

SUMMER CAMPS ARE PLANNED

Citizens' Military Training Provided by War Department

CAMP LEWIS IS NAMED

Approximately 1200 Candidates Will be Taken Care Of

WASHINGTON March 24.—Tentative plans for conducting citizens' military training camps next summer were announced today by the war department in instructions issued to the ninth corps area commanders. Prepara-rations were ordered for training approximately 1200 candidates in each corps area, locations being announced for either one or two camps in each. The number of candidates to be recruited for each area was predicated on sufficient funds being made available in the next army appropriation bill.

The department had provided three grades of camps, denominated "red," "white," and "blue," according to the amount of technical military training to be given. The "red" camps should appeal to young men between the ages of 16 to 19, the department said, and afford an opportunity to demonstrate to parents the "physical, moral and mental development that results from military training."

CITY MOURNS FOR CATHOLIC ARCHBISHOP

cardinal as "a man who inspired affection in every one." President High in praise. "In common with all our people, I mourn the death of Cardinal Gibbons," the president's message said. "His long and notable service to the country and to church makes us all his debtors. He was ever ready to lend his encouragement to any movement for the betterment of his fellow men. He was the very finest type of citizen and churchman."

"It was my good fortune to know him and I held him in the highest esteem and veneration. His death is a distinct loss to the country, but it brings to fuller appreciation a great and admirable life."

BOSTON, March 24.—Cardinal O'Connell who, with the passing of Cardinal Gibbons, becomes head of the Roman Catholic church in this country, paid tribute to the late cardinal today as follows:

"The death of Cardinal Gibbons removes a foremost figure from America's national life. With his passing closes a remarkable career filled with noble and far-reaching achievements. He was a long span of life in the civil and religious history of the United States and his services to the nation and the church have indelibly stamped his name upon the pages that record the story of both.

"Cardinal Gibbons was America's first and finest citizen. American born and trained, he cherished America's traditions, and for more than half a century was engaged in promoting the noblest ideals of American life."

"The soundness of his judgment and the clearness of his vision made him a prudent counselor whom statesmen sought. With unusual kindness he detected and diagnosed maladies even before others were conscious of their existence."

"Instinctively in every great crisis, his fellow countrymen turned to him as a leader. By the gentleness of his manner, by the broadness of his sympathies, by his loyal and patriotic devotion to national interests, he won them, irrespective of race, class or creed, and type of true American, he gave to America the example of one who, after the service of God, desires nothing more earnestly than the service of his country."

NEW YORK, March 24.—News of the death of Cardinal Gibbons today was received here with expressions of regret from public officials and church dignitaries of all creeds. Archbishop Patrick J. Hays said:

"His apostolic, civil and historic career shines forth as one of the most striking in our annals. Dr. W. T. Manning, rector of Trinity church said:

"The death of Cardinal Gibbons is a loss to religion and to the country."

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 24.—The death of Cardinal Gibbons brings a sense of desolation to Catholics generally, said Archbishop Austin Dowling of the St. Paul arch-diocese of the Catholic church tonight.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 24.—Churchmen of all creeds joined today in lamenting the death of James Cardinal Gibbons. "A noble priest, a high-minded and patriotic American, a man of keen intelligence, of all-embracing love, has gone to his reward," said Archbishop Edward Hanna of the Catholic arch-diocese of San Francisco.

Bishop William Ford Nichols, of the Episcopalian diocese of San Francisco, who had known Cardinal Gibbons during his early ministry, said: "In his church his eminent rank is an evidence of his strength. As a citizen his voice and pen have proven the same force of personal character in standing for righteousness and morality."

Active service of more than half a century in the interests of his country as well as his church is closed by the death of James Cardinal Gibbons. At the celebration in 1911, on the 25th anniversary of his elevation to the cardinalate, his Eminence, out of all the tributes paid him, expressed himself as most affected, by that from William Howard Taft, his intimate friend, and then president, who said:

"Through his long and useful life Cardinal Gibbons has spared no effort in the cause of good citizenship and the uplifting of his fellowmen."

