CELERY INDUSTRY IMPORTANT BASIC INDUSTRY

The celery industry is an important basic industry in the Salem district; already important, and likely to become vastly more so.

If the reader will turn to the communication of Roy K. Fukuda, the pioneer and outstanding grower of the Labish Meadows district, he will find that leader in the industry hoping for and looking forward to the time when the celery will make a $2,000,000 annual industry for that district alone.

And he very conservatively puts 5000 acres of that "beaver dam" land as the area that would make certain an industry of that magnitude.

If the reader will follow the other articles, he will realize that Mr. Fukuda himself has been getting more than $1500 an acre gross for his celery, grown on that kind of land. And, by the same sign, given enough growers of his skill and industry to handle that much land in celery, less than 1400 acres of the Labish Meadows land would be required to make it a $2,000,000 annual industry.

And very good celery can be raised on nearly any land we have in this district; even on our clay soils.

With the start that has been made, and with so much of the very best celery land to be found in the world available, there is no question but Marion county will remain in the lead in Oregon in the celery industry; and the growth that is now being made will likely be faster in the future.

Mr. Fukuda says there is no limit to the market demand for our celery; and he means the market demand for the fresh article.

The dehydration plant at Salem will need more and more celery, in supplying its expanding trade—to fill up its "line," and it is conceivable that all the 5000 Labish Meadows "beaver dam" land might be devoted to celery, growing as much to the acre as Mr. Fukuda produces now, and still not have any for the fresh market demand.

But if the reader will take his pencil and figure up that amount, he will find that it would be a good many train loads of celery.

It is well that the Labish Meadows celery growers are organizing for their mutual protection and benefit, and for increasing the number of acres of celery. This organization will maintain the quality of the product shipped to market, and its attractive appearance in the markets where it is displayed; and all this will help to maintain remunerative prices, and to extend the markets to take care of any increased acreage.

The Statesman hopes to report progress again next year in the celery industry, and to be able to say the growth has been greater than in the past year.

CHINESE AND ARGENTINE EGGS POURING INTO NEW YORK

Not only are Chinese fresh frozen and dried eggs being received at San Francisco, Portland and Seattle in great quantities, but the following from the Produce News of January 17 reports big shipments of Chinese and Argentine eggs arriving in New York City:

"Announcement last week of the first arrival of sterilized eggs from China has caused considerable comment from the trade. These eggs have been reconditioned and are selling at 58 to 60c. Just what they lost on reconditioning is not known. During the week Carl Ahlers received two cars of fresh eggs from China via San Francisco. These were not sterilized but arrived in good condition and are giving satisfaction."

"The Tupman Thurlow Co. this week unloaded from the steamer Deerfield 4,000 cases of fresh eggs which were not sterilized. These eggs were in such condition that they will not need recandling and they will be sold as they are. The cargo will not be completely unloaded until today and it is not possible to tell just what price they will bring. The eggs are considerably like the American product and will average 43 to 44 pounds net to the case.

"These eggs were packed in regular export cases, wire bound, and the breakage in transit was very little. Previous cargoes coming from Argentina have shown considerable breakage and given dissatisfaction. This is the flush season in Argentina as it is just opposite to the season in this country. If these eggs do well, other shipments will be brought here and it now looks as though prices would rise sufficiently high to cause further imports."

There is only one way, outside of a complete embargo on foreign eggs, to prevent their importation into this country from seriously injuring our great poultry industry, and that is to impose a high protective tariff duty on eggs. In the case of Chinese eggs, none of them ought to be allowed to be sold or served in the United States without being marked or displayed as such.

Every Oregon man and representative ought to be deeply interested, and ought to do his utmost in this regard, to the end that the poultry industry be built up to many times its present size in this state.

The Oregon Statesman has issued a very creditable 36-page Anniversary and Welcome edition, replete with illustrations and matter descriptive of the resources and industries of this section, perhaps the best issue of the many of its kind issued by that veteran publication, and one calculated to do much good for the community in an advertising way. They should be sent broadcast to eastern friends.—Capital Journal, Salem.

BITS FOR BREAKFAST

Push it along? Accelerate the celery industry. But remember that it takes capital and a great deal of labor—

And the richest land in the world needs $150 an acre a year of fertilizer, to make it produce celery as it ought to be produced.

Again, a copy of the Welcome edition of The Statesman requires 3 cents postage, if you send your own copy, which you should do.

And you may buy extra copies at the office at 20 cents each, and they will be mailed to any addresses you may furnish, without extra charge. Or just send in your addresses by mail or otherwise, and the copies you order will be promptly forwarded.

The extra copies will all be sold soon, at the present rate. The management gambled on a large sale, and printed a large number of extra copies; but the indications are now that the gambling would have been safe on a much larger number.

Tomorrow, representatives from the Salem district, including Mrs. W. P. Lord, will appear before the ways and means committee of the lower house of congress to present the claims for protective tariff duties of our flax and hemp industries. This effort is bound to succeed, and it will materially help in bringing a great development of these industries, centered at Salem. And the beginning of new enterprises in this line is only a few weeks off now.

