FARMERS WILL PUT IN FLAX

Situation Confronting State Frankly Presented At Meeting Friday

FARMERS ON OWN FEET

Growers Manifest Willingness to continue Development of Industry

At a conference yesterday between farmers who have contracted with the state to produce flax for this year's crop to be handled by the state plant at the penitentiary, the state officials, including Governor Olcott, Warden Compton of the prison and others, the farmers were informed that for them to sow flax this season will be entirely upon their own responsibility with the understanding that they will receive their pay whenever the money is available from the state.

More Than Half Sown Of the more than 700 acres contracted about 460 acres has been sown. Notwithstanding the lack of funds in the flax industry with which to pay the farmers when this season's crop is harvested, most of the farmers who attended the conference yesterday indicated they would go ahead with the sowing of their crops. Two causes have contributed to the lack of funds. One is the slump in the flax market since the contracts were made and the other was the shutting down of the prison plant while the new flume was under construction, making it impossible to work up the 1920 crop for the market.

The flax industry has been placed entirely under the supervision of the prison warden. The services of a superintendent will be continued but he will be under the direction of the warden.

At the conference yesterday Governor Olcott read the following statement to the growers:

Liquid Assets Lacking

"The flax industry is on a basis upon which no private business could survive. There is no appropriation giving it liquid assets through which the handling of the crop may be financed. While it has assets in the way of plant and fixtures, it cannot hypothecate these as securities to obtain money to float its current business. While it has officers, they have no authority or legal status giving them power to contract indebtedness to meet obligations on its flax contracts. We have power to enter into these flax contracts but no way in which to pay the farmer save through working up the unfinished product into the finished product. Obviously that takes time. In the meantime the farmer must wait for his money. I wish to be perfectly frank with you and make plain by cold, hard facts the situation which confronts all of us. We wish to see this industry succeed and so do you. We are held down by limitations not imposed upon a private business. We must face the facts as we find them and meet and overcome the difficulties the best we may.

Co-operation Pledged

"We wish your co-operation and we will give you ours. Every effort will be made to pay you dollar for dollar for your flax as soon as it can be done. How soon that will be I cannot say, but it will be as quickly as possible.

"The flax industry has been unfortunate in that when the market price was at its peak through war and other conditions we had little flax to sell because the immediate preceding years had been marked by small crops. Had it been otherwise there would undoubtedly have been a better financial situation for us today."

Elbert Hubbard once said: "To stop advertising is to let your business run on momentum, and momentum is a gradual move toward a dead stop."

CHILEAN FARM LABORERS STRIKE

Marks New Era in Relations Between Employer and Workmen

SANTIAGO, CHILE, April 7.—(By The Associated Press)—The first farm laborers' strike in Chile was called recently by several hundred workers on the 20,000-acre estate of an English woman near here. While the actual movement was confined to one farm and involved a relatively small number of men, it attracted widespread interest and has been pointed out as marking the beginning of a new era in the existing relations between the land proprietor and the Chilean agricultural laborer.

The immediate cause of the trouble it is said, was the refusal of the laborers to continue working until sunset during harvest, according to long established custom in this country. The provincial governor investigated the strike and announced "there had been a strike lock place of propaganda passing between the Chilean federation of labor and workers on various farms in the department." The workers also demanded increased wages, dismissal of the overseer and the right to organize a labor union. The dispute finally was settled after President Alessandri had admonished the men to return to the fields.

The "inquilino" system prevails on most of the large estates which form a characteristic feature of the farming region of central Chile. Under the system the worker is given possession of a plot of land for purposes of cultivation, a house and rights of pasturage. On the estate where the strike took place the daily wages were 30 centavos (about 18 cents at normal exchange). The South Pacific Mail, discussing the strike, says "relations between the employer and employee on the farms hitherto has been characterized by the patron has been the ultimate court of appeal and, it might be said, absolute master of the liberties, if not the lives of the peasantry who are linked to these estates by the 'inquilino' system. On the great haciendas (farms) the laborers and their families have remained for many years in a virtual state of feudal servitude. It is not surprising, therefore, that at the present day, when the self-consciousness of the worker all over the world has awakened, that the Chilean peon should seek some amelioration of his often hard lot."

The owner of the estate where the laborers went on strike said the walkout was the direct result of action of "subversive elements." She declared she had provided her employees with good homes, schools and medical attendance.

POWER PROJECT IS ANNOUNCED

McMahan Contemplates Development Near Turner to Cost $50,000

L. H. McMahan, Salem attorney, contemplates the possible expenditure of $50,000 in the development of water power from Mill creek for the generation of electrical energy for commercial purposes. Mr. McMahan said yesterday, however, that his plans are yet in a tentative state.

McMahan filed with the state engineering department an application for a permit to appropriate 300 second feet of water from Mill creek and the Santiam river for the development of power near Turner. Under the development it is proposed to appropriate the water from Mill creek east of Turner, and carry it through about two miles of canal, dropping the water into Mill creek again under a 45-foot head north of Turner, developing 1635 theoretical horsepower.

Other applications have been filed with the state engineer as follows: By Katie Enselman of Canyon City, covering the appropriation of water from Canyon creek, for irrigation of 25 acres in Grant county.

By Frank Robinson of Freewater, covering the appropriation of a five-acre tract in Umatilla county.

By T. H. Elliott of Ashland, covering the appropriation of 500 acre feet from Keen creek for storage, to be used in irrigation of land in Jackson county.

By H. G. Harlan of Walla Walla, covering the appropriation of 150 second feet from little Walla Walla river for development of 3500 horsepower in Umatilla county.

By the Southern Pacific company, covering the appropriation of water from a tributary of Nehalem river for fireprotection purposes in Washington county.

By Blaine Disbro of Wamie, covering the construction of a small reservoir on Hazel Hollow creek for irrigation purposes in Wasco county.

have been received. They are almost identical in their principal provisions. Both apply only to private and commercial craft. The governments interested reserve the right to prohibit circulation in certain areas for military reasons and the agreements provide that any aircraft finding itself accidentally over such areas must at once give the signal of distress provided for in the air navigation regulations of the country over which it is flying. Passengers are required to have the usual papers for international travel and all goods carried must be accompanied by bills of lading. Certain aerodromes are specified as the only points from which aircraft may start and land. Machines must carry certificates of "airworthiness," and marks of identification must be sufficiently plain to be easily recognized during flight. Speaking of the Stillman divorce case, with a litigant enjoying an income of more than a half million dollars a year, there is no end to the joy in sight for the attorneys on both sides.

Impressive Bronze Gate To Stand as Memorial

VERDUN, April 12.—An impressive bronze gate will soon be added to the Hand memorial monument over the famous "Trench of Bayonets" at Verdun. The gate has been designed by Andre Ventre, the Paris architect, and now is on exhibition in Paris. Like the memorial itself, the gate is the gift of the late George F. Rand of Buffalo, N. Y. The gate will be erected at the entrance of the historic trench which covers the bodies of the French soldiers who were killed in the trench, leaving their names exposed above the ground. The gate is of thick bronze, about 12 by 8 feet. A massive sword entwined with bronze leaves extends from the top to the bottom of the gate. On each side of the entrance will be two bronze tablets, giving the name of the donor and a brief history of the trench. The memorial is of concrete construction and is being given a smooth finish.
