The bright sunshine of Sunday which prevailed throughout the day in Salem, with the exception of a brief moment or two, lured country clubbers south to the Illabe golf links, who found the higher country enshrouded in an atmosphere a bit colder than that of the valley. But with the meadowlark singing his gayest; the sun consenting to shine fitfully, and the greens in excellent condition, golf enthusiasts could not have been persuaded to retire to the comforts of the clubhouse, even during the several flurries of snow and hail.

birds. Interest was also centered in the occasional remarks of a stroll parrot of gay plumage.

The decorations made an attractive foil for the receiving line in which were Mr. and Mrs. Cusick, Miss Cusick and her escort, The honor guest wore a lovely frock of tulle over pink satin, with bodice of silver lace.

A four-piece orchestra partially concealed behind branches of apple blossoms furnished splendid music for dancing. Punch was served during the evening at a prettily decked table. During an intermission Miss Helen Poling gave two vocal solos, and later gave each a gay vanity bag, and each man was provided with a Casack hat. The high hats when worn were most amusing.

Before midnight a group of dainty maids appeared with tea carts and supper was served. Mrs. Joseph Ralston, Mrs. R. U. Steelquist and Mrs. Charles Stewart presided at the urns, and those serving were the Misses Louise Mason, Josephine Ralston, Mary and Henrietta Davis, Dora Doylin, Elizabeth Beam, Georgia Wright, Mary Wood, Helen Pugh, and Anna Katherine Barrett. Intimate friends of Miss Cusick assisted in cutting the birthday cake which bore eighteen lighted candles.

Dancing was later resumed and the chords of the last waltz were not struck until 1 o'clock.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. George Hestekis Street, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Thomas, Dr. A. F. Smith, all of Portland; Mr. and Mrs. John Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Mary Hawkins, of Salem; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fortmiller, Miss Ada Mitchellson of Lebanon; Messrs. Nash Taylor, Jack Hixon, Bob Glenn, Warren Slover and Jack Peterson, all of Corvallis.

Mrs. Frank Benson of Eugene stopped off in Salem Saturday night on her way home from Portland, and is spending several days as the guest of Mrs. R. E. Lee Steiner.

Mrs. W. M. Smith returned home Sunday from a ten days' absence, the time being spent in Walla Walla, and Touchet, Wash., where she was entertained by relatives.

Mrs. Ray Smith will open her home to members of the North Salem Woman's club this afternoon, an interesting program being arranged, to begin at half past two o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. McDougal and Miss Mildred Blaker of Vancouver, Wash., have returned to their homes after being entertained as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Gabrielson and Carl Gabrielson. Joined by James Young and Charles Kay Bishop, all motored out to the Country club yesterday, where golfing was enjoyed.

Dr. Mary Rowland and her daughter, Miss Nellie Rowland returned home Sunday night from Portland, where they spent several days. Coming home they drove their new Oldsmobile coupe.

Mr. and Mrs. Z. J. Riggs motored to Eugene the last of the week, returning home Sunday night.

A most artistic and enjoyable musical was given in the parlors of Miss Beatrice Shelton Saturday night, when Miss Shelton and William Wallace Graham presented a number of their pupils in a program of unusual excellence throughout. The painstaking work was distinguished by its technical proficiency, individuality and splendid interpretative ability being also displayed. Miss Ruth Bedford lent fine support, as the accompanist of the evening, and also appeared in solo numbers.

BAD BREATH
Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work. People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently, but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, gripping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without gripping, pain or any disagreeable effects. Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint; with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 15c and 30c.

Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Vance entertained at their week-end guests, Miss Lena Vance and Fletcher Saucerman of Portland.

Mrs. C. J. Greene and her children are planning to leave the first of the week for Roseburg, where they will spend the four summer months on their home-stead. For the pleasure of Mr. and Mrs. Green, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Cupper entertained with a small dinner last week.

Children, grandchildren, and great grandchildren assembled at the home of Mrs. John Barker, corner Thirteenth and Nebraska avenue last Tuesday to assist her in celebrating her 75th birthday. The following daughters and sons were present: Mrs. E. E. Raymond, Miss E. Claxton, John, Charles, Earnest, Fred, William and James Barker, all of Salem. Nineteen grandchildren and three great grandchildren were also in attendance.

The Misses Maude, Mary and Edna Largent of Silverton, stopped off in Salem yesterday on their return to Eugene where they will re-enter the University of Oregon, following the Easter vacation.

ITCHING ECZEMA DRIED RIGHT UP WITH SULPHUR

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Mentho-Sulphur, says a noted specialist. Because of its germ-destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

It seldom fails to relieve the torment and disfigurement. Sufferers from skin trouble should get a little jar of Mentho-Sulphur from any good drugist and use it like a cool cream.

CHAPTER 29

WHY IS MISS HOLCOMBE SO CERTAIN OF DISASTER?

It is not in Dicky's nature to receive a challenge of any sort without in his turn flinging down a gauntlet. I saw his eyes glancing with mischievous interest at Miss Dean's audacious words. As she finished he swept her an elaborate bow.

"There is, it is my hope a public library building in progress?" he said insinuatingly.

"Unfortunately no," Miss Dean retorted unabashed. "But we might build one."

She offered him a mocking salute and tripped away. I saw her reason in the next second. Miss Holcombe and Mr. Stockbridge were advancing toward us. It was no part of her scheme to be unduly obtrusive. She wished simply to leave opened upon Dicky's eyes an impression of a pretty, sparkling flirtation and leaving girl that she had succeeded in seeing in the amused, interested glance he sent after her.

