PRACTICAL FARMING AND GARDENING

OR MAKING THE FARM PAY

MONEY-SAVING AND MONEY-MAKING METHODS

Throughout the text of this great book the reader is given the results of scientific research, coupled with successful experience, by use of only such expressions as can be readily understood by those who have not had a scientific training. Thus any farmer with ambition to make the most of his labor and realize the greatest returns for his investment will find in this volume a priceless guide for everyday reference.

Edited By
WILLIS MAGGERRALD

By An Eminent Array of Specialists

This work has been divided into departments, each covering subjects of vital importance, and each prepared by a specialist in his line, who has devoted his life of thought, study, experiment and practical experience to his special subject. The list of authors whose names are familiar to wide-awake farmers will be found on accompanying cut of book in connection with the subjects covered by each.

Following are expressions from a few of the hundreds of letters received from satisfied subscribers:

Tacoma, Wash., Mar. 25, 1920.
R. F. D. No. 1.
I am pleased to say that I received your book, "Practical Farming and Gardening," and consider it well worth the money, containing as it does some very valuable information. I must say I am more than satisfied. It will be very helpful to me, as I am practically a new beginner. Yours truly,
J. ELLIS.

Noti, Ore., Feb. 22, 1920.
R. F. D. No. 1.
I received the book, "Practical Farming and Gardening," in fine shape. I consider it a very fine present and wish you to accept my most sincere thanks for it. Your paper is very good, too.
Wishing you every success, I am
Yours very truly,
E. E. KNIGHT.

Turner, Ore., Apr. 5, 1920.
In answer to your letter of March 18, 1920, will say your book, "Practical Farming and Gardening," reached me in satisfactory condition and I like it very much.
The Pacific Homestead is appreciated also and I think it the leading paper of the West. I would like to read an article on "Commercial Fertilizer," as many farmers are using it.
Respectfully,
O. O. BATES.

Goldendale, Wash.,

Enclosed find postal note for $1.25 to pay for my subscription.
I was away from home all winter is the reason that I did not renew more promptly, as I enjoy and prize The Homestead highly.
W. E. HORNIBROOK.

Vashon, Wash., R. F. D.,
March 2, 1920.
Please find enclosed $1 which finishes paying for my subscription to The Pacific Homestead, and I'm sure more than delighted with the book you sent me, "Practical Farming and Gardening."
Yours truly,
R. THURSTON.

Elma, Wash., March 20, 1920.
I received your excellent book, "Practical Farming" and cannot sound its praises too highly. It contains exceedingly valuable information and was just the thing I was looking for.
I can also highly recommend The Pacific Homestead. It is one of the all-you-need weeklies on general farming. Book was received in fine shape.
Resp. yours,
W. HILES.

We believe that The Pacific Homestead is the best farm paper in the West. Our readers tell us it is the most helpful to the farmer, the fruitgrower, the stock breeder and dairyman, and the poultryman. The women like the Woman's page.

To read it means to do better farming. That means more money for the same labor and investment.

The constant exchange of ideas among farmers gives each reader the opportunity to copy the great successes of other farmers, and to avoid the costly mistakes some make. This is all important to every farmer. Therefore we believe that

Every Farmer Should Read The Pacific Homestead

We want you to send us the names of ten or twenty of your neighbors who you think should subscribe for this great paper. We will send them sample copies and give them an opportunity to subscribe.
