

DEMPSEY HAS ADVANTAGE IN SIZE OVER HIS CHALLENGER

NEW YORK, June 24.—George Carpentier, challenger of Jack Dempsey, will be smaller, in several respects than any boxer who has fought for the title in recent years. Tommy Burns, from whom Jack Johnson wrested the crown, was shorter but heavier and more compactly built. Bob Fitzsimmons, on the day he lost the championship to Jim Jeffries at Coney Island weighed 172 pounds, almost exactly what Carpentier will weigh when he climbs into the ring.

Dempsey will be larger than Carpentier in all save two important measurements. Carpentier's advantages will be in his wonderfully developed lower limbs and his neck. The Frenchman's calf measurement is 16 1/2 inches, as compared with Dempsey's 15 1/2. Carpentier's neck measures 16 1/2 inches, with Dempsey's one quarter inch smaller.

Carpentier's Back Developed. Dempsey will outweigh Carpentier by about 20 pounds. He will stand one and one-half inches taller. He will outreach his rival by one inch, 74 inches to 73. In wrist and ankle development they are nearly equal, only a fraction

Following are the physical measurements of the champion and challenger, as well as those of the former holders of the heavy-weight title since Corbett won it in 1892:

BATTLES OF DEMPSEY AND CARPENTIER

No. 6

The string of 17 knockouts convinced boxing promoters and the public at large that Dempsey, in spite of unpopularity because of his failure to get into active military service in the war, was the logical man to meet Jess Willard for the heavyweight chamionship of the world. "Tex" Rickard clinched the bout. The principals met in New York Feb. 9, 1919 to agree to conditions for the bout. The statutes of New York at that time made illegal articles for a boxing bout when conditions had been settled.

the principals, their managers and "Tex" Rickard ferried to Jersey City and signed the papers in a railway waiting room.

A for virtually every city of account in the United States, where boxing was legal, had been mentioned as the possible site. Rickard announced that Toledo, O., had been selected for the bout. July 4. City and state officials declared themselves favorable to the plans and the boxers, about six weeks before the scheduled date, started training in camps near the big arena.

In spite of Dempsey's great record for hitting heavy persons, including Willard himself, were confident that the huge bulk of the Kansan, who had always maintained fairly good physical condition, would make him impregnable before his smaller opponent.

Dempsey, apparently unimpaired of the disparity in height and weight, declared that he was going to tackle Willard as he had tackled his victims of the past two years—with a right foot. The fact that he had put out both Carl Morris and Fred Fulton, men much larger than himself, in the first round, made him confident that he could defeat Jess Willard in the same manner.

The defeat of Carpentier by two of the greatest middleweights that America has had, Billy Popke, the "Illinois Thunderbolt," and Frank Klaus of Pittsburgh, is now cited by persons who believe that the Frenchman stands small chance with Jack Dempsey at Jersey City. Carpentier was then only 15 years of age but was big and rapidly growing out of the middleweight class. He already stood five feet, 11 1/2 inches, his present height, and it is declared that he had considerable trouble making the middleweight limit for both bouts. He was meeting two of America's best boxers, both in their prime.

Carpentier's defeat at the hand of Klaus came early in the year. Although defeated, he gave Klaus a great battle for 19 rounds. Then it was Dempsey, rather than Carpentier who brought the battle to a close. The manager climbed through the ropes to save his trophy charge from further punishment and Carpentier, remembering a foul, the American however, was a clean-cut winner and surely would have scored an actual knockout had the bout continued.

In October of the same year, Papke stopped Carpentier in 17 rounds at the Cirque de Paris. A ringside witness declared that the result of that battle is small excuse for believing that Carpentier, as a boy, should not now, a fully developed man, be a real rival for Jack Dempsey. Carpentier, with all his cleverness, stood toe to toe with the heavy-hitting Amer can for more than a dozen rounds and went down defeated in a gory but manly way.

AN ADVERTISEMENT HELPED HER

Mrs. Lucile Mackey, 16 Buena Vista St., Washington, Pa., writes: "Last winter my 3-year-old girl caught a bad cold which left her with a dry cough. It bothered her most at night and she would cough until she vomited. I think she must have had whooping cough. I saw an advertisement for Foley's Honey and Tar. I tried it and bought two bottles and her cough left her before she finished the second bottle. She had gotten awfully thin, but now she is as fat as ever. Sold everywhere—Adv.

MANY MILLS TO BAR ACCIDENTS

Educational Campaign Begun in 52 of Largest Industries in Oregon

A big start is being made in accident prevention among the industries of the state, according to information on file with the state industrial accident commission. Up to yesterday 52 of the largest firms operating under the workmen's compensation act, and employing approximately 14,500 workers, had notified the commission of their acceptance of the provisions of the amendment whereby rates may be cut down by the inauguration of organized and educational work in prevention of accidents.

The amendment becomes effective July 1. The number of firms in the various industries that have accepted the provisions follows:

Lumbering and woodworking, 29; can manufacturing, 1; bae manufacturing, 1; flour mills, 2; paper manufacturing, 2; light and power companies, 3; wholesale houses, 2; cooperage, 2; shipbuilding, one; metal working and machine building, 4; woolen mills, 2; cement manufacturing, 1; oil distributing, 1; Oregon Agricultural college.
