SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application of two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.

Pianoforte Playing," a careful study for the student and teacher of piano, by Franklin Taylor. "Bedouins," by James Gibbons Hunter. Ecstasy, enthusiasm and beauty are here for the cultured lover of the essay who will pitch his tent in the delightful spots chosen in Bedouins. He will see entrancing glimpses of Mary Garden and others.

"Bad Results of Good Habits," a little book of essays humorous critical of some of our ideals of conduct, by a minister, John Edgar Park.

"Kindred of the Dust," by Peter B. Kyne.

"The Killer," a novel by Stewart Edward White.

"The Wind Between the Worlds," a story showing the reaction of varied group of people to the psychic question, by Alice Brown.

"Saint's Progress," an English story of a family shaken by its ideals of faithful and moral rectitude by the stress of war, by John Galsworthy.

Just the moment you apply Mentho-Sulphur to an itching, burning or broken out skin, the itching stops and healing begins, says a noted skin specialist. This sulphur preparation, made into a pleasant cold cream, gives such a quick relief, even to fiery eczema, that nothing has ever been found to take its place.

Because of its germ destroying properties, it quickly subdues the itching, cools the irritation and heals the eczema right up, leaving a clear, smooth skin in place of ugly eruptions, rash, pimples or roughness.

You do not have to wait for improvement. It quickly shows. You can get a little jar of Mentho-Sulphur at any drug store.

Globe Trotter Dolled Up With War Medals

Traveling around the world on foot accompanied by his faithful dog Leon, Henry J. Ferrier passed through Salem last week. With his chest covered with medals awarded in different countries of the globe, he entered the offices of the city treasurer and requested a statement which would verify his appearance in the city and the date on which he passed through. City Treasurer Rice granted his request, and his stay in the Capital city was said to be but an hour.

According to information which he furnished, Ferrier has been traveling for 30 years. Starting in September, 1890, from Paris, he is said to have traveled 205,000 miles through all the European countries, Asia, Africa, South and North America, Canada, Alaska and Siberian glacial mpuntains. The dog, which is a massive brute, was picked up by the traveler while in Alaska.
