

MY HEART AND MY HUSBAND

Adele Garrison's New Phase Of REVELATIONS OF A WIFE

CHAPTER 30

WHAT HAPPENED AT THE SOCKBRIDGE HOME.

Mrs. Stockbridge herself met us at the door, in appearance and manner quite transformed from the stiff, sulky woman I had first met, and with no trace whatever of the maddened creature who had satiated at me from the side of the road a few weeks before.

"My dear," her husband spoke the words with the deferential intonation he almost always uses to her, "this is Lieutenant Graham. You have met Mrs. Graham and Alice, of course."

"I am so glad you could come to us, Lieutenant Graham," his wife said brightly, shaking Dicky's outstretched hand with effusion.

"Up To Something!"

"No need to climb the stairs, Alice. Here's a lavatory and towels and a mirror right here, as you know."

"She's been up to something!" Miss Holcombe muttered in my ear when we felt that we were safe. "I'd give a cookie to be upstairs this minute, but she has effectively put that out of our power without rudeness until after this cup of tea. She'll try to keep us down here as long as she can till very near the dinner hour.

"I followed her out to the sun parlor, fighting a strong impulse to snatch my hat and coat, and run out of the front door and away from both dinner party and Bayview forever. And it was with a sense of some impalpable mesh enclosing me that I greeted the appearance first of Dicky and Mr. Stockbridge, then

A Trick Disclosed.

"I followed her out to the sun parlor, fighting a strong impulse to snatch my hat and coat, and run out of the front door and away from both dinner party and Bayview forever. And it was with a sense of some impalpable mesh enclosing me that I greeted the appearance first of Dicky and Mr. Stockbridge, then

"FORTUNE TELLER" MORE EFFECTIVE ON SCREEN THAN STAGE

Marjorie Rameau, Hailed As Leading Emotional Actress in Broadway Showing, Plays Big Role in Mas-

The potency of mother-love and the mysteries of psychic phenomena are admirably illustrated through the art of a great actress, Marjorie Rameau.

CHAPTER 31

WHY MADGE FOLLOWED MISS HOLCOMBE'S LEAD

Of the three exclamations that simultaneously escaped Miss Holcombe, Mrs. Stockbridge and myself at the sight of my discolored dress that of our hostess was loud, most piercing, seemingly most sincere.

Characterization Gripping.

"The Fortune Teller" is a far greater story on the screen than it was on the stage. Miss Rameau's gripping characterization of Renee Browning, the much sinned-against wife of an amoral, sinning-mercilessly appealing, despite the handicaps of the silent drama.

Her simple gesture of proud and dignified resignation to the will of her husband when he drives her from home, believing her to have been unfaithful, pulls at one's very heart strings.

Her simple gesture of proud and dignified resignation to the will of her husband when he drives her from home, believing her to have been unfaithful, pulls at one's very heart strings.

Her simple gesture of proud and dignified resignation to the will of her husband when he drives her from home, believing her to have been unfaithful, pulls at one's very heart strings.

Her simple gesture of proud and dignified resignation to the will of her husband when he drives her from home, believing her to have been unfaithful, pulls at one's very heart strings.

Her simple gesture of proud and dignified resignation to the will of her husband when he drives her from home, believing her to have been unfaithful, pulls at one's very heart strings.

Her simple gesture of proud and dignified resignation to the will of her husband when he drives her from home, believing her to have been unfaithful, pulls at one's very heart strings.

Her simple gesture of proud and dignified resignation to the will of her husband when he drives her from home, believing her to have been unfaithful, pulls at one's very heart strings.

Her simple gesture of proud and dignified resignation to the will of her husband when he drives her from home, believing her to have been unfaithful, pulls at one's very heart strings.

Her simple gesture of proud and dignified resignation to the will of her husband when he drives her from home, believing her to have been unfaithful, pulls at one's very heart strings.

Her simple gesture of proud and dignified resignation to the will of her husband when he drives her from home, believing her to have been unfaithful, pulls at one's very heart strings.

Her simple gesture of proud and dignified resignation to the will of her husband when he drives her from home, believing her to have been unfaithful, pulls at one's very heart strings.

