RUMOR

There seems to be a persistent rumor to the effect that I intend leaving Salem. This rumor is false—I intend to remain permanently in Salem and will continue to represent THE MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE CO. OF N. Y. AS DISTRICT MANAGER; OFFICE 371 STATE ST.

If you are interested in Life Insurance it will pay you to call Main 99 and arrange a date with me. I can prove that "MUTUAL LIFE" is what you want.

BRAIN—BRAWN

Those are two words almost alike, just a difference of one letter, yet there is all the difference between success and failure in that one letter.

Like coal and diamonds, they spring from the same source, yet coal is spoken of in terms of tons, while diamonds are measured in carats.

In normal times, brawn is the cheapest commodity in the world. Brains are the most rare.

Sell your brain power, the highest paid commodity on earth. Write or call for information as to how we can help you do this. Day and night school.

more than a little interest to the evening's festivities. There were also a number of solos, instrumental numbers and other musical features which helped to enliven the affair.

Speeches Few and Brief.

Addresses, considered a necessary evil on most social occasions, were banned at last night's event with the exception of a few brief remarks by J. W. Chambers, president of the club; Col. Carl Abrams, a member of the Salem Cherrians, and George W. Hug, superintendent of the Salem public schools. Mr. Chambers welcomed the newcomers, and in a few words informed them that Salem's latching is always out, and that they would find no better place under God's canopy to establish homes.

Mr. Abrams spoke on behalf of the community in the absence of Mayor Halvorsen, while Mr. Hug responded feelingly on the part of the new arrivals.

"We like Salem and its people," said Mr. Hug, "and I believe I speak for 99 per cent of the newcomers gathered here tonight when I say that we intend to remain with you permanently."

The speakers were introduced by T. E. McCroskey. During the entire evening and dance intermissions, ice cream, cake and other delicacies were served by a bevy of pretty young women. Assisting in this task were Misses (Gussie) Niles, Mabel Marcus, Opal Lathrop, Marie Rostein, Anna Paulson, Rebecca Samuels, Kathleen Walsh, Lucetta Donnelly and Lucile Tucker. Attired in account of the estate of Lyman Hill deceased, was made yesterday in the county court. Edward L. Hill was the executor of the estate.

Sewer Building Begins—

The city will commence the construction of a sewer today on Twentieth and Frederick streets. Other city improvements will be started soon. J. A. Jefferson was selected city overseer of construction in the street improvement department at the meeting of the city council Monday night.

The Business and Professional

Women's club will meet Friday evening, March 11th at 7:30 o'clock at the Salem Public Library, for discussions. All members are urged to attend. (Adv.)

PERSONAL MENTION

G. A. G. Moore, clerk of the Turner school district, was in the city yesterday in the interest of school matters.

W. A. Jones of Macleay was in Salem yesterday.

John F. Theo B. Brentano of St. Paul was a visitor yesterday in Salem.

Frank Johnson of Hazel Green was in the city Wednesday.

Frank Davidson of St. Paul was in Salem yesterday.

Kenneth Waters, a student at the U. of O. will come home tomorrow to remain over the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Waters.

Elsworth Ricketts, the well-known local musician, has returned to Salem, after an extended absence in Eastern Oregon, the greater part of the time being spent in Mosher.

W. W. Rosebraugh is spending several days in Portland this week, going down on business.

dainty gowns these young women won the admiration and commendation of the entire gathering.

Cherrians in Uniform.

Representing the Salem Cherrians were six members of the organization dressed in their navy white suits. These were C. E. Knowlton, King King, U. G. Shipley, Carl Abrams, F. E. Fullerton, Elmer Dae and Dr. O. A. Olson.

The Elks lodge also had a committee on hand as did the Salem Realty board and the Salem Rotarians. Among the antlered herd who assisted in showing the guests a good time were E. A. Kuriz, exalted ruler; August Huckenstein, W. H. Farcy, D. D. Socolowsky, George Griffith, P. D. Keeney, O. A. Hartman and Robert B. Duncan.