To my amazement, I found myself trembling with rage at Miss Dean. I could not believe that I had fallen to the level of Mrs. Stockbridge, was ready to be so lightly jostled of my good-looking woman who spoke twice to my husband. Then I realized that it was not her rather cute jest concerning the kiss Dicky had given me, but even her recognized push out of herself into Dicky's notice that had angered me, but the fact that she had disturbed a golden moment, one of the rare ones that sometimes come to a man and wife who love each other.

Standing, forgiveness and a plea for pardon in my husband's kiss I felt degraded that his memory should be spoiled by Miss Dean's flamboyant gibe concerning it.

"And Now—"

With the departure of the pupils had vanished the scholastic attitude of Mr. Stockbridge, neither was there any trace of the brusque manner which he invariably used toward the teachers. He was a more courtly man of the world who came up to us with just enough boyish excitement in his manner to reveal how much this unusual social experiment meant in his married and circumscript life.

"And now, if you are ready," he said deferentially, "I will run you down to the house. Mr. Stockbridge so regretted that that she could not be here this afternoon, but some foolish details concerning the dinner not being exactly to suit her, she felt she must stay at home to attend them. You, perhaps, know what hostesses are," he smiled at Dicky.

"Do I?" Dicky grinned broadly. "When we're giving a dinner I had under the word for me to come out and get into my moonlights."

Mr. Stockbridge laughed heartily and boyishly.

"I don't believe we'll have to do that," he said, "but I think we'll better start, for she will be wondering what has become of us. You're going to dress at our house aren't you, Alice?"

On The Way.

"Yes, she replied. "Milly thoughtfully planned to have me come so that Mrs. Graham would not be alone in greasing."

Her tone expressed warm appreciation of her guests, and I saw Mr. Stockbridge's thin face flush with gratitude. The old feeling of pity for both him and the woman next came over me. How staunchly they were playing the game of honor and truth in protection of a pitiable creature not worthy to tie the shoestrings of either of them.

Seated in the tonneau of Mr. Stockbridge's car a few minutes later, with Dicky and the principal engrossed in conversation on the front seat, Alice Holcomb glanced inquiringly at the black broadcloth "opera bag" I carried.

"I know the new styles are," she drawled mischievously, "but, surely, you have not your entire evening costume in that bag."

"Indeed, no," I returned laughing. "Mrs. Stockbridge was kind enough to send me word that she would hang up my gown and cloak to prevent their crushing, so I put them in a dress case this morning and sent them over to her home by a boy."

"What?" She sat up in her seat as if she had been suddenly electrified. But her exclamation though intense was guardedly low. "Say that again."

I repeated my statement, wondering at her agitation and allowing a feeling of uneasiness to creep over me.

"Well!" she relaxed into her former pose. "We'll just make it our business to examine those things thoroughly the minute we get there."

"Why, you don't think—" I stammered.

No, I don't think. I pretty nearly know," she retorted. "But luckily, being forewarned, we'll get our 'forearms' in working order."

ONE MORE LONG LOOK AHEAD

Swante August Arrhenius, Scandinavian scientist, has studied the raw energies of the earth. Petroleum, coal, water, sunlight are the sources of power from which man gets his supplies. Swante August Arrhenius knows how long petroleum and coal will last and what will happen when they are exhausted.

Petroleum for 90 years is his prediction; coal in England for 200 years, in continental Europe for 1000 years, in the United States for 2000 years.

Water power? The United States is well supplied, but Europe and Asia are poor in this kind of energy. They will have less than one-fifth of a horse power per square mile.

Europe will become a gentle pastoral country for lack of energy to make the wheels turn. Down in the hot regions—the Sahara, Mesopotamia, the Mojave Desert and the like—people will crowd to work in the sun mills. Sunshine will supply twenty-two times the power that coal now can supply. Back again into Egypt and Babylonia into the land of the Aztecs, into Arabia, where the varieties of civilization began we shall crowd to work in the sun mills.

Four thousand years hence, says Swante August Arrhenius—but there are plenty of things to worry about that are considerably nearer in point of time.—Chicago Daily News.

Kansas City Broker Pays Tribute to Oregon and Washington Product

R. H. McManus, a prominent fresh fruit broker of Kansas City, was in Salem yesterday, a caller at the office of the Oregon Growers' Co-operative association.

Mr. McManus is on a tour of the northwest looking for a business connection with some good canning concern. He says the trade in the central states recognizes the superiority of Oregon and Washington canned goods, on account of their fine flavor and better quality. This is especially true of the Oregon cherries, pears and berries.

Speaking of general industrial conditions, Mr. McManus said: "Business conditions are getting better all around. It is taking place only gradually, but it will be several months yet before everything is back to a normal basis."

Oregon berries, cherries and pears are growing in favor throughout the east, Mr. McManus said, and that is one of the reasons he was visiting in Oregon. His firm is one of the largest brokerage houses in Kansas City.

Nestle's Food Company To Resume Milk Buying

NEW YORK, April 4.—Gradual resumption of milk manufacture for domestic and export trade is in immediate prospect for the Nestle's Food company, according to a statement given out from headquarters here today.

Already orders have been issued for placing a number of plants in operation. These include the Nestle's Food company's plants at New Berlin, Mt. Upton, Walton, Middleville, Oneonta, Enadilla, Ithaca and South Dayton, all in the state of New York and others.

Other plants are being considered until one-third of the total will be buying milk. It is understood that the selection of the plants to be opened will depend on the availability of fluid milk in their vicinity and the price at which it can be secured. The company has 60 plants throughout the country.

MEAT INJURIOUS TO THE KIDNEYS

Take a Tablespoonful of Salts If Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble. The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe spells, nervousness and dizzy headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delicious effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.