Her simple gesture of proud and dignified resignation to the will of her husband when he drives her from home, believing her to have been unfaithful, pulls at one's very heart strings.

Her simple gesture of proud and dignified resignation to the will of her husband when he drives her from home, believing her to have been unfaithful, pulls at one's very heart strings.

Her simple gesture of proud and dignified resignation to the will of her husband when he drives her from home, believing her to have been unfaithful, pulls at one's very heart strings.

of Mrs. Stockbridge and the tea wagon. "I am my own maid today," she said smilingly, "for I do not wish to take Christine away from the kitchen."

"I know you men want to smoke," she said, "and as for me, I simply shall have to do down a little before this evening or I won't be able to keep my eyes open."

CHAPTER 31

WHY MADGE FOLLOWED MISS HOLCOMBE'S LEAD

Of the three exclamations that simultaneously escaped Miss Holcombe, Mrs. Stockbridge and myself at the sight of my discolored dress that of our hostess was loud, most piercing, seemingly most sincere.

Of the three exclamations that simultaneously escaped Miss Holcombe, Mrs. Stockbridge and myself at the sight of my discolored dress that of our hostess was loud, most piercing, seemingly most sincere.

Of the three exclamations that simultaneously escaped Miss Holcombe, Mrs. Stockbridge and myself at the sight of my discolored dress that of our hostess was loud, most piercing, seemingly most sincere.

Of the three exclamations that simultaneously escaped Miss Holcombe, Mrs. Stockbridge and myself at the sight of my discolored dress that of our hostess was loud, most piercing, seemingly most sincere.

Of the three exclamations that simultaneously escaped Miss Holcombe, Mrs. Stockbridge and myself at the sight of my discolored dress that of our hostess was loud, most piercing, seemingly most sincere.

Of the three exclamations that simultaneously escaped Miss Holcombe, Mrs. Stockbridge and myself at the sight of my discolored dress that of our hostess was loud, most piercing, seemingly most sincere.

Of the three exclamations that simultaneously escaped Miss Holcombe, Mrs. Stockbridge and myself at the sight of my discolored dress that of our hostess was loud, most piercing, seemingly most sincere.

Of the three exclamations that simultaneously escaped Miss Holcombe, Mrs. Stockbridge and myself at the sight of my discolored dress that of our hostess was loud, most piercing, seemingly most sincere.

Of the three exclamations that simultaneously escaped Miss Holcombe, Mrs. Stockbridge and myself at the sight of my discolored dress that of our hostess was loud, most piercing, seemingly most sincere.

Of the three exclamations that simultaneously escaped Miss Holcombe, Mrs. Stockbridge and myself at the sight of my discolored dress that of our hostess was loud, most piercing, seemingly most sincere.

Of the three exclamations that simultaneously escaped Miss Holcombe, Mrs. Stockbridge and myself at the sight of my discolored dress that of our hostess was loud, most piercing, seemingly most sincere.

Of the three exclamations that simultaneously escaped Miss Holcombe, Mrs. Stockbridge and myself at the sight of my discolored dress that of our hostess was loud, most piercing, seemingly most sincere.

Of the three exclamations that simultaneously escaped Miss Holcombe, Mrs. Stockbridge and myself at the sight of my discolored dress that of our hostess was loud, most piercing, seemingly most sincere.

Of the three exclamations that simultaneously escaped Miss Holcombe, Mrs. Stockbridge and myself at the sight of my discolored dress that of our hostess was loud, most piercing, seemingly most sincere.

Of the three exclamations that simultaneously escaped Miss Holcombe, Mrs. Stockbridge and myself at the sight of my discolored dress that of our hostess was loud, most piercing, seemingly most sincere.

Of the three exclamations that simultaneously escaped Miss Holcombe, Mrs. Stockbridge and myself at the sight of my discolored dress that of our hostess was loud, most piercing, seemingly most sincere.

Of the three exclamations that simultaneously escaped Miss Holcombe, Mrs. Stockbridge and myself at the sight of my discolored dress that of our hostess was loud, most piercing, seemingly most sincere.

Of the three exclamations that simultaneously escaped Miss Holcombe, Mrs. Stockbridge and myself at the sight of my discolored dress that of our hostess was loud, most piercing, seemingly most sincere.

