MANY CHILDREN ARE HANDICAPPED

State Highway Department Announces Program for Session in May

To make school inspections and home calls, Miss Lillian Godsey, the county nurse, was taken to Scotts Mills yesterday by a member of that community. During the day the nurse examined 75 school children and found in all but 6, some physical defect that could be corrected. Eight were found to be in serious need of corrected eyesight.

In one rural school, where the nurse made recent examinations, only one out of 20 pupils was found to be free of teeth, eye, ear, nose and throat trouble. One-half the girl who had been in the first grade for three years, was found, not to be mentally deficient, but handicapped because of poor eyesight. Poor lighting in the school room was found to be the cause of most of the eye troubles.

In making visits to large families the nurse has found that children held back physically and mentally because of defects which more care would have prevented. In one family of nine children, she found all with bad tonsils, all under-weight and poorly nourished.

Medical attention usually follows the recommendation of the public health nurse. In one Marion community, the nurse was called on to see what she could do about a large family which was proving a menace to the peace of the neighborhood. In the family were 11 children who were allowed to "run wild" by the parents and any case involving juvenile delinquency could usually be traced to this family as a source.

Every county in Oregon has, and always has had, to contend with the problem of relief for the poor. Counties having a public health nurse are finding it much easier to meet the situation by referring cases to the nurse for investigation. As a trained worker she is able to administer relief in an economic manner.

TWO DAYS DRIVE STARTS TODAY

Governor Issues Challenge To People to Raise Relief Money

Governor Ben W. Olcott yesterday afternoon issued the following statement in regard to the campaign for the Near East and China Famine relief: "The citizens of Salem and Marion county have before them this week the opportunity to send relief to the victims of the greatest famine catastrophe the world has ever known. 'I feel confident that they will look upon this condition, not as a Chinese situation, but as a world situation, and that Marion county's contributions to China Near East relief will far exceed our quota.'"

Ben W. Olcott, governor. For two days beginning today a concentrated effort will be made by teams of solicitors who will thoroughly cover both the business and residence districts of the city to wind up the campaign. Several committees and individuals received their equipment from the headquarters in order to lose no time in starting early this morning. All who are going to help are asked to get their returns in as soon as possible.

The soliciting in the residence sections will be taken care of largely by the students of Willamette university, and various women's organizations. W. P. Walter, executive secretary, yesterday said that more people could be used in the business district, in addition to those who will be assigned to those districts.

Encouraging reports are continually coming in from the high schools where students are sending the appeal and are responding with their contributions. At Jefferson high school students pledged $50 cash, about $2 apiece, and paid the money cash. Both the grade and high schools at Marion, Turner, Stayton and Aumsville were nearly 100 per cent in their pledges of $3 per student. Willamette students have made offers to assist on Sunday by filling pulpits in various churches in the county. Some of them will conduct entire services, others preparing only brief appeals. They will be sent to Woodburn, Donald, Fargo, Aurora, Hubbard, Silverton, Scotts Mills and Stayton. Mr. Walter will go to Marion on Sunday morning to speak at night will appear at Jefferson.

A moving picture of the China famine will be shown this afternoon at a meeting of the Pythian Sisters at Aurora. Mr. Walter and Jimmy Price will make the trip to Aurora.

FOREST SAVING WEEK IS FIXED

State Desert Land Board Opens Way for Development of Reclamation

In a letter to the people of Oregon, Governor Olcott sets aside the week of May 22 to 28 as forest protection week in Oregon, following the action of President Harding in setting aside the week for the entire United States. The governor asks that civic and other organizations observe the week in such a way as to emphasize the necessity of forest protection. The letter follows: "In the light of the fact that the Hon. Warren G. Harding, president of the United States, has issued a proclamation calling upon the governors of the various states to designate the week of May 22-28, 1921, as Forest Protection week, and in light of the fact that the state of Oregon contains a large share of the remaining standing timber in the United States, I respectfully urge upon the people of Oregon to observe the week in question as Forest Protection week. Oregon more than any other state in the union, is dependent upon her timber wealth, the perpetuation of her lumber industries and conservation of her stream flow. In spite of the excellent protection afforded by the federal government, the state government and private organizations, our losses of standing timber are periodically in excess of what they should be, and such losses result in increased taxes and a removal of a possible field for labor to the detriment of all our citizenship. "I respectfully urge upon all civic and other organizations that during the week designated as Forest Protection week they bring to the attention of their membership the need for care with fire in forested areas and the duty of every citizen to help prevent and suppress forest fires. Those interested in this movement also particularly request that at least one day during this week appropriate instructions be given in all schools of the state, looking to the better understanding of the need for protecting our timber resources and the value of this resource to every citizen. State, county and city officials are likewise urged to use every effort looking to bringing before the public our duty as citizens to prevent needless waste of natural resources."

FASCINATING TRICK DRESSES FOR OUTDOOR GIRLS.

Left to Right—Navy blue tricotine. Tunic removed. Coat eliminated. A novel costume which is really three in one was designed for the Fashion League of America. One effect is a navy blue tricotine with facings of blue and beige here-'n'-there. When the fancy dictates the wearer may drop the tunic skirt, revealing the skirt here-'n'-there. When it is too warm the coat may be eliminated, leaving the frock alone.

GOVERNMENT AND STATE IN CLASH

Governor Olcott Accedes to Request Recently Made By President

The state of Oregon and the United States government are in a clash as to how much lake land the state is obligated to cede back to the government under an act of the legislature of 1905 which provided for the ceding to the government of lands uncovered by the lowering of the waters of Upper Klamath, Lower Klamath, Tule and Goose lakes in Klamath county for the purpose of reclamation developments, insofar as the lands had not been disposed of by the state. The state land board has received from the commissioner of the general land office a demand that the state cede back to the government the lands bordering around Klamath lake which were patented to the state years ago. A list of the lands accompanies the commissioner's letter. The commissioner claims that these lands were included in the grant by the state in 1905. Attorney General Van Winkle and the state land board both hold that the lands were not included in that grant for the reason that they had been patented to the state by the government prior to 1905. Further the attorney general and the board hold that swamp lands, whether patented or not, were not included in the 1905 grant because the swamp land act was approved in the year 1869.

CENTRAL OREGON POLICY FORMED

National Administration Negotiates With Japan, McNary Replies

The state desert land board yesterday, following a conference, announced a definite policy that will be followed relative to the Central Oregon irrigation development.

The board recommends that prior to January 1, 1922, all of the unpatented lands of the project be relinquished to the federal government; that the Central Oregon irrigation company be permitted to sell water to the unsold patented lands; that the board should attempt to exercise no further jurisdiction or control over the project, except as to the approval of contracts covering the unsold patented lands, and that any jurisdiction or control necessary should be exercised by the irrigation district, organized and approved by the board for such purpose. The board expressed the hope that this policy will open the way for the settlement of the long-drawn-out controversy which has been pending between the Central Oregon irrigation district and the Central Oregon irrigation company, involving the lands of the Central Oregon irrigation project located in Deschutes and Crook counties.
