FIRE DESTROYS LARGE HOTEL

Ambassador, One of Best Known Hotels on Coast Is Destroyed

ALL GUESTS ARE SAVED

Property Loss is Estimated At One and One-Half Million

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., April 13.—Two hours after fire was discovered here at 2:30 p. m. today in the Ambassador, formerly the Potter hotel, the structure containing 250 rooms and one of the most widely known hotels on the Pacific coast, was a flaming mass of ruins.

A hurried check of guests and employees indicated that all had escaped without injury. A maid was carried down a fire escape, but all other occupants were believed to have been able to escape unaided.

Early estimates placed the property loss at about $1,500,000. The Santa Barbara Hotel company owners, carried $265,000 in insurance on the building and $227,000 on its contents. Several hours after the discovery of the flames no satisfactory report as to their origin had been obtained.

The fire was discovered by a telephone operator on duty in the lobby. She said she heard an unusual roaring sound in a room beside her switchboard and upon opening a door found burning brands dropping through a hole burned through the second floor.

bell boys and other employees were sent to warn guests and found the hallways on all four floors filled with smoke. A high wind spread the flames rapidly.

A half dozen streams of water had no appreciable effect, and in spite of every effort the flames continued to spread rapidly from the center of the building through the two great wings and of less than an hour after the discovery of the fire the tile roof fell with a tremendous roar. The walls of the two wings fell in 30 minutes later.

The only portions of the establishment the firemen were able to save were detached or semi-detached bungalows, garages, power and heating plants, laundry, servants' quarters and greenhouses.

The falling roofs and walls sent out showers of burning brands but the wind carried these harmlessly out to sea.

The Ambassador hotel, for many years known as the Potter, was built in 1902 by Milo M. Potter. Buildings and grounds occupied ten acres on the ocean front.

Two years ago its management was taken over by the Ambassador Hotel system.

The hotel housed approximately 150 guests and 200 servants at the time of the fire. But few of the guests were able to rescue their personal belongings and some were forced to flee in bath robes and other scanty attire. J. C. Ward of New York estimated his loss in apparel and jewels at $5000.

Distinguished persons who recently have been guests at the hotel include Mr. and Mrs. Ellhu Root, Myron T. Herrick, recently appointed ambassador to France, and the Count de Clairmont.

CITY LEAGUE TO OPERATE AGAIN
Meeting of Twilight Circuit Clubs Called to Make Preliminary Plans

Representatives of the six Salem Twilight baseball league teams that played in the series of games last season, will meet at the Y. M. C. A. Friday night to make preliminary plans for the opening of the circuit games this season.

If possible, it is planned to start the games next week so the series may be concluded July 4. Last year the season opened May 17 and it was impossible to finish the series because of the interference of the July 4 celebrations and the Shriners' convention in Portland.

The six establishments that had teams in the league last season and that will be represented at the meeting Friday night are the Y. M. C. A., the Spaulding Logging company, Hauser Brothers, the state house and the Valley Motor company.

All these will be invited to participate again. If any is unable to come into the league, other establishments will be invited to organize teams so the league may have at least six clubs in operation.

At the meeting Friday night a new president and a new secretary will be elected, and the new president will call a meeting for the appointment of a schedule committee.
