NEW WARDENS ARE APPOINTED

State Forester Increases Organization to Fight Fires in Timber

LITTLE DAMAGE IS DONE

Campaign Expected to Make Careless Camper and Incendiary Scarce

COAST ARTILLERY HAS REPUTATION

Major Dusenbury Praises Work Done By Oregon Units at Camp

Many applications for official fire officers and camp and district wardens are coming in to the state forester's office. From 10 to 15 appointments are being made daily. Each commission carries with it full police power in all fire matters. The warden can commandeer any crew, an individual, within his jurisdiction, and require them to join the fire brigade the same as a sheriff may command the services of any citizen for police duty.

These wardens are paid in various ways. Some of them are asked for by lumber companies, and paid by them, the appointment being merely for the purpose of getting state police backing for fire protection service. Some are paid by associations, or districts, and some may eventually be paid by collecting damages from ranchers, hunters, campers or other incendiaries who may be proven guilty of setting out fires that cost money to be put out.

Since July 1 several fires have been reported. One was over in the Silver Falls lumber company's holdings, a slashings fire that threatened to become disastrous, but it has not done much damage. The fire season is coming on, which is the reason for the unusual activity in the appointment of wardens. A larger number of men will be put on this year than ever before, as the value of timber is being recognized more and more every season. California is making not only a like vigorous fight to keep down the fires, but has a wonderfully trained corps of forest rangers who are making the careless camper and the malicious incendiary mighty scarce. Heavy punishments are being meted out to the California fire builders. They have less rain, a much longer fire season, a smaller area of higher-priced timber nearer to market, and the state is making a belated, but strenuous, and winning fight against the fire evil.

It is the opinion that as Oregon learns more of the value of its forests, the fire hazards will become less, because people will take more pains to make forest fires impossible.

OREGON BANKS PROVE STRONG

Oregon Three Listed as Closed—North Dakota Leads in Failures

Although Oregon has had three banks to close in recent months, the state really belongs to the same class with six other states that have had but one bank failure each since November 22, 1920, according to a report received by Frank C. Bramwell, state superintendent of banks, from the federal reserve bank at San Francisco.

Mr. Bramwell explains that the closing of the Crook county bank at Prineville was a real failure. The closing of the Bank of Jacksonville is attributed to mismanagement, and the First State and Savings bank of Klamath Falls was reopened March 14 last.

Thirty-four states had one or more failures. North Dakota leads the list with 51 bank failures. By states the number of failures follows: Arizona, 7; California, 3; Colorado, 5; Connecticut, 1; Florida, 1; Georgia, 7; Idaho, 15; Illinois, 9; Indiana, 2; Iowa, 18; Kansas, 2; Louisiana, 2; Massachusetts, 1; Michigan, 6; Minnesota, 4; Mississippi, 2; Missouri, 3; Montana, 16; Nebraska, 14; New Mexico, 4; New York, 3; North Carolina, 10; North Dakota, 51; Oklahoma, 6; Oregon, 3; Pennsylvania, 3; South Carolina, 7; South Dakota, 2; Tennessee, 1; Texas, 49; Utah, 6; Virginia, 3; Washington, 8; Wyoming, 1.

In Washington, Idaho, California and Montana the banks that closed were: Washington—State bank, Black Diamond; First National bank, Clarkston, reopened July 2; Citizens bank, Georgetown Station, Seattle; Kelso State bank, Kelso; Northside State bank, Seattle; Scandinavian-American bank, Seattle; Tacoma; Central Bank & Trust company, Yakima; Idaho—Over and National bank, Boise; Bruneau State bank, Bruneau, reopened June 28; Bank of Commerce, Burley, opened June 6 as Commercial State Bank of Burley; Coeur d'Alene Bank & Trust company, Coeur d'Alene; First National bank, Fairfield; Grangeville Savings Bank & Trust company, Grangeville; Kamiah State bank, Kamiah; State bank, Kootenai; Commercial and Savings bank, Mountain Home; Fidelity State bank, Orofino; State bank, Peck; Hancock National bank, Pocatello; Stockgrowers Bank & Trust company, Pocatello; Bank of Stites, Stites; California—First National bank,
