

RECRUITS SENT BACK TO BUSH

Major League Ball Clubs Release Youngsters in Middle of May

SOX MUCH BROKEN UP

Many New Players Come From Colleges and Some Of Them Sticking

CHICAGO, June 13.—The annual tryout of scores of minor league baseball players by major league teams has ended and the youngsters who failed to make good have joined in the yearly pilgrimage back to the minors for further experience, some to return for another chance next year, but many to remain in the bushes.

Every season two or three hundred youngsters are taken on the spring training trips by managers hopeful of finding at least one Cobb, one Siler or one Walter Johnson among them, but when May 15, the day the clubs must return to 25 players each, comes around the tryouts are ended and most of the youngsters are back in the minor.

161 Go Back

The year the 16 major league clubs have sent 161 men back to the lower leagues for seasoning. Most of them are pitchers, for the heavy batting of the past two years has sent managers and scouts scurrying to even the smallest leagues in the hope of finding one or two good hurlers, but there is also a good proportion of outfielders and a fair number of infielders and catchers.

The New York Americans, with 19 recruits sent back, lead both leagues, in the number of players found wanting. Manager Huggins kept only a few of his youngsters and with the exception of his pitching staff is depending almost entirely on his last year's team.

The Chicago White Sox, crippled by the loss of eight stars through the baseball scandal, took nearly 50 men south, but 19 of the new players have found to be below major league caliber and sent back to the minors. The White Sox, however, probably have kept more youngsters than any other club. Shely, Falk, Johnson, Mulligan and Mostil being recruits who have earned regular positions in the broken up club.

The Chicago Cubs were third in youngsters sent back. Seventeen of the men tried out by Manager Evers were found wanting. The Philadelphia Americans came next with 15 turned back.

Washington occupies a position unique among the major leaguers for not a man has been released. Manager George McBride started the season with a small number of players and is holding all of them.

Virtually all of the men released were recruits, although there were a few veterans, such as Nick Cullop of the St. Louis Browns who has played with several major league clubs, only to eventually return to the minors each time. Don Ayers and Bernie Boland were others who might be classed as veterans. Both were released by Detroit, but Boland is getting another tryout with St. Louis.

Many of the youngsters tried out this year were fresh from college and the number of semiprofessional given chances in the major each season seems to be increasing. At least one of the college men has more than made good. He is Stephenson of Cleveland who came from the University of Alabama to play second base when Bill Wausonians broke an arm. Stephenson on ranks in the first 19 batters in the league and has a good fielding record.

A majority of the players released were sent back to the minors with strange attitudes and will get another chance in the major next year. Some of them already have had several chances, but these men are always cheered up by the managers in camps of players who did not make good until they had several tryouts in the senior circuits and then became stars.

C. Crosby	0
G. Bramwell	2

Total..... 7

B. Barnum	0
F. White	0
D. Dunnetto	0
P. Phillips	0
J. Hansen	0
G. Brunelle	0
J. George	0
P. Lee	1

Total..... 1

The Wildcats are to be given a free feed at the "Y" in the near future for their efforts. Everyone thought that the High Fliers would win but the Wildcats stepped up and showed them how it is to be the losing team.

The final standings of the teams are as follows:

Team	W.	L.	Pct
Wildcats	5	1	.834
High Fliers	4	2	.667
Washington 7A	3	2	.600
Cardinals	2	3	.400
Richmond Tigers	2	3	.400
Trojans	0	5	.000

"These teams played six games instead of five to play off a tie.

The High Fliers were expected to win the schedule and they deserve high praise as they held the lead until the last moment. Other leagues and organized play will be conducted by the "Y" all during the summer. It is hoped that there will be a playground in Salem this year. There is a committee working on it now.

GERMAN LABOR IS CRITICIZED

Gompers Tells Foreign Delegates War Could Have Been Forestalled

U. S. WORKERS LAUDED

President Declares Union Men Did Their Duty at Crucial Hour

DENVER, June 14.—Organized labor in Germany could have prevented the World War, President Gompers declared in an address today before the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor.

"I hold that the organized labor movement of Germany failed at the crucial hour," said the veteran labor leader, in responding to addresses of the fraternal delegates from Great Britain and Canada.

"Says Gompers, failed to act. "It is true," he continued, "that of the labor movement of that country had taken the situation in hand it might have meant the destruction of a new thousand, it might have caused the incarceration of many thousands; but if that had occurred it would have stopped the war.

"The failure of men to act when the time has arrived when action is essential is faithlessness to the common cause. I have nothing in my heart that can be outdone or suggested of feelings of antipathy toward the German people, toward the German labor movement, toward their attempt to conduct a great republican form of government. It cannot be driven out of the minds of people who have lost young men of their flesh and blood, fallen in defense of this great cause.

Peace Table Cited.

"You know that the American labor movement has made its great contribution to the great cause. And as one, you know also that I have tried to do my full duty in the critical circumstances in which we are all placed; and the fact that at the peace table wisdom did not prevail, I think that most men who have given the subject thought quite agree with that judgment. But it is always hindsight that is so superior to foresight, and in the frame of mind in which the people were, it is not difficult to understand that they wanted to penalize Germany in some way.

"We know that the representatives of democracy make mistakes and that is the penalty we pay for having democracy—but we have the right to make a mistake rather than to yield to the dictation of some emperor Kaiser or King. If we want democracy we must pay the penalties for the mistakes democracies are subject to."

Failure Charged.

He said he assumed full responsibility for his remarks regarding the labor movement, "either as being in my mind or as my expression.

"We have been with you and with all the allied democratic nations in the war," said Mr. Gompers, addressing the fraternal delegates, "and to the extent of time that we made our full contribution. We have not done anything which we find it necessary to boast of and we have no cause to hang our heads in shame.

"The pity of it all was that when the crucial time came there were some of those who had made flamboyant declarations who failed at the crucial hour."