Ardent Lover of Country "You have portrayed your subject, not I fear, as he is, but as he should be," responded the cardinal. "One merit only I can claim, and that is an ardent love for my native country and her political institutions. I consider the republic of the United States one of the most precious heritages ever bestowed on mankind down the ages. It is the duty and should be the delight of every citizen to strengthen and perpetuate our government by observance of its laws and by the integrity of the public life."

Born in Baltimore, Md., of Irish parents, July 17, 1824, James Gibbons spent his youth in Ireland, but when he was a lad of 14 years his family returned to America, settling in New Orleans where he acted as "punctual grocer's boy."

"I got back on those early days of hard work with pride," he said in speaking of his boyhood. "I am a firm believer in the school of hard and honest labor."

Had Ambition For Priesthood His ambition for the priesthood began in those early days. At 21 he began preparations for his service in the Roman Catholic church. Graduating with distinguished honor from historic St. Charles college in Maryland, he pursued his studies at the seminary of St. Sulpice and St. Mary's university in Baltimore. At the outbreak of the civil war he was ordained to the priesthood in Baltimore. He was 27 years old. His heart was moved by the tragedy he witnessed and throughout life he was strongly opposed to war.

are all children of the same Father," he once said. "We are all brothers and sisters of the same Redeemer, and consequently, members of the same family. It teaches me the brotherhood of humanity."

The hard-working young bishop was sent to Richmond in 1872. He built and enlarged schools, asylums, and churches in Richmond, Petersburg and Portsmouth. His untiring labor attracted the attention of Archbishop Bayley, of the Baltimore diocese. Through his influence, Bishop Gibbons became his coadjutor. A few months later Archbishop Bayley died, Bishop Gibbons, 43 years of age, became archbishop of the diocese, the highest dignity of the Roman Catholic church in the United States.

As archbishop, he headed the delegation of American prelates to Rome in 1883. He outlined their plans for the third plenary council to be held the next year. Pope Leo XIII appointed him to preside over the new council. He directed the enactment of many new decrees which were favorably approved by the ecclesiastical authorities.

Executive Ability Noted. The brilliant executive ability of Archbishop Gibbons was immediately recognized. He was created a cardinal, a prince of the church, a quarter of a century after he had entered the priesthood. This was in 1886—he was then 52 years of age.

The impressive ceremonies took place in his home city and cathedral in Baltimore. In the presence of hierarchy of the church, Cardinal Gibbons was clothed in the insignia of the office. He arrived in Rome the following year and received the apostolic blessing and admission into the college of cardinals, the 25th successor.

Cardinal Gibbons celebrated the centenary of the founding of the Catholic hierarchy in the United States in 1888. He convened the first national congress of Catholic laymen in the United States in the same year. He laid the cornerstone of the Catholic university in Washington, and was its chancellor since its foundation. He was the first Roman Catholic prelate in the United States to take part in the election of a pope, casting his ballot for Pius X.

Scholarships Recognized. The scholarship and statesmanship of Cardinal Gibbons has been recognized by theologians of all creeds.

"Religion," he said, shortly before his death, "is the only solid basis for society. Religion is to society what cement is to the fact that the building is made of all parts compact and coherent. The teachings of Christ have been the basis of all Christian legislation for nearly 2000 years and continue to be the light and guide for hundreds of millions of souls. Neither Solon nor Lycurgus nor Justinian nor Napoleon nor any other framer of laws ever exercised a tithe of the influence which the gospel of Christ exercises on the human races."

The last days of Cardinal Gibbons were spent among his friends in his native Baltimore. He was a picturesque figure on the streets. Notwithstanding his high office, his Eminence was one of the most democratic of Americans. During his daily walks about the city, he received the respectful salutations of persons of all faiths, responding with his genial and cordial smile whether to a policeman or a distinguished financier.

Interested in Sociology Cardinal Gibbons retained to the last a keen interest in sociology. "We are confronted by at least three great evils," he said in a recent interview. "They are polygamy and divorce; imperfect education; and the tendency of our women to become more like men and less womanly. Woman occupies the throne in the home. She could not seek another one. That has been proved time and again in history and that is why I am opposed to woman suffrage."

