Production

DAYTON, Or., Nov. 27.—(Special to The Statesman)—Farmers and orchard men around Dayton, Yamhill county, are becoming interested in the planting of filbert orchards.

It has been found by experience that western Oregon and western Washington in soil and climate are well adapted to the growth of these valuable nuts and that they produce as heavily in western Oregon and Washington as in England or any part of Europe. The trees should be planted on rich, well-drained river bottom and valley land, and should be pruned into tree form as much as possible.

A great acreage of land in eastern Yamhill county around Dayton and vicinity is well suited for the planting of filberts, being well drained river bottom and valley land.

H. G. Ogden of the Fir Brook ranch near Dayton has an orchard of two acres of Barcelona. Do

THIEVES RISK DALLAS, Or., Nov. 27.—(Special to the Statesman)—Thieves have been making themselves numerous in this city during the past week, stealing potatoes, chickens and other produce. It is believed by police authorities that the robbers hauled their plunder away in an auto truck.

The increased passenger rates are not reducing the honeymoon trips; but then, honeymoons are measured by time and not distance.

SALEM ARMORY

ANITA STEWART IN "THE YELLOW TYPHOON"

"YELLOW" because of her hair; "TYPHOON" because of the human wreckage she left in her wake. "THE YELLOW TYPHOON," they called her after the manner of the Orient, where she was notorious for her vampish escapades. With a kitten's purr but a tiger's heart her carnival of reprisals against the male sex was being carried to a whirl-wind conclusion, when