Of the three exclamations that simultaneously escaped Miss Holcombe, Mrs. Stockbridge and myself at the sight of my discolored dress that of our hostess was loud, most piercing, seemingly most sincere.

Of the three exclamations that simultaneously escaped Miss Holcombe, Mrs. Stockbridge and myself at the sight of my discolored dress that of our hostess was loud, most piercing, seemingly most sincere.

Of the three exclamations that simultaneously escaped Miss Holcombe, Mrs. Stockbridge and myself at the sight of my discolored dress that of our hostess was loud, most piercing, seemingly most sincere.

Of the three exclamations that simultaneously escaped Miss Holcombe, Mrs. Stockbridge and myself at the sight of my discolored dress that of our hostess was loud, most piercing, seemingly most sincere.

fair I have—he always likes to see me in white," she finished with an affected smiler.

"The Very Thing"

Into Miss Holcombe's eyes flashed comprehension but her voice was matter-of-fact.

"Why, that will be very kind, Millie," she said. "Let's see it."

"She left the room swiftly. Miss Holcombe bent her lips to my ear.

"Don't object, no matter how atrocious it is," she cautioned. "We'll heat her little scheme yet."

"There's certainly color enough about the gown that shrieked to us its dissonance of tint from the elbow. A combination of salmon pink and moss green, it was evidently some flamboyant modiste's imitation of an originally clever French gown."

"The very thing!" she exclaimed. "Now, Millie, don't worry a bit more. Just stick up with the needles, thread, scissors and the humble and clear out of here. You've got enough on your shoulders without thinking of me. My mother will send along my dress case soon, and if you'll have somebody bring it up that is all I'll ask. We shall get along beautifully."

"Oh, you don't know how relieved I am!" Mrs. Stockbridge cried, and had supplied us with the implements for which we had asked.

But her face had the crafty expression of the cat which has not only eaten the canary but also has hidden the feathers.

PRaises THEM TO HIS FRIENDS

Backache is a symptom of weak or disordered kidneys. Stiff joints, rheumatic aches, sore muscles, puffiness under the eyes are others. These symptoms indicate that the kidneys and bladder need help to do the work of filtering and casting out from the system poisons and waste products that cause trouble.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING (Continued from page 1)

to town and advertised his property in The Statesman's classified ads.

Upon returning home that evening he told his wife what he had done, saying that he was satisfied.

"It says in the Statesman that their ads brings results. Here is a good chance to see how soon our farm will be sold. In two or three months, I suppose."

The very next day a man and his wife came to look at the farm. They said they had never expected in the Statesman before the day was over two other people had called and by the end of the week their farm was sold.

"By George!" ejaculated the father Sunday morning. "Here our place is sold and we have no more to do but to get ready to get such quick results so has neglected to look around for another house. Say, ma, where's the Statesman? I want to look in their classified ad section for a house."

After looking in the Statesman for a few minutes he exclaimed, jumping up and dancing a jig:

"Here's the thing. Listen: 'Six room house, 2 lots, chicken house, fruit, place for garden. Handy to street car. Terms.'"

"There, mother, you can have your chickens that you hated to give up and we can have a garden and everything. Who says Statesman classified ads don't bring results?"

One evening when the family were sitting on the porch of their new home Mr. Miller said:

"This sure is fine. Just think in only a short time we have sold our farm and have bought a fine new home. I'll tell the world I'm strong for the Statesman classified ads. They bring results."

CUT THIS OUT—IT IS WORTH MONEY

Cut out this slip, enclose with 5c and mail it to Foley & Co., 2835 Sheffield Ave., Chicago, Ill., writing your name and address clearly. You will receive in return a trial package containing Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for coughs, colds and croup; Foley Kidney Pills for pains in sides and back; rheumatism, backache, kidney and bladder ailments; and Foley Cathartic Tablets, a wholesome and thoroughly effective cathartic for constipation, biliousness, headaches, and sluggish bowels.—Sold everywhere.—(adv.)