Representing the Rotarians were Walter Denton, P. E. Fullerton, C. B. Clancy, T. E. McCann and R. O. Snelling. The reality board on hand L. G. Hayford, C. Bohrnstedt and John H. Scott. That nothing attendant to the comfort of the visitor might be overlooked the local camp of Boy Scouts also provided a committee in uniform. Among these bright-faced and courteous youths were Clifford Hulsey, Thomas Elliott, Bennett McCroskey and Keith Draper.

Dance Draws Young Folk

The informal dance held in the auditorium of the club, probably was the chief attraction of the evening for the young folk, although not a few of the gray-haired veterans skipped over the waxed floor with the same alertness that marked their step many years ago. Women grown wrinkled with the care of the household also "stepped out", so to speak, and to the strains of music enlivened the old time polka. There was a dance to suit every notion, and the hours were whiled away in the recollection of the happy days long passed and in celebration of the days that are.

Others, not bent on tripping the light fantastic, took places on the comfortable sofas and in easy chairs where they conversed of the past and planned for the future. In a few instances old friends were united after separation of many years.

New Era Established

Last night's affair, intended as a welcome to Salem's newcomers, was a success in every sense of the word and will go down in local history as an event worthy of its purpose. In dispensing with the formalities that usually mark so many gatherings of a social nature, Salem's welcome to its new arrivals found ready commendation, and has established a new era in the march of local progress.

Hospitality, unlimited and unreserved, sociability and a constructive and permanent cementing of the ties that shape the destinies of a progressive community, might well be accepted as a brief explanation of last night's event. It was purely a social affair, with pretty women, charming and talented girls and men high in the social and business activity of the city vying in making happy those not so fortunate because of limited acquaintance.

Walter Jenkins of Portland sang two solos and led in community singing. He was accompanied by Miss Ruby Lloyd of Portland.

Salem's welcome idea sprang from the brain of Col. E. Hoffer at a recent open house meeting and he with others worked hard for last night's success.

Another Vote Decided on

By Central Oregon People

The people of the Central Oregon irrigation district in Deschutes county will again vote on the proposal to buy out the Central Oregon irrigation project from the Central Oregon Irrigation company, according to Percy A. Cupper, state engineer, who yesterday returned from Redmond where he conferred with the interested parties.

A contract for the transfer was drawn up in January and was voted down by the people. As a result of the Redmond conference yesterday it will be resubmitted to the electorate of the district. Should the settlers take over the district and operate it they would appoint a manager.

ARE YOU WAITING

FOR RENTS TO COME DOWN?

Are you one of the millions who are waiting for rents that are from 20 percent to 50 percent too high?

If you are, do you know the facts?

Do you know that Salem is short 1,000 homes; that experts estimate the United States to be four years behind in building requirements?

The law of supply and demand always fixes prices. So long as there is a shortage of houses, landlords will demand high rents and tenants will be forced to pay them.

The one way out is to become a home owner yourself.

You can build now cheaper than at any time in the past five years, and almost as cheaply, we believe, as at any time in the next five years.

Lumber and building materials have taken a tremendous drop. The complete erection of buildings has caught manufacturers with big stocks which they have been forced to sell almost at cost.

If you buy now you can take advantage of their situation. If you wait, you will buy when everyone else is buying, and you will find the increasing demand forcing prices upward.

In our opinion, right now is a good time to build.

Funeral of Simon Yoder At Woodburn is Attended By Hundreds

After several persons from Woodburn had been admitted to the county jail yesterday to compare Harry Staben, held on suspicion of having knowledge of the murder of S. J. Yoder Saturday night, with a stranger seen in Woodburn Saturday and with the man who hired Yoder and his automobile, none was able to make a positive identification.

Seven or eight persons were admitted to the jail.

The Yoder funeral at Woodburn yesterday was one of the largest ever seen in Marion county. The
