LOVE, THE DIVINE PANACEA

(Copyrighted by the San Jose Mercury)

Of the millions of men and women who call themselves Christians but a very small percentage measures up to the cornerstone of Christianity, the Golden Rule. Some there may be, but the vast majority fall short.

It is a mistake to assume that the observance of the rules of religion constitutes religion. One may live up to the very letter of these rules and yet have none of the true spirit of religion.

It is so easy to forget that Christianity is a religion of love—that despite the most slavish obedience to formula without love there can be no spiritual progress.

What a beautiful message it is! What a different world we should have if men but hearkened to it instead of sacrificing peace and good will for the pottage of materialism.

Let us be tolerant, kindly, charitable. The impulse to revenge or the spirit of reprisal let us promptly repress. In none of us are wanting the nobilities which embellish character if only we would hearken to their cry.

If you are not a cabbage-head, tell the Salem slogan editor what you know about cabbage.

Memorial day in Salem and everywhere should be a day of solemn memorial and not a day of hilarity and noise and sports.

Billy Sunday collected $50,000 at the close of his sinner-saving campaign in Cincinnati. Yet the Son of Man, in whose behalf he spoke, had no place to lay his head.

The plan of sending fruits from the Pacific coast through the Panama canal to eastern markets seems to be a success. The high railway rates are offering an important field for ships and trucks driven with gasoline.

The Petaluma chamber of commerce has sent a delegation to Washington to ask for a protective tariff on poultry products. With eggs selling at two to three cents a dozen in China, this ought not to be necessary.

BEANS AND BRAINS

"Upon what meat hath this our Caesar, fed?" may have possessed a more literal meaning than the world has hitherto suspected. From an eminent Connecticut chemist comes the assertion that Yale has lost its athletic supremacy because the soil in which are grown the products on which Yale students feed has lost its vitality.

KEEPING SUNDAY

The Baptist ministers of Maryland have expressed their objection to the principle of a compulsory observance of the Sabbath. They wish men and women to observe an orderly Christian Sunday because it is proper and desirable. Not because it is the law. The strength of the church lies in its appeal to the heart, the mind and the conscience.

FEET AND BRAINS

A scientist asserts that large feet are associated with mad women, while with men it is just the reverse. It is the insane men who have small feet. Out of 1000 normal women 23 per cent had big feet. In 1000 insane women over 80 per cent had large feet.

BOOK OF BOOKS

Speaking of the best sellers, it doth appear that since the invention of type a total of more than six hundred million copies of the Bible have been printed. It takes about thirty million fresh copies every year to keep pace with the demand. The Bible is being printed in 712 different tongues, which is a couple of hundred more than any school teacher can name.

WHICH SHALL IT BE?

In a case in court here the other day a husband made the tearful plea to the judge that it was utterly impossible for him to keep both a wife and a motor car. Which did he keep? A beautiful steel engraving of George Washington will be given for the first correct solution.

SHAKE FOR IT

If we have to have airtight ships to escape the deadly work of aerial gas bombers we are in favor of doing away with this war business altogether. When we have a dispute let's settle it with the dice box in the good old way.

FUTURE DATES

May 27, 28 and 29—Baseball, William Pitts, Whisman, at Wells. May 28, Saturday—Track meet, Salem high school and James Joyce high school of Portland, on Salem field. May 29, Sunday—Memorial Sunday services.

so many purses to be won by the blooded horses of that state.

Physical supremacy has been conquered by the supple athletes of the Pacific coast all the way from Oregon to San Diego. Ask the man who is the greatest living American, and he will reply without hesitation, "Herbert Hoover," the man who received his brain cells and his love for his fellow men from the soil of Oregon and California, and the free air of the Pacific breezes.

Dr. Crilly recounted the result of his investigation and analysis. He referred to the records made by Pacific coast students in eastern colleges. Their average is uniformly high. That none has yet reached an eminence which silhouettes him on the intellectual sky-line is due to the fact that brains develop less rapidly than muscles. An athlete matures in a few years; intellectual supremacy is a plant of slower growth.

day, despite the fact that there is rush work on every farm.

Memorial day a week from tomorrow.

His, the girl graduate is coming down the pike.

Tomorrow morning the concrete will begin going down on the Pacific highway from out Jefferson way towards Salem.

Is this the week the emergency tariff bill is to get through congress? That has been the song for a long, long time.

The Statesman is saying good morning, each succeeding day, to a long list of new subscribers; to whom the Bits for Breakfast man would make his politest bow and extend his most sincere thanks, hoping the relationship may be long and mutually pleasant.

F. H. Kunkel, Salem, Route 1, who lives a mile down the Wallace road, on the Polk county side, just over the first hill, is one of the latest to join the ranks of the broccoli growers. He is planting six acres. Mr. Kunkel is a new comer, and he does not think he can undertake the care of more than that. But he has eight to ten acres more of good, new, well drained land that he would like to have some one else take and plant to broccoli.
