

SOCIETY NEWS OF THE WEEK

Well, this seems to be a musical year indeed for Salem. When we had begun to feel that the Matzner concert would practically end our musical season...

This is a stellar musical attraction, and should attract a large audience. The orchestra is on its annual spring tour, which will cover a period of eleven weeks in the Northwest.

There are 75 members in the orchestra, with a group of noted soloists. Founded by W. A. Clark Jr., who is described as a man "big enough to have his head in the clouds and his feet on the ground."

The Musical Review said: "Walter Henry Powell is the musical hero of the Los Angeles season. The personnel of the orchestra is among the best in the country."

One of the soloists will be Elizabeth Rothwell, of whom Florence Lawrence, musical critic of the Los Angeles Examiner said: "Her Wagner in the Elizabeth aria from 'Tannhauser' was dramatic alike in intonation and in the radiant spirit which the singer exhaled throughout the song."

Sylvan Noack, concertmaster of the orchestra, served in the same capacity in Boston for ten years. He has also appeared with great success in concerts of the greatest European orchestras.

Ilya Bronson, violinist, is a Russian by birth, who was graduated from the conservatory at Odessa with honors. His score as cellist in the Gewandhaus orchestra in Leipzig, the New York Symphony and others.

OUT IN THE FIELDS

Elizabeth Barrett Browning

THE little cares that fretted me, I lost them yesterday Among the fields above the sea, Among the winds at play, Among the lowing of the herds, The rustling of the trees, Among the singing of the birds, The humming of the bees; The foolish fears of what may happen, I cast them all away Among the clover-scented grass, Among the new-mown hay, Among the husking of the corn Where drowsy poppies nod, Where ill thoughts die and good are born Out in the fields with God.

veteran of the Civil war. Those who were unable to call sent cards and messages of congratulation.

A delightful meeting of the Interior Decorating section of the Salem Arts league was held at the suburban residence of Mrs. Monroe Gilbert, Wednesday, with a luncheon being a pleasant detail.

An event that promises to be of unusual musical interest is the lecture-recital to be given by Lucien E. Becker, well-known musician of Portland, who will come to Salem Thursday to present a program in the auditorium of the high school. Mr. Becker, who appeared in an organ recital at the First Christian church this winter, is being brought to Salem by Miss Lena Belle Tartar, head of the music department of the high school, who is planning the event in an effort to stimulate interest in music among high school students.

The public will be cordially welcomed on the occasion, a silver offering to be taken to defray expenses. The following program will be given: (Numbers not arranged.) Dedication—Schumann-Liszt. Prelude from Holberg Suite—Grieg. Valse Poetique op. 13—Friml. Nocturne op. 27—Chopin. Ballade op. 1347—Chopin. Bird Study—Henselt. Prelude in A minor—Debussy. Barcarolle—Faure. Trauererl—Strauss. Concert Waltz in E major—Moszkowski. To a Water Lily—MacDowell. Polonaise E major—Liszt.

A large group of Miss Beatrice Shelton's music pupils attended the concert at the armory Friday night, being enthusiastic admirers of La Forge. The following pupils took advantage of Miss Shelton's efforts to secure seats for them: Ruth Bedford, Beth Bedford, Lois Nye, Gretchen Brown, Ruth Page, Myrtle Morton, Elva Ansler, Hollis Vick, Ruth Peck, Mary Browne, Elaine Chapin, Lorraine Fletcher, Catherine Barker, Geneva Sudin, Leona Geer, Mary Cupper, Cecil Deacon, Robert Rawson, Lloyd Waltz.

Through the efforts of this progressive teacher the following pupils will attend the concert tomorrow night at the Portland auditorium, given by the great French pianist, Cortot, who will demonstrate the Duo-Art piano: Ruth Page, Helen Pollock, Lois Nye, Elva Ansler, Ruth Peck, Ruth Bedford, Beth Bedford, Gretchen Brown, Wayne Allen, Kenneth Wilson, Robert Rawson, Lloyd Waltz, Cecil Deacon.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thompson kept open house Friday, when they received their friends on the occasion of the eightieth birthday of Mr. Thompson, a well-known which the rest of the evening was spent in dancing and games.

The piano recital given Saturday evening, April 9, by a number of the pupils of Bertha Junk Darby's class at art studio, 679 North Cottage street, proved to be an enjoyable one, and a momentous occasion for several beginners, who appeared in the first part of the program. Market improvement was noted in the work of the more advanced pupils, since the last recital given in December. Mrs. Beatty, who assisted with vocal numbers, sang "Love is a Rose," and "Haut of the Witches," and gave great pleasure.