Fighting in Ireland continues, of course, but the casualty list is not yet as large as that of Sunday automobile accidents in this country.

RESUMPTION OF TRADE OPPOSED

Senate Committee Hears The Arguments on Russian Trade

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Arguments for and against resumption of trade with soviet Russia were received today by the senate foreign relations committee; which also heard charges that the state department was maintaining a blockade against that country, although technically none was supposed to exist.

Speakers for organized workers in many lines appeared to support the resolution of Senator France, Republican of Maryland, which would enable American firms to accept gold of the old imperial Russian government, which is being offered by the soviet authorities in payment for foreign goods. They said resumption of trade would go a long way toward relieving the industrial depression which has thrown more than three million persons out of employment.

John Sparro of New York, who has written about Russian conditions, expressed the opposite opinion. In a statement which was admitted to the record, he declared that the renewal of trade "might easily prove the means of bringing about the collapse of our entire economic system," as vast credits would have to be expended.

Declaring that Lenin and Trotsky monopolized Russian trade, Senator Vandenberg, Republican of Connecticut, asked how it would be possible to work out plans for trade with Russia without dealing with them. Senator France said that "British statesmen have worked out a plan for the possession of the whole of Russian trade," and that he believed American statesmen had equal ability.

Charges that the state department maintained an actual blockade against soviet Russia were presented by Mrs. Harry A. Stanton Blatch and Miss Lucy Branham of the American women's emergency committee. They declared that the department had prevented their organization from sending clothing and foodstuffs to needy Russian children and that ships loaded had been prevented from going to Russia.

Finally they said, the committee had been forced to send its supplies to the American Friends society in England for transportation.

IT'S GOOD FOR CHILDREN.

Mrs. C. E. Schwab, 1907 14th St., Canton, Ohio, writes: "We use Foley's Honey and Tar for our coughs and find it one of the best remedies on the market, especially good for children's coughs, as it does not contain any drug that is harmful." Serious sickness often follows lingering colds. Hard coughing racks a child's body and disturbs strength giving sleep, and the poisons weaken the system so that disease cannot be warded off. Take Foley's in time. Sold everywhere.

SUFFERING IN RUSSIA TOLD

Friend's Commissioner Tells Of Starving Children Of Vitvask

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 17.—Frederick J. Libby, commissioner of the American Friends' Service committee (Quakers) who recently returned from Reval, brought back information that many children are starving in Russia. Mr. Libby obtained his information from Arthur J. Watts, an English Friend, who has been engaged in relief work in Russia. Mr. Watts gave Mr. Libby a translation of the report from various Russian commissars upon these Mr. Libby bases his information.

It appears from the commissars' reports that the situation of the children varies greatly in the different centers. In some cities such as Vitvask, it is reported by the commissars that whole families are perishing from starvation. In others such as Smolensk, Yaroslavl, the children are reported to be obtaining sufficient nourishment. The report from Vitvask stated that the babies substituted give the children chronic dysentery which it is impossible to cure. The commissars reported that in several centers the children have been unable to obtain bread for a long time and that in others no kind of food or meats were obtainable and that milk was received rarely.

The children of Moscow were declared to have no sugar nor fats and were reported to be either starving or falling ill due to undernourishment. Inmates of the children's homes in Novorod are starving, the reports stated. They receive no meat, butter, potatoes, milk or salt, but live on a daily portion of sour cabbage soup, millet cooked in water and black bread made from bad flour. They

TREASURE BOAT LURES SEARCH

Sunken Spanish Galleon Of Doubloons Is Being Hunted

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 10.—Another search for treasure trove, a sunken Spanish galleon laden with stolen doubloons, has begun on the Atlantic coast of Florida between Deerfield and Boca Raton. Romance has lured this time a group of adventurous men of Deerfield and thereabouts to dig in the ocean's bottom for the buccaner's pirate ship which tradition said had hidden two chests of the treacherous shores when pursued. A syndicate formed for the search has begun operations where the galleon is supposed to have sunk in the sands.

This is only one of the many adventures off the South Florida coast which in the old days before the advent have brought up a few ancient hulls which had been deeply buried in sand, some dating back five or six centuries. But so far no ship thus recovered has yielded any thing except ancient wood, and hauled two chests said to have spent two fortunes near Stuart before quitting the romantic game.

Fulford, 11 miles north of Miami, has been the scene of many searches. Tradition has it that a pirate ship escaped pursuers by sailing up a creek near Fulford where the crew celebrated by getting drunk. Seminole Indians boarded the vessel and massacred the crew except one, the story runs, and the escaped pirate succeeded in reaching the ship treasure chest filled with gold which he buried nearby, making a diagram of the spot. Unable to return, the pirate is said to have given the diagram to a friend. This has been used by several searching parties equipped with what is called a gold finder, but they failed to locate the treasure.

A native living nearby says the spot is haunted and that even now the ghosts of the pirates howl and groan when anyone nears it. He says no one is ever going to get the treasure as the chest "contains" on something terrible when you get close to it and there's no telling what they would do if they got their hands on it. Anything might happen in that terrible place.
