It was the sentiment of the meeting, however, that in the face of the troublefinancial conditions, it would be necessary for the grower to meet the ultimate consumer half way, and practically every talk of the afternoon was along this line.

Meeting Determined

One speaker who had succeeded throwing into disorder a simimeeting in Salem a week earl-, by a talk against the same dule of prices, was "sat upon" eavily by the Woodburn convention that was determined to make lible an agreement between oducers and canners or rather ndlers who cater directly to the suming public.

The selling schedule is a relics of that offered to the Salem avention, at which former meet-. however, there was no action gested as to prices to be paid or picking.

With the acreage known to be id by the Woodburn growers, it belleved that between 2500 and 00 acres of small fruits were presented in the convention.

No Offers Made No offers have been made from indiers, evaporators or any other indiers of the fruits in this dule-except a general offer ship the strawberries at "the arket price," which is fluctuat-
