When we were too weak to sustain a foreign conflict, it served to postpone the disaster. But only to postpone it for, with every wish to preserve the peace, it was impossible. We fought wars with France and England, as incidents to the French revolution and Napoleonic upheaval.

New Responsibilities Arise

"It has been too often assumed that our recent involvement in the troubles of Europe marked a new development in our affairs. In fact, it was an old story. We never were and never will be able to maintain isolation. But our part and our place in international affairs are strikingly changed. Our rise in power and influence has imposed new responsibilities. Today our strength in the industrial, financial and commercial world, our capacity to produce, our ability to extend credits which others cannot give and which have not unfrequently been merely loans; all these make it necessary that we shall adopt new commercial methods whereby to insure the fullest possible service to civilization. I bespeak the help of every organ of intelligence and understanding business, to enable the nation to meet these demands.

World is Interdependent

It has been said many times but it cannot be too often repeated and emphasized. That in doing this we will be alike discharged a duty to others and giving an opportunity for our own advancement. There have seldom been more convincing proofs than we see all around us now, of the essential interdependence of all parts of the world. He who displays the broadest spirit of brotherhood, helpfulness and true charity, will surely be casting his bread on the waters.

"Our duty to the world is pressing, but we will equip ourselves best to perform helpfully if we are unwaveringly loyal to ourselves. The most important thing to America is our constitutional system inseparably from the foundation of a more perfect union, the constitution sought to establish justice. True, we have not attained the perfection of our ideals, nor has any other human society done so. Justice, like charity, must begin at home. We must be just to ourselves and to our own, first of all. This is not selfish, for selfishness seeks more than fair share; we seek only that which is rightfully our own and then to preserve that to ourselves and our posterity.

Agriculture Exalted

"We will do well to keep in mind the fundamental importance of agriculture and in every possible way insure justice to it. The farmer is entitled to all the help the government can give without injustice to others, because it is of the utmost importance that the agricultural community be contented and prosperous. This must be accomplished not at the expense of any other section, but by processes which will insure real justice among all elements.

"Turning to industry our policy must be to give it every facil-

OLD SHACKS TORN OUT

New Structures, Including Docks, Are Going up on Water Front

The spirit of progress has seized upon Newport, the most popular summer resort on the Oregon coast. Visitors are coming earlier than ever this year, in fact the month of winter resort is gradually being added to the summer resort as the number of dwellers throughout the year who come for their health and recreation is growing each year.

Recreation is the only word that expresses what has been accomplished by the change in climate to the seashore in hundreds of cases by people from the interior for many years. Apartments on the Salem Water company, and he has been made a new man with a face of tan and has put a permanent ban on rheumatism and wears a jolly phiz that bids a defy to disease and he has an appetite that keeps Mrs. Brown in constant communication with the markets.

Murphy Rejuvenated

Take Mr. and Mrs. J. Hennessy Murphy, the well known Portland attorney and raconteur of political journalism in the affairs of two continents—people who had retired and been given up by the physicians upon whom they had spent all their substance in efforts to be well. They came to Newport and accomplished complete rehabilitation. So there could be more testimonials written than would fill a patent medicine almanac for health restorations, all medicines and schools of healing had failed but those doped out by old Mother Nature. The recoveries are so happy they shout the name of doctor and nurse Newport when you give them the slightest opportunity, and the reporter had to quit talking to people about their health and appetites in order to get any time to write about the way Newport, Nye Creek, Acate Beach, South Beach, Waldport, Yaquina, Siletz and Otter Rock are improving and preparing to meet the incoming tides of health and pleasure seekers for the coming summer.

Real Estate Moving

S. G. Irvin and Lester Martin are renting more houses and moving more property than ever before in the history of the town. There are five applicants thus early in the season for cottages to one in years past.

The hotel accommodations are being enlarged and renovated and never better. From the St. Abbey house at the steamboat landing to Acate Beach inn, and including the same, all the hotels have been put in order for the season.

New Buildings Go In

Those familiar with old Newport will miss the row of old buildings on the water front that have been torn a part to make room for better dock facilities, and the rebuilt and well painted Southern Pacific ticket office on the dock.

The ferry steamer Newport has been equipped with new machinery and electric heating and will carry more passengers and make the trip from Yaquina on a high-powered engine in from 12 to 14 minutes.

The gasoline chopper Sea Foam has been remodelled to carry passengers over the bar on regular deep-sea fishing trips. The regular fishing fleet is already making big catches of halibut and cod.

Plans and specifications have been received for the new seawall to be built along the Newport water front from the whole length of the town. A receiving dock is being put in for work on the north jetty extension.

Bond Election Pending

It is expected the people will carry the bond election or an alternative plan, for the construction of permanent roads, and to complete the state highway from Newport to Corvallis. The roads have advanced to the point where a permanent auto road is to be travelable up and down the coast for one hundred miles the first section of the famous Roosevelt highway.