CRIME WAVE MYTH (Continued from page 1)

lation at the Oregon prison gradually decreased until September 15, 1919, when the low tide in enrollment was reached. On that date the records showed, according to Mr. Webb's report, that there were 243 persons in the prison, a decrease of 323. The present population of the institution is 249, or a number almost equal to that recorded in April of the year 1918.

moved from Oregon, while those remaining at home were absorbed in honorable and well-paying occupations.

Mr. Webb, while not an abstainer prior to his admission to the prison, believes that prohibition, more than any other agency, has contributed to the decrease in crime and lower population of the penal institutions.

Mr. Webb also dwelt at some length on what he terms a false representation that the war was responsible for many young men being wrong. Latest records in the prison, he said, shows that only six ex-servicemen have been committed to the institution a number far below the average received from the ranks of other citizens.

Included in the present prison population of 249 are three men awaiting execution and 58 persons serving life sentences. Two of the men under death sentence are Elvie D. Kirby, alias James Owens, and John L. Rathle, who participated in the slaying of Sheriff T. J. Taylor of Umatilla county on July 25, 1920. These men were received at the prison on October 19, 1920, and were to have been executed December 3. A few days before the date set for the executions the cases were appealed and will be argued before the supreme court early in May. George Howard of Multnomah county, also is awaiting death at the penitentiary. He is alleged to have killed George Sweeney of Vale on September 15, 1920. Final determination of his case also is in the hands of the supreme court.

COURTS NOT "AV"

In conclusion Mr. Webb said he based his report entirely upon recent records at the prison, which were considered by prison welfare workers as the best barometer of crime conditions.

It is also contended by Mr. Webb that the average of convictions varies little from year to year, consequently it cannot be contended that the courts were more lax during the last 10 years than the 10 years previously.

MOTHER MUST SERVE SENTENCE

Previous Conviction Renewed and Manslaughter Charge Dismissed

SEATTLE, Apr. 6.—Mrs. Gladys Primeau, 21, held under a charge of manslaughter, in connection with the death of her 14-month-old baby Trenton Monday, will serve a sentence of one to 15 years under previous conviction on a charge of grand larceny at Tacoma, Wash., it was announced today when on motion of the state the manslaughter charge was dismissed.

She was found guilty and sentenced to life in the grand larceny charge in February and sentence suspended. She was taken to Tacoma today.

The Primeau baby was left alone in the hose Sunday, police said, and secured poison which resulted in his death the following day.

TACOMA, Wash., April 6.—Mrs. Gladys Primeau, released from a charge of manslaughter at Seattle on condition that a previous sentence of from one to 15 years for burglary, suspended here be served, was brought to Tacoma today and sentenced by Superior Judge W. D. Ashby. Mrs. Primeau's plea for leniency was this time unheeded.

"Your honor, give me another chance to make good," she begged the court today. "I was forced to leave my babies alone. My husband never brings home anything to eat and doesn't give me any money. Before leaving home Saturday I went to a neighbors and begged three slices of bread which I gave to the children."

"I recall that when you were in trouble before both your husband and the state here and pleaded that you be given a chance to go right. It seems to me that if he cared for you so little as you say, he would not have done that," the court said as he ordered that the sentence be served.

Mr. Primeau uttered a cry and fell to the floor in a faint as the court gave judgment and had to be carried from the court room.

Samuel Awarded Contract To Crush County's Rock

At 1 o'clock yesterday the county court opened bids for the contract of crushing 4000 yards of rock at the Mt. Angel quarry. D. Samuel of this city, who was the lowest bidder, was awarded the contract.

Six bids in all were submitted. The bidders were John Schwab of Mt. Angel, who placed his bid at $11.90 a square yard; D. Samuel at 98 cents; Archie Mason of Portland at $1; Joseph Downes of Portland, $1.20; Roy A. Thomas, Portland, $1.30, and P. L. Frazer of Salem at $1.10.

"Why did Tom quit the photographer's daughter after all these months?"

"He says he's been calling four times a week, and she hasn't gotten half through the picture album yet."—Brown Jug.

PEONAGE CASE BEFORE COURT

Negro Farm Boss Says Fear For Life Motive For Deeds

CRUELTY IS REVEALED

Manning Denies Pressure Brought to Force His Confession

COVINGTON, Ga., April 6.—Fear for his life was the motive that prompted Clyde Manning, negro farm boss to help kill 11 negro farmhands employed on the Jasper county plantation of John S. Williams, he told the jury today in the trial of Williams. Manning asserted on cross examination he did not want to help kill them but was afraid to disobey Williams, who, he declared, was trying to do away with the negroes for fear they would testify regarding alleged peonage conditions on the Williams' farm.

