State Fire Marshal to Make Regulations Under Recent Enactment

CONFLICTS ARE AVOIDED

Elaborate Preparations Are Made to Attend Chief's Corvallis Session

Under a law passed by the legislature of 1921, and which became effective May 25, the state fire marshal's department is forulating a code of regulations covering electrical wiring, gasoline storage, garage conditions, installation of equipment in motion picture theaters and other operations that are likely to constitute fire hazards.

Inspectors and agents of the department and Fred Wobber, electrical expert of the Oregon Insurance Rating bureau, of Portland, were in conference here yesterday with A. C. Barber, state fire marshal, relative to the code.

It is necessary that care be taken to prevent the regulations from conflicting with city ordinances and with certain regulations of the state labor department formulated following a law passed at the 1919 session.