A new band has been organized and will greet the visitors on all public occasions. There will be dancing pavilions this year at the Casino and the amuseur and Newport will be alive and gay by night and day for old and young.

Several colonies of 8 families have enclosed cottages at Nye Beach and Acate Beach and the

PASTORS WILL UNDERGO GRILL

School for Rural Preachers Will Present Diversity Of Activity

HUNDRED ARE EXPECTED

Church Leaders of Both Coasts To Serve as Lecturers and Teachers

If any anxious young man who has ever received a dainty note from Lausanne hall, that he presided over, should happen to receive a big sprawling man's handwritten epistle bearing the crest of Lausanne, he need not be sketched that it's his hated rival taunting him over stealing his lady fair alike same Young Loch-invar. It will be merely ocular evidence that the 100 or more rural pastors of the Oregon country, who are to attend the great rural pastors' school, are quartered there and thinking they too are in clover.

The school is to be held June 27 to July 16, by the joint efforts of Kimball School of Theology, Willamette university and the rural and city departments of the Methodist Board of Missions of the church. It is open to the pastors of this whole section, and it is expected that at least 100 will attend.

Cost Kept Down

Last year it was necessary to call for outside entertainment, as there was no college dormitory that could care for the visitors. But this year Lausanne hall will easily house all who come, and at a smaller cost, and better provision for uniformity than when they are farmed out all over town. The cost is announced as $3 for room and $18 for meals for the entire 18 days.

A rather strenuous program has been laid out. Beginning at 7 o'clock for breakfast, the first class comes at 7:45 and there are evening lectures to make it about a 14-hour day, with only two hours off for recreation, from 4 to 6. It is planned to take on no games or contests with outside athletes but some interesting contests will be staged among members.

Athletic Leaders Coming

Two athletic directors will be on the faculty: Rev. Ralph A. Felton, of Philadelphia, director of playground activities for the whole church, and Miss Samson, also of Philadelphia, for years a physical director in the Y. W. C. A., and now connected with the educational work of the Methodist church. Some of these good brothers are powerful weak on athletics, and would need a lot of coaching to round up into the Dempsey or Ty Cobb class, but a lot of them'll be ready to learn if it's going to help their pastoral work, and the aim is to intersperse them as well for themselves as for those who look to them for guidance. If they aren't turned out professional or enthusiastic track bugs or coaches, or star athletes in three weeks, they are at least to be put through the routine of physical education.

Sixteen on Faculty

Sixteen lecturers and teachers are on the program, who will be able to give much individual instruction in many of the five points of the ministerial calling. Most of these are of nationwide experience, and come as the best there is in the whole Methodist church. Some local talent will assist, two of these being Miss Corrella Marvin, state librarian, and Prof. W. H. Herzog, professor of rural leadership in Willamette university, and President Hickman of Kimball School of Theology. Other speakers are: Prof. M. A. Dawber of Boston School of Theology; E. E. Higley, in charge of Indian work for the Methodist church; William M. Gilbert, superintendent bureau of foreign speaking work; E. L. Mills, editor the Pacific Christian Advocate; Charles E. Vermilya, frontier work; H. J. Burschtaler, pastor, St. Paul, Minn.; William

Mitchell, pastor, Philadelphia; and a number of others.

Rural Church Boosted

The summer school promises to be the biggest of the whole series carried on in Salem. It is recognized more and more that the great problem of the church is that of interesting the rural community in church work so as to have a foundation for good citizenship to leave the city and the whole government—and this school is to try especially to make the rural church so attractive that Oregon country pastors are to be more sought after than any sweating city appointments where life is unreal and unsatisfying. Dr. Hickman, president of Kimball School of Theology expects this to be a banner year in rural church presentation.

Colonel White Thanked By Military Academy

A resolution of thanks and appreciation has been sent to Adjutant General White from the faculty and officers of Hill Military academy, for the influence and help of Colonel White in securing from Assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt the use of the government eagle boat No. 28, to take the Hill cadets home from Fort Stevens to Portland. The cadets were encamped at the fort for a week and completed an interesting outing by making the homeward journey on the government boat.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith Say This is True Fish Yarn

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Smith for nearly of Salem but now living at Acate Beach, spent fishing last Sunday on the coast near the Yaquina lighthouse, and Mr. Smith hooked a 20-pound cod fish which, with the aid of Mr. Smith, she landed.

Then Mr. Smith sat in his line on which he had two hooks, and they were taken at once by two five-pound codfish making 20 pounds of fish in about five minutes. They also caught two five-pound kelp fish, a few minutes later.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith called that a pretty good day's fishing, for a Sunday.

The government rules that strawber wine may be made, but not for pleasure purposes. It will likely be used to grease automobiles.