"They wasn't a-botanying me," he said "and I didn't want to get 'em out of the way, but Mr. Johnson said 'It's their necks or yours'."

The negroes met death shortly after federal authorities started investigating alleged peonage on the farm, six of them, according to Manning, being chained to rocks and thrown alive into rivers, and five knifed in the head or shot or buried on the farm.

Williams is on trial charged with the murder of Lindsey Peterson, one of the negroes alleged to have been drowned.

Throughout an hour of cross examination Manning, who was indicted with Williams, denied any pressure had been brought to bear on him to make him tell the story.

Besides Manning, two federal agents, Clyde Freeman, a negro farmhand and a negro woman cook testified for the state which was expected to conclude tomorrow. The defense indicated it would close its testimony in about a day.

Manning seemed little affected by his recital. He is unable to read or write, he said, and is about 29 years old.

TRAFFIC ORDERS STILL VIOLATED

More Arrests by Police and More Fines Imposed By City Recorder

Arrests for traffic violations continued to be noted on the police records last night. Among those reported by Police Officer Ellis were E. P. Stevenson, route 4, arrested for driving without headlights; K. G. Becke, on a charge of the same offense; C. B. Osborne, 185 South Commercial street, operating his car with but one headlight; Capt. R. S. Hancock of the Salvation Army, driving without a rear light, and Mrs. B. F. Pound, 245 South Winter street, for driving an automobile with but one headlight and no rear light burning.

Officer Digness was arrested by Officer Hayden for exceeding the speed limit, in driving at the alleged rate of 35 miles an hour on Capitol street. He was required to furnish a bail of $10, which he forfeited for failing to appear yesterday afternoon before Judge Earl Race to answer to his charge.

Those who have already paid fines and the amount paid are R.

NEW GERMAN SPEEDSTER WEIGHS ONLY 74 POUNDS.

This motorcycle manu factured by a German concern in Berlin can make thirty-six miles an hour. It is handy, easily controlled and costs but $50.

S. Hancock, $5; E. P. Stevenson, $10; K. G. Becke and C. B. Osborne, $5 each; Everett Givens and Carl Yanell, previously arrested for traffic offenses, paid fines of $2.50 each.

Union is Recognized. Mill Resumes Operation

As a result of Charles K. Spaulding agreeing to recognize the Timberworkers' union, and with nothing being said about the wage scale, the Spaulding lumber mill resumed operation yesterday morning and will continue indefinitely. Mr. Spaulding is reported to have said he had orders sufficient to keep the mill in operation for six days at least.

It is presumed the minimum wage will be $3 a day, a reduction from the $3.50 basis that prevailed prior to the shutting down of the mill several days ago.

Inheritance Tax Raised By Treasurer O. P. Hoff

O. P. Hoff, state treasurer, has succeeded in having increased by $30,000 the estate of the late John McDermid of Moro, Sherman county. This brings the valuation of the estate up to $163,000 and increases the inheritance tax to the state by $600.

A Comedy that will put dimples in the cheeks of the world

Coming To The Oregon Sunday

Advertisement for Zerolene motor oil, featuring a car and the text 'The Standard Oil Zerolene For Motor Cars A symbol of correct lubrication'.

Advertisement for Platen's C & C or Black Capsules, a preparation of compound copal and cubin.

Advertisement for Swift & Company Fertilizers, for every crop and soil requirement.

Advertisement for Clarence S. Bowne, (Little Talks About Investment of Savings) SOUND BUSINESS MAXIMS. What constitutes the difference between a tramp and a capitalist? The margin is very small—if you earn three dollars and save one, you have marked the dividing line.

Advertisement for Bligh Theatre, FRIDAY-SATURDAY Four Acts Hippodrome Vaudeville.

Advertisement for Dead Men Tell No Tales, Bligh Theatre, FRIDAY-SATURDAY Four Acts Hippodrome Vaudeville.