

JOB SHORTAGE IS REPORTED

Demand for Farm Labor is Nearly Over, Y.M.C.A. Labor Bureau Reports

A shortage of jobs is reported from the Y. M. C. A. labor recruiting station, where a job-hunting bureau has been operated all this season. The berry and cherry picking season is practically over, and at present there is little to offer to those who have been harvesting the fruit. The harvest season is three to four weeks off. It will give employment to several thousand pickers in the Willamette valley alone for a period of two or three weeks. A large registration of prospective labor is still on file with the Y. M. C. A., but the farm demand is very small. There is practically no sawmill or logging work, because of the curtailing of the lumber output. Some fugitive clerkship and messenger jobs have been located, but there are not nearly enough of these to go around. The Y has found places for a large number of applicants for various kinds of work during the season, and expects to continue this excellent public service. Those who are looking for jobs, or for workers, are invited to file their wants and give the Y a chance to help both employer and employee.

(Continued from page 1.) With the proposed conference on limitation of armaments in Washington, and that it may develop information which would be used to such a conference. That was the decision announced at the opening session today of the temporary mixed commission for regulation of armaments, appointed by the league, which was presided over by Rene Viviani of France, chairman of the commission.

Ackerman Estate is Estimated at $40,000

In an estate order signed Friday by County Judge W. M. Bushby, Ellen Ackerman, widow of J. H. Ackerman, president of Oregon normal school, is appointed administratrix of the Ackerman estate. Petition for appointment was filed Friday. The estate is estimated at $40,000. The heirs are Mrs. Ellen Ackerman and three daughters, Mrs. E. F. Carleton of Eugene, Mrs. Roy Burton of Salem and Mrs. Alfred Lunn of Corvallis.

300 BARRELS OF MARASCHINOS PUT DOWN BY PRODUCERS CANNING CO.

Three hundred barrels of maraschino Royal Anne cherries have been put down this season by the Producers Canning company of Salem. The company did not at first expect to use the fruit this year, not having equipped the plant especially for such service. But when the cherries came in so fast from the 160 patron and stockholders, it was found desirable to use this large quantity in the new process, so an installation was made to take care of the fruit for this high class trade.

OIL IS CAUSE OF WRANGLE IN HOUSE

(Continued from page 1.) The first process is really not excessively elaborate. It consists of treating the cherries to a bath of sulphur dioxide and lime. The sulphur dioxide comes from the Tacoma smelter in the form of a gas, heavily charged into steel tanks. The gas is liberated into water with lime, forming a bleaching mixture which turns the cherries a pale color. It's a rather ticklish process, however. If the solution is too strong, it will take the skin off the cherries, and if it is too weak the fruit will spoil in the producers' plant. Prof. Florian Von Eichen, the head of the chemistry department in Willamette university, took charge of this chemical treatment and has been consequently in the hands of an expert.

Many Strawberries Barreled.

Large quantities of strawberries have been barreled this season in various Salem plants. The berries were sorted as for canning but were put into 50-gallon oak barrels instead, and then a full sack of sugar was poured in on top. The action of the sugar is to preserve the fruit for later reduction to jam. The berries are not macerated, however, nor is the sugar intimately mixed to every minute particle of fruit, as it would be done in the household process known as the "sunshine preserve" method of preserving. There, the pulped berries and fruit are thoroughly mixed, and set out in the sunshine for sun cooking. These barreled strawberries are put into cold storage for later treatment.

FIFTY CENTS FOR BUTTER IS POSSIBLE

(Continued from page 1.) Made on the butter that was put into cold storage during the early part of the season, though the price this season was far lower than it has been for several years past, only a comparatively limited quantity was iced and held in reserve. The dealers didn't know just what was to happen to the market, so they realized they never there is enough storage butter to balance the market very handsily, when the dry-pasture shortage comes on. No storage butter is expected to crawl out of its hiding place until there is at least 10 to 15 cents between the price at which it was stored, and the final sale price. It's expensive to keep such stuff, and it's not yet needed.

New Coat of Paint is Put on Salem City Hall

ticles. The sheriff's office is making an effort to trace the goods through possible attempt of the thieves to dispose of the articles in this vicinity.

Biplane is in Court

Second Time in Year

For the second time in the past year the Canadian Curtis tractor biplane, housed at the aviation sheds southwest of the fairground has been figuratively dragged into Marion county court records. In July, 1920, R. M. Lloyd filed a lien in the sum of $539.42 against John Green for labor performed on the biplane of which Green is owner. After a judgment for the amount involved was rendered, Mr. Green and J. L. Van Doren made arrangements for payment of the money and the biplane disappeared from the county court records until Saturday when action was instituted against Green and Mr. Van Doren for payment of the sum claimed by Mr. Lloyd.

I. W. W. TROUBLE MAY BE ENDED

Prompt Deportation Brings Calm in South Dakota Harvest Fields

ABERDEEN, S. D., July 16.—Prompt deportation yesterday of harvest hands coming into this territory is believed by Sheriff Henry Elliot of Brown county, to have ended for the present any I. W. W. demonstration in this territory. This was the statement of the sheriff today after he returned with a posse from a search of a group of 500 workers who reached Aberdeen this morning. The search ended in the arrest of two men as suspects in connection with the murder of William Henderson of Austin, Tex., at Wadena, Minn., from whom the men gave their names as Theodore Wujankovitch and Andrew Lutjak. They are being held for Sheriff V. C. Miller of Beadle county.

The Western Dust Proof

FURNACE

For Wood and Soft Coal

Western Made For Western Fuel

The Oblong Fire Box

—where wood is used as a fuel or when coal is used only in the coldest weather, and wood the rest of the time, this oblong fire box Western Furnace is unequaled. The box is long and will allow the wood to lay down flat. It is not so long that soft coal cannot be used to advantage with the wood. It is an ideal arrangement for both soft coal and wood and has found favor all over the northwest. The castings are heavy and so designed that they will not crack. Remember that they are guaranteed for Five Years.

The Large Feed Door

—The door is made extra large to admit knots and large chunks of wood. In the ordinary furnace the wood must be split and stood in a round fire box. In the Western Dust-Proof you can use large pieces and lay them down so that the fire is easily held over night without coal. Western made for Western fuel again.

The Dust Proof Joints

—The wedge sealed dust-proof joints are use throughout, the same as in the round-pot Western.

Interchangeable

—It is possible to change the fire box from oblong to round if you should decide to burn only coal. Aside from the shape of the fire box and the size of the feed door this furnace is exactly the same as the round-pot furnace.

Grates

—If only wood is used we furnish a regular wood grate, one fine enough to burn wood economically. If coal is used with the wood we use our regular wood and soft coal grate.

The Specifications Are the Same as the Round Pot Furnace, Except—

Number 20	Number 24
Size of Fire Pot.....24x20	28x24
Size of Feed Door.....12x13	12x15