The trend of the times and the power of the press as a protector of society greatly impressed Cardinal Gibbons during the last years of his life. "This power of the press is incalculable," he said in speaking of recent developments. "Its arguings, almost searchlight 'eye, is ever looking for the weak spot in humanity, to throw it into cold prominence. As a rule the public exposures of public men are now public benefactors. The shattering of popular ideas has of late become a thing of almost daily occurrence. It is a sad thing to contemplate, but it is an inevitable condition."

FORDIGRAMS Many great men are born ugly, but most of them have ugliness thrust upon them by means of newspaper cuts.

Too many men seem to think that optimism consists only of seeing the silver lining to the other man's cloud.

Every baldheaded man has a lot of experience he would gladly swap for some hair.

Don't worry if you are hated—but never allow anyone to become disgusted with you.

Lots of men are sifting ashes today because they were burning money yesterday.

KAFOURY FIRM LOSES HEAVILY

Women's Wear Store Burns With Total Loss Estimated at $115,000

CONCERN WILL REBUILD

New Spring Stock of Goods, Recently Received, Not Insured

Fire originating in a shed at the rear of the Kafoury Brothers store, women's apparel, early yesterday morning, and driven by a strong wind, swept rapidly through the building, completely destroying the large assortment of women's furnishings and yard goods comprising the stock. Fleeing from the burning building in their night garments, occupants of the Rex rooming house above the store escaped unharmed. Approximately $115,000 loss is involved, about $100,000 of which was in stock and fixtures of the store, the remaining amount in damage to the building, which is owned by the Hughes estate. A portion of the stock was covered by insurance.

Just how the fire started is a matter of conjecture. The theory that it may have been caused by tramps sleeping in the shed is scouted, owing to the fact that the shed was well filled with building materials, wood and shavings, left by the carpenters working on the basement, which was being converted into a salesroom.

Flames Travel Rapidly. Starting in the rear of the building, the fire was fanned into a seething mass of flame by the strong draught caused by the open transom in the front entrance. Though firemen were said to be at the scene within five minutes after the alarm was turned in by A. B. McKillop, proprietor of the Royal cafe, 460 State street, it was some time before the flames were brought under control. The Rex rooming establishment, above the store, was damaged by water and smoke to the extent of about $1000, according to a report by Mrs. L. A. Johnson, manager.

N. C. Kafoury, proprietor of the store, had been at considerable expense in rushing his new spring stock, valued at $30,000 in time for the Easter trade, and had just received the final shipment of goods. This new stock was not insured.

Early Reopening Planned. Repairs on the building will commence immediately and it is thought that the store will reopen for business in about two months. In the meantime the firm will conduct this department in connection with the men's furnishing store a few doors west. Expressions of regret at the loss, and sympathies was heard on every hand yesterday, and offers of financial assistance tendered. In expressing his appreciation of the sympathy of his townspeople, Mr. Kafoury spoke with feeling of one incident in which a man with whom he was scarcely acquainted, came to him and after expressing his regret at his loss, stated that he had in the bank $10,000 which he would place at the command of the firm for 10 years should it be needed.

Growers' Association Will Sell Loganberries

The high prices at which various kinds of barreled fruits are held in the east, may have much to do with the price of all kinds of berries and fruits the coming season, according to R. C. Paulus, manager of the sales department of the Oregon Growers Cooperative association.

Mr. Paulus found heavy stocks of barreled fruits everywhere during his business trip in the east a few weeks ago, and there was the general feeling among buyers that these stocks on hand would be in the way of the coming crop.

These unfavorable conditions especially affect the loganberry crop. Mr. Paulus said, and to remedy the conditions, the association is working out another line for handling the coming crop. And although no deals have as yet been actually closed, the indications are that the association will be able successfully to dispose of its loganberry crop estimated at close to 5,000,000 pounds.

With but 150,000 men in the standing army of the United States there is not much excuse for our European neighbors becoming excited about our militia program.