The program included the following names, a few being detained from appearing, by the prevailing epidemic: Carol Madsen, Clair Hartley, Mildred Carson, Julia Query, Deloris Williams, Jessie Fukuda, Thomas Nelson, Geneva Beatty, Mamie Fukuda, Dorothy Sweig, Edna Kugel, Marjory Hewett, Blanche Hackett, Kenneth Hewitt, Alta Harmer, Paul Woodward, Ruth Lemery, Mrs. Bates, Velma Taylor, Carrie Halsell, Irma Keeler.

A large and appreciative audience filled the auditorium of the high school two evenings this week, when pupils of Miss Elma Weiler appeared in programs of unusual interest and merit. Older pupils were presented on Wednesday evening, with Miss Ruth Johns, soprano, and Miss Mary Schoettle, violinist, assisting. Thursday evening was given over to the Dunning children, with Gwendolyn Jarman and Donald Poudjale given certificates of graduation.

An outstanding feature of both recitals was the graceful, easy and skillful handling of the piano, the ability in the very young students, to bring out all the beautiful, lovely tones of the instrument.

Apparently, results were accomplished with the greatest ease, for there was no visible effort. The Dunning work was illustrated on the second evening, in a way that was a complete revelation to many in the audience who were unacquainted with the method.

One fact remained outstanding through it all, and that was that no matter whether or not the young performers ever became artists, they would carry through life an appreciation of music that would increase their enjoyment of living.

Miss Johns delighted with her songs, as did also Miss Schoettle with her violin number. Features of the second evening were the songs by Joy Lewis a little four-year-old, and the violin number by Mildred Roberts.

The programs follow: Valse Styrienne (Wollnhaupf) Helen Pettyjohn. (a) Creole Song (Heller); (b) Triumph (Heller); Myrtle Maxwell. Fiddle and I (Goodeve), Ruth Johns. Violin obligato—Mary Schoettle.

On April 13, the many friends of J. C. Savage surprised him by giving a party at his home in Woodlawn, in honor of his 48th birthday. A very pleasant evening was spent with cards and various games after which a musical program was rendered. Among those who participated were: Arnette Collins, violin; Cecil Collins, piano; and vocal selections by Daisy Collins. Walter Ebeling of Portland also favored the guests with violin selections. The program ended with a reading by Anusom who is always a favorite.

At a late hour refreshments were served after which the guests departed, wishing Mr. Savage the happiest of birthdays throughout the coming years.

The Women's Foreign Missionary society of the First Methodist church was entertained at the home of Mrs. H. H. Vandervort Wednesday afternoon. After the business meeting Mrs. Blaine E. Kirkpatrick had charge of the lesson. Misses Genevieve and Louise Findley played a piano duet. Thirty-eight women were present.

Mr. and Mrs. William E. Lundy and little daughter of Myrtle Point, spent Thursday and Friday in Salem as guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Conner, while on their way to Seattle and eastern Washington on a combined business and pleasure trip.

One of the most important and generally interesting issues to come before the meeting in Salem Thursday, of the Home Missionary conference board of the Methodist church, was steps taken, which will shortly terminate in a new building to house the occupants of the Old People's home. The plot out on Center street was secured some time ago, and there is at present in the treasury $35,000 structure. A committee headed by Mrs. B. E. Sissons, of Salem and including Mrs. E. J. Swafford also of Salem and Mrs. Joshua Stanfield of Portland, was named Thursday to formulate plans for the raising of $5000 the remaining $10,000 to be made up by the conference board, and by bequests.

At the morning session reports were heard from the various departmental secretaries. Luncheon at the Y. W. C. A. at noon was quite informal, 40 covers being laid. In the afternoon, the meeting opened with a charming vocal solo by Miss Olga Grace Davis, superintendent of the Portland Settlement center. She also made a report of the extension work of the center. Mrs. May C. Bliss, national field secretary, of San Francisco gave a report of the opening of Japanese work in Portland, with the pleasing announcement that the Japanese consul there was very favorable, and the native pastor had promised his support. As bureau secretary of Japanese and Korean work on the coast, Mrs. W. C. Evans was represented by Mrs. Bliss who told of the former's activities.

The report of Mrs. George H. Alden, corresponding secretary, was inspiring and notable covering the last two months. "This period, in my mind," said Mrs. Alden, "is the most important in the history of the work, including as it does so many important phases, and showing a splendid growth, with many energetic women added to the membership."

The next regular meeting of the board will be in June, with the local women going to Portland in May upon the invitation of the Portland members.
