EDWARD MARKHAM, long known as a poet, might, at least in one instance, claim to be hailed as a prophet. Years ago he wrote a poem, entitled "Russia, Arise," a poem which strangely forecast the present revolution. In these dramatic lines he calls upon the czar's empire to rise to the great hours of destiny, and he announced the approaching day when "freedom shall topple kings, and shake to dust their treasons."

The poem at the time made a sensation in St. Petersburg. A translation of it was sent to Russia by a New York Russian and read at a public meeting, and this caused the reader of the lines to be jailed for a year and a half.

This poem, "Russia, Arise," and "The Man With the Hoe"—also well known among the Russian populace—are said by the revolutionists to have been a potent inspiration of the great present movement for freedom in Russia.

Mr. Markham will give a lecture in Salem Monday evening, May 16, in the auditorium of the Salem high school. Tickets, which sell at $1; 50 cents for students, are now on sale at the two local bookstores, the Capital drug store, the Gilbert studio and the Salem Electric company's store.

Mrs. S. McElna entertained as her guests over the week-end Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Barr of Eugene and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph DeWitt of Portland. The Barrs left for a short sojourn in Portland Sunday night, returning again to Salem last night, and will remain with Mrs. McElna several days longer.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Mills returned home Monday night from the following term.

Seats were placed in a semi-circle for the guests of the day, who made up a large audience.

Following so closely on Mother's day, the charmingly appointed dinner which Mr. and Mrs. A. E. LaFar gave for the former's mother Monday night, fittingly commemorated that date, and also marked the birthday anniversary of the honoree. In the nature of a surprise, it was doubly enjoyable. A quite wonderful detail of the dinner was the large birthday cake in red and white, and which had for its chief ornamentation raised letters which spelled "Mother." Red candles glowed in tall stalks on either side, and tulips in the same color were utilized for floral decoration.

Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. G. W. LaFar, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Garland, Western Houghton, Bert Jeffrey and Mr. and Mrs. A. E. LaFar.

It isn't necessary to spend one copper cent for carfare to the south to get the far famed gumbo. It is as easily grown in a northern garden as it is in the south, and a colored cook is by no means necessary. Gumbo soups are of great variety, but the standards are chicken and crab meat gumbo, and the latter usually has the chicken stock as a basis. Anybody who has tasted real gumbo soup is ready for more.

MY HEART AND MY HUSBAND

Adele Garrison's New Phase Of REVELATIONS OF A WIFE

CHAPTER 60

WHAT DOES ALFRED REALLY THINK OF RITA BROWN?

"Oh, somebody say something or I shall scream," she said petulantly. "Do you realize that we've been sitting here absolutely silent for 10 whole minutes?"

I think there was unconscious resentment in every glance turned upon her. I know that for myself her exaggerated statement disturbed the contemplation of a rare picture that framed by the screened veranda at the rear of the Durkee home.

There are many gnarled old apple trees in the grounds surrounding the houses purchased by Dicky and Alfred Durkee, and the spring, unusually mild, had brought extremely early and abundant blossoming. The exquisite beauty of their drifting pink and white petals against the tender first green of the other trees, the vista of greensward between them stretching down to the sparkling waters of the little lake at the foot of the gardens, made a vision which I for one grasped joyfully, knowing that at least it could last but a few days, and that then another long year would elapse before the wonder and the glory of apple-blossom time came back again.

It was a picture which could not help but stir the pulses of the artist, and I had seen rapt enjoyment in Dicky's eyes as he stretched his long legs, and sat in Mrs. Durkee's comfortable veranda chairs and pulled at his after-dinner cigar. Alfred Durkee, also smoking, registered the same contemplative enjoyment, while my father's tired, strained face relaxed for a little from the burden which he was carrying as he gave himself up to the beauty spread out before him.

EDITORIALS OF THE PEOPLE

A Cry From Gates.

Editor Statesman:

I ask a little space in the columns of your paper stating the condition of our roads in road district No. 35 in the southeast part of Marion county, around Gates, Oregon. The writer lives between Gates and Niagara and travels this road almost every day. Some of our road is impassable. We have tried a number of times the last month to get our patrolman, Conrad Miller, to fix the worst places we could get on for our mail. He tells us to pile these "stink wagons," as he calls them, onto a brush pile and burn them; then he will make us a road. Now I will say this road district has a first class road, and if we could get him to use it our roads would be improved greatly. He has used the drag only one day and a half all winter and spring. Up in this mountain country we have plenty of material to build roads with, such as shell rock and gravel; if we could only get it into our roads, I have lived up in this country 20 years past, and parts of our road never have had any work done on them since they were first built, 25 or 30 years ago. We have only about 11 miles of road in this district and have carried a special road tax for the last ten years except this year; have had in the neighborhood of $20,000 in the last ten years—still our roads are in a bad condition.

We would be glad to have the honorable county court investigate this matter, or notify the patrolman to fix our road in the worst places. We feel we are not getting a fair deal; am sorry we don't live on a paved road. Now if the members of our county court think this is not true, we kindly invite them to come up and take a look at this road.

JAZZ CALLED EVIL SPIRIT

Musician in Convention Talk Pleads for Return Of Old Songs

SAVAGERY IS RETURNED

Unbalanced Human Mind Unhinged More by Modern Cabaret

CHICAGO, May 10.—Jazz, in the evil spirit of music, according to Dr. Frank E. Morton, chairman of the music industries committee, in speaking at the opening of the music trades convention here yesterday.

"Jazz," said Dr. Morton, "expresses hysteria and incites violence, revelry, dissipation, destruction, discord and chaos. Its records with the devastating volcanic spirit that has burst forth over the world in the last six years.

"Savages Were Swayed." "Rhythm and musical vibrations swayed the half savage voodooists like a powerful intoxicant. It shows the extreme to which musical vibrations can control human nerves when improperly employed. This is bad music; but the difference between the incantation-crazed fanatics and the patriot or soldier stirred to noble action by music is a difference in the music itself. Jazz is composed after the same formula as the Voodoo chants. Typing the unbalanced state of humanity's mind, it tends to unhinge it more and more. Human beings respond to this perverted organization of sound just as readily as those of the Voodooists. It is dropped in upon us in concert encores and quiet, social and family gatherings. And every rendition of it reacted on the cerebral tissues of those who sang and to a lesser extent on those who listened. With 'Home Sweet Home' silenced, home itself tends to disappear. With home swallowed up in the cabaret, the great stabilizing center of society is lost.

"Make music virile. Put red blood into it. Associate it with two-listed men who do things. Keep away from the jazz abominations. Restore the orderly harmonized organization of industrial and social life with good music. Bring back 'Home Sweet Home'."

Class Is Gone

"Seldom do you hear 'Home Sweet Home' sung now. Formerly it was a staple of school and concert encores and quiet, social and family gatherings. And every rendition of it reacted on the cerebral tissues of those who sang and to a lesser extent on those who listened. With 'Home Sweet Home' silenced, home itself tends to disappear. With home swallowed up in the cabaret, the great stabilizing center of society is lost.

"Make music virile. Put red blood into it. Associate it with two-listed men who do things. Keep away from the jazz abominations. Restore the orderly harmonized organization of industrial and social life with good music. Bring back 'Home Sweet Home'."
