

CHESS MATCH STILL WAVERS

Lasker and Capablanca Fail to Gain Noticeable Advantage

HAVANA, March 20.—The third game of the world's championship chess match between Dr. Emanuel Lasker and Jose Capablanca was adjourned at 1 o'clock this morning after 31 moves had been completed by each player without any apparent advantage for either.

Play will be resumed tonight. At midnight it became apparent the game could not be finished by 1 a. m. and that another sitting would be necessary to conclude the second half of the third game.

Queens were exchanged shortly afterwards, a few additional moves were made and time was called when 31 moves had been registered. Capablanca sealed his move.

Only 10 minutes was occupied by the first 13 moves, no novel plays being made.

With his 18th move Dr. Lasker became more aggressive in an endeavor, he said, to avoid if possible, another draw game. The next few moves, however, did not alter the situation.

No opinion was ventured by the experts present on the merits of the game, they simply could not fathom the depths of the intricate "board." The players followed down in the pace on every move.

During the game Dr. Lasker said: "Nowadays it is extremely difficult to win a game from a grandmaster. I should not be surprised if from 16 to 18 games would result in draws during the course of this match."

Capablanca answered: "I certainly would not be a bit surprised if all 24 games would result in draws, for I consider my opponent exceedingly strong in his play."

COOPERATION ENCOURAGED

War Industries Board Urges Combinations Under Supervision

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Encouragement by the government of combinations or associations in industry under federal supervision is recommended in the final report of the war industries board, just completed by B. M. Baruch, chairman.

The report holds that great public benefit in the way of prices and abundance of goods, resulting from economies in production and distribution are capable of being effected through the mutual co-operation of members of industrial groups as was done during the war, and that the government policy of enforced isolation and costly competition is not conducive to the general welfare.

Pointing out that the same power born of association that makes for potential benefit may also make for potential injustice, the report recommends that there be created a government agency which shall supervise such associations.

The report recommends that purely as a civic measure, legislation be adopted permitting the continued functioning of the industrial group represented by the war service committees and the related associations of manufacturers whose establishment was forced by the war exigency.

MADISON, Wis., March 19.—Declaring that "I would rather be hanged than have to undergo the nervous strain of knowing that I was to be placed in a cell and be killed by lethal gas while asleep," was made today by Director J. H. Mathews, of the chemistry department of the University of Wisconsin. Dr. Mathews was formerly a major in the gas and flame department of the United States army.

Mother Visits Son While He Is In Jail

WARSAW, Ind., March 19.—Mrs. Lydia Decker, mother of Virgil Decker, 18-year-old boy who has signed a confession in which he declared that he alone was responsible for the death of Leroy Lovett, 16 years, was permitted for the first time today to visit her son since his arrest on Tuesday. Mrs. Decker was accompanied by Mrs. C. B. Moon, wife of the county sheriff.

The boy, who told Mrs. Moon, according to her story of events leading up to the confession that his only reason for assaulting Lovett was that "the devil told me to do it and I just did it," met his mother with no display of emotion.

"Don't worry, mother. It's done and I don't know why I did it," was his greeting. She remained with the boy only a short time.

Fate of Mountaineer Rests in Hands of Jury

WILLIAMSON, W. Va., March 19.—The fate of the 16 mountaineers, defendants in the Matewan battle case, rested in the hands of the jury tonight. Ten months ago today ten men were killed in the gun fight between residents of the little mining town and Baldwin-Felts detectives. Sixteen men were tried in connection with the death of a victim, A. C. Felts. The trial occupied 40 days.

After two hours and a half of deliberation the jury reported it had reached no decision and court adjourned until 8 a. m. on Monday.

WILL KILL SEA LIONS.

PORTLAND, March 19.—William B. Hunter of Garibaldi, Or., has been engaged by the fish commission to kill sea lions that infest the waters at the mouth of the Columbia river while the salmon are running. It is estimated that this herd of sea lions devours an average of four salmon each day. Carl D. Shoemaker, secretary of the state fish commission, declared that an estimate of 1,840,000 fish died each season is conservative. Mr. Hunter is an experienced killer and has shot as many as 1908 lions in one year.

New York Hotel Men Will Visit Portland

PORTLAND, March 19.—Portland hotel men are expected to be scheduled for a visit by prominent hotel men of New York city, who are planning a 30-day tour of the northwest and California, according to word received here today. The hotel men plan to leave New York April 2 in two private cars and to make short stops in the principal cities of the west.

Bend Carpenters Union Voluntarily Cuts Wages

BEND, Or., March 19.—A voluntary reduction of $1 a day has been announced here by the Bend Carpenters' union. The new scale is $7 a day. The reduction followed a voluntary reduction of $1 a day made by the bricklayers, whose new daily wage is $9 a day. Other building trades have reductions under consideration.

The desire to stimulate building activity in Bend is the reason given for the action of the unions.

McMinnville Prohibits All Public Dances

Quarter of a Million Dollars Worth Bought From East in 1919

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Jazz music in this country is being extracted from Japanese made fiddles. A report from Consul Hawley, at Nagoya, Japan, says that a quarter of a million dollars worth of Japanese fiddles were bought by the United States in 1919, this country taking the great bulk of the product of this new industry, built up in Japan since the world war broke up Germany's business.

