CHAPTER 86 THE WAY ALLEN DRAKE PIQUED MADGE

Lillian consulted her wrist watch and made a mental calculation. "We have plenty of time," she said, turning to me with an apologetic air.

"I forgot you don't know all that we have done," she said. Mr. Drake has a man in tow who was an associate of our cherubic acquaintance in one of her particularly hectic escapades, one for which the authorities of a certain city would particularly like to see her.

Miss Frances Elliott returned yesterday from Newberg where she visited with her parents and attended the commencement exercises at Pacific university.

Mrs. W. R. Jones and Miss Marie Holden of Tillamook have been visiting in Portland are expected home today, accompanied by Mrs. Jones' daughter, Miss Rosalie Jones, who has been attending St. Helen's hall.

Mrs. A. W. Kelly has been engaged to teach at the Oregon School for the Blind the coming year. She taught in the Washington School for the Blind at Vancouver. For the past two years, she and Mr. Kelly have been residents of Portland and came to Salem only recently, Mr. Kelly taking the position of circulation manager on the Capital Journal.

Miss Lillian Applegate returned home Wednesday from two weeks visit in Portland where she was the guest of her brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus B. Woodworth and her nephew, Cyrus B. Woodworth.

Mrs. L. J. Hauser and son, Robert returned to their home in Eugene Wednesday evening after a few days visit with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hauser.

Professor and Mrs. E. H. Anderson of Irrigons, Ore., are guests at the home of their son, Earl H. Anderson, Professor Anderson was formerly an instructor in the Salem schools.

lives of my parents. Lillian had given me a hasty and cautioning admonition when we were in bed-room after dinner getting ready for the trip. "Don't be provoked into saying anything tonight unless it is distinctly your own talk," she said. "I am not going to have you come in at first, but you will be within sight and hearing of everything that goes on. And when you do enter the room at my summons, just watch me. I'll manage things so you'll know just what to do."

It felt relief and a touch of chagrin at her words, relief that I had no responsibility in the trip before us, chagrin which I subconsciously knew was unworthy of me, that I was to be merely the puppet in the drama of the evening, pulled hither and thither by the strings held by the capable fingers of Lillian Underwood and Allen Drake.

It was only faint chagrin toward Lillian that I felt. My resentment unjustly enough was all for Allen Drake. I was childishly glad when in the taxicab Lillian sat between me and the man whose assumption of authority I so disliked.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed With Sulphur It Darkens So Naturally Nobody Can Tell

The old time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage. Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Weyth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular, because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it, and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Weyth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair, after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

SCHOOL YEAR IS FINISHED

Diplomas Are Presented By Governor Olcott to Large Class at Chemawa

LOCKLEY GIVES ADDRESS

Guests Are Entertained At Dinner by Superintendent And Mrs. Hall

Graduation exercises were held Wednesday night at Chemawa Indian school, when diplomas were given to an exceptionally large class of graduates who have finished the prescribed course and are now free to go out into the world as really trained and educated citizens.

The principal address was given by Fred Lockley of Portland, litterateur, traveler, editor. Using the general topic of "Lifers and Leavers," he developed the thought that every one falls naturally into one of these two classes—and that the call is almost more imperative for Chemawa graduates to choose rightly than it is for their Caucasian brethren, because their people's needs and so their own responsibilities are greater.

Service Real Success "There are varying ideals of success," said the speaker, "but that of service is the only real thing that can stand out supreme over the grosser acceptance of power, or wealth, or pleasure as the end of living."

He cited the cases of Roosevelt, Lincoln and other great Americans whose unselfish devotion to their fellow men has made them great in the hearts of the whole world.

"Obstacles only show the material of which a man is made," said the speaker. "As the grindstone grinds good material into a splendid blade that will cut like a razor and shine like the stars, the same stone and the same grinding will grind mud or inferior metal only to its destruction—it merely wears away and never improves, never will take an edge."

Blackfoot Is Example He told of a Blackfoot Indian, born deaf and dumb, up in the Glacier Indian park, who determined that life should not cheat him out of his heritage; so he became a wood carver, and his carved animals and statuettes have become almost world famous.

Samuel Lancaster, the engineer of the splendid Columbia highway, was a victim of paralysis in his youth, but he would not accept this handicap as a defeat, and he went on in his profession to a national success. Mr. Lockley's address was applauded by a gratified audience. Governor Ben W. Olcott presented the diplomas in a brief but fitting speech. The Chemawa Indian school has been one of his pet personal hobbies for years past, and this is not the first time he has been asked to deliver the precious scrolls to the graduating class.

Appropriate music made the occasion one of constant delight. One interesting item of the class exercises was the graduating fiery of the young women. They made the gowns themselves, of sheer white organdie, all of one exclusive pattern, and at a cost of only $8.50 each. The young women presented as fair an appearance as any June graduates anywhere from Maine to Alaska, and nowhere have diplomas been given to more gifted or faithful students.

Visitors Entertained Before the graduating exercises Superintendent and Mrs. Harwood Hall entertained Governor Olcott, Mr. and Mrs. Lockley and Louis Compton at a wonderful little dinner served by the girls of the school.

Class and other exercises were carried yesterday and will continue today, but the real work of the school is over for the year.

Fully one-third of the students will remain at the school for the summer, however, this being the case of many of them a "home" such as their own people have not been able to equal. Dr. and Mrs. Hall have instilled the home spirit into the school to a remarkable degree, until the graduates leave with almost the feelings of the exile who is driven away for things that he can not help—like a grovning old or too big for the earlier test.

Securities Commission Calls Meeting for Today

After a careful investigation of the Summer Lake and the Silver Lake irrigation districts in Lako county, State Engineer Cupper and State Bank Superintendent Frank C. Bramwell, members of the irrigation securities commission, are yet undecided whether the application of the districts to sell more than $500,000 in bonds at 80 cents on the dollar should be granted. A meeting of the commission will be held here today when arguments on both sides will be thrashed out.