CHINA STARTS FAMINE FUND

Minister of Foreign Affairs Heads Campaign to Relieve Poor

PEKING, Feb. 17.—A nationwide drive for famine relief funds has been started in China by Dr. Yen Hui-ching (W. W. Yen) minister of foreign affairs.

In an address to the most influential Chinese in Peking, the minister told them that, compress the figures as one might, between 20,000,000 and 30,000,000 people faced starvation. The famine calamity was becoming daily more serious, he said, and the time of greatest suffering was rapidly approaching.

He referred to the many committees and societies already engaged in relief work, of the funds being raised in America and in England and Japan, and expressed the opinion that these nations which had given generously should be shown that China too is working industriously to relieve the suffering populace.

He proposed that the drive continue for a week and while no financial goal was indicated, Dr. Yen believed that Peking alone could be made to produce from $200,000 to $500,000. It was agreed that the drive be directed by the United International Relief societies.

COBBLER GUIDE OF COOLIDGE

Philosophy of Mender of Shoes Benefits New Vice-President

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Mar. 16.—James Lucey, mender of shoes, is peering away in his shop here with one eye on the newspapers for word of how the national capital treats Calvin Coolidge, his one-time associate in local politics and now vice-president.

When Vice-President Coolidge, just before departing for Washington recently, grasped the cobbler's hand as the photographers snapped their cameras he gave him a distinction that he was asked to explain. "Pat Mr. Lucey down as my guide, philosopher and friend," he said. And so the cobbler is now nationally known.

What the Vice-President meant was more or less well known to Northampton folk. The story goes back to the days when Calvin Coolidge was a sophomore at Amherst college. With shoes to be repaired he sought Lucey's shop on Gothic street in this city and then remained to listen to the cobbler's homely comments on topics of the day.

The student found the shoe maker's philosophy so engaging that during the remainder of his college course he went frequently to see him. As a lawyer later young Coolidge opened offices here and while he waited for clients, continued his acquaintance with the cobbler. Throughout his career in the politics of the city and state, Mr. Coolidge dropped in at the shoe shop from time to time to exchange ideas with his friend and have the benefit of the latter's pointed political observations.

The youthful Coolidge took away lessons from the cobbler; Coolidge the candidate received the benefit of his influence which was considerable in city politics, and when he rose to a position of state and national prominence he still received the loyal support of the shoemaker. Mr. Lucey modestly explaining that Mr. Coolidge long since has passed out his range of influence, admits that he may have been of some help when the vice-president was on the first rungs of the political ladder.

The cobbler says that the only time he ever crossed Calvin Coolidge seemed to make firmer the friendship between them. Mr. Coolidge had sought the election of a friend as mayor and asked Mr. Lucey as a delegate to the party caucus to stand in his behalf, but the cobbler, already bound to the opposing candidate, refused. This evidence of loyalty to a prior allegiance served to heighten their mutual respect.

The shoe maker, a native of Ireland, came to Northampton 40 years ago at the age of 22. He has been at his last in the same shop for 30 years. A family of eight children, seven of whom are now living, has made demands on his earning ability. Five are girls, one is a stenographer, two are teachers, a fourth was formerly a teacher is now married, and one is a clerk. Of the two boys one is a graduate of Holy Cross college, and the other is a student in the Northampton Commercial college.

LOOKED BEFORE SHE LEAPT While Stuart Parton was directing "The Torrent" he came to a scene where Eva Novak was called on to jump from a cliff into the ocean. A moment before she was to be hurled into the sea, 24 feet below, she began to rearrange her hair, further delaying proceedings by smoothing her hair and brushing imaginary specks of dust from her clothing. The director threw up his hands and, noting his displeasure, Miss Novak suavely asked:

"Have you any objection to my improving my personal appearance?" "My dear girl," replied the director, "your appearance has nothing to do with the case. It is your disappearance we are waiting for."

TO REORGANIZE DEMOCRATS

Mrs. J. A. McDougall of Seattle is an organizer par excellence. She was the first Democratic State Committeewoman to be named in the State of Oklahoma. The chairman of the Democratic National Committee, George White, has named her as one of the sixteen members of the executive committee to represent the National Committee at a meeting to be held in Washington which Mrs. McDougall attended. She was asked to help build up the Democratic forces in her State. Her winter home is in Miami, Fla., and she is also president of the Florida Auxiliary of the League of American Penwomen.

College, Washington State College, Whitman College, University of British Columbia, Utah Agricultural College and Willamette University.

Several Olympic game stars may run at the carnival. On the team U. S. C. has announced it expects to send north will be Charles Faddock and Wilson Schiller, both of whom ran at Astoria last summer. Pat Perrine, another Olympic team member probably will represent the University of Idaho. With him will be Neil Irvine, who failed by a few points of making the American Olympic team.

Examinations at the University of California and Stanford University may prevent athletes from those schools from attending, according to word received here from the south.

The program, as outlined by Edmondson, will include the broad jump, javelin throw, 200-meter dash, discus throw and the 1500-meter run in the order named. A special 100-meter dash will also be staged. The rest of the program includes a mile relay, 100-yard dash, a freshman-high school half mile relay, two mile relay and varsity half mile relay.
