WOMAN TELLS ABOUT TESTS IN PORTLAND

Testimony Valuable to Lower Rate Petitioners Given By Former Operators of Telephone Company.

ATTACK LAUNCHED BY ASTORIA LAWYER

First Clash of Day Results in Williams Overtaking Utility Counsel

A captivating young matron of Portland, Mrs. Agnes Johnson, for 12 years in the employ of the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph company, first witness for the city of Portland in the telephone rate rehearing, helped the petitioners for lower telephone rates to check up several credits in the afternoon session yesterday, and did it so gracefully that the polite Mr. Shaw, attorney for the phone company, did as well as any impartial man could do to draw conflicting testimony from the witness.

Mrs. Johnson, however, could not be trapped into making any concessions that were damaging to the petitioners. She had as an offering in the investigation the tabulated results of a telephone test made in Portland during June and July under the direction of the city attorney's office, and which showed that complaints at the phone service and at the high rates are the usual order in Portland.

Annoyances Are Numerous. While engaged in the test Mrs. Johnson made a total of 339 calls, asking each person called a series of questions relating to the telephone service. She said that some of the operators knew her voice, and recognizing her as a former operator, doubtless gave her better service than is accorded the average person. Of the 339 persons called, 141 complained that they were often compelled to wait an unusual long time for central to answer when they wished to place a call. About an equal number complained of unusual annoyance in being given the wrong number. Complaint was registered by 131 persons that they were compelled to wait an unduly long time for reports from the operators when they failed to get the numbers called. Called to the phone when their number was not the one wanted was the complaint of 196 persons, and 189 declared they were cut off far more than the normal number of times while conversing over the telephone.

Few Obtain Relief. The trouble was reported to the company by over 100 persons and 56 declared the company never had done anything to relieve it. Sixty-nine patrons declared they had suffered inconvenience or loss by the poor service. Of the calls made, 282 were manual calls and the remainder automatic. Mrs. Johnson used a stop watch while making the calls and observed that an average of 5.52 seconds elapsed before the operator answered when the manual system was used and 12 seconds when the automatic system was used.

Degree Peddlers Get Set-Back in Letter From Olcott Who Refuses to Give $25 for Pretty Diploma

Peddling degrees of a university at $25 each, much in the same manner as a merchant would dispose of his wares, does not meet with the approval of Governor Olcott. This was made plain in a letter prepared by Governor Olcott yesterday in response to information received from the Centennial State university at Denver, Colo., to the effect that he had been voted an honorary degree of doctor of laws, and that he would receive an attractive diploma upon remitting the sum of $25 to the trustees of the institution. "Personally," said the governor in his letter, "I have always considered an element of sanctity should hedge about issuance of degrees, and in the main I believe such to be the case. I know a number of gentlemen holding these honorary degrees who are eminently qualified to accept them, but I am certain their qualifications were entered into and deeply considered by the proper persons before the degrees were issued. "In this case it seems to be a mere matter of barter and sale; a proposal whereby I send you $25 and in return you send me a neatly engraved diploma which will convince my posterity that their forbear as a doctor of laws, was an intellectual giant of great mental attainments. "To be frank, I am rather astonished at this proceeding and must decline to enter into my end of the agreement. Such degrees should not be considered merchandise, and in the main I

McMinnville Man, Who Explored With Stefansson, Greets Him at Dallas

DALLAS, Or., July 21.—(Special to The Statesman)—Yesterday was one of the biggest days of the Polk County Chautauqua which is in session in Dallas this week. The afternoon's program was given by the Roach-Freeman Duo and was greatly appreciated. The evening's program was entirely taken up by Vilhjalmur Stefansson in recounting "His Five Years in the Arctic." The lecture was interesting to Dallas people on account of the fact that a young man of McMinnville, Loren Knight, also well known in this city was one of the party with Mr. Stefansson on his last trip to the polar regions. Mr. Knight was with Mr. Stefansson last night. The big Chautauqua tent was filled to its utmost capacity to hear the lecture and there were not enough seats to accommodate the public many of whom had to stand during the lecture.

CREAMERIES HAVE BRIGHT PROSPECT

J. W. Kubberness Reports Butterfat on Upgrade; Plant is Busy

SILVERTON, Or., July 21.—(Special to The Statesman)—J. W. Kubberness of the Silvertown creamery said today that creamery prospects look good. "In fact," he added, "it is long since they have looked as good as they do at present. Butterfat is steadily gaining in price. There is little fear that it will soon go down." A present the Silvertown creamery is receiving 400 gallons of cream a day. It turns out 900 pounds of butter daily. Silvertown alone consumes half of this. The other half is shipped to Portland. The creamery also has an output of three tons of ice a day. A large share of this goes to Silvertown merchants. The remainder is sold to Mt. Angel, Monitor, Marquam and Scotts Mills.

Labor of Love Before Court of Honor Today

A labor of love is to come before the Court of Honor, Boy Scouts of America, when the court convenes this morning to consider three cases of heroism on the part of Salem Scouts who have distinguished themselves in offering their lives to save others. The first is that of Arthur Hamilton, who saved the life of a companion who was drowning at camp a year ago. The second was that of Keith Draper, who just in time pulled a comrade out of a watery grave, in Mill creek in Salem a few weeks ago. The third is that of Benjamin Beers, who saved the life of a young woman at Spang's landing last Sunday. The court of honor has these three cases of bravery to consider. All the facts have been laid before the board, and the award of signal honors for all the young heroes is considered certain.

Measure Now Goes to Senate, Where Alterations Are Expected for Later Approval by Lower Body.

OVATION IS GIVEN CHAIRMAN FORDNEY

Representative Garrett Attacks Methods and Calls Act Monstrosity

WASHINGTON, July 21.—The Republican protective tariff bill, estimated by Chairman Fordney to raise around $500,000,000 in revenue annually was passed tonight by the house by a vote of 289 to 127, precisely the vote by which the Democratic motion for elimination of its American valuation provision was defeated.

Seven Republicans voted against the measure, while the same number of Democrats supported it. Oil, hides, cotton and asphalt remained on the free list. The Longworth dye embargo, backed by a Republican majority on the ways and means committee, was thrown out, 209 to 193.

Aided by Republicans not satisfied with all the bill's provisions, the Democratic minority made the most of its chances, and the ways and means committee lost out on three of the five amendments laid before the house. There was not much chance of imposing a duty on hides and cotton after the house, in committee of the whole, had defeated amendments carrying compensatory rates on their manufactured products. When the oil amendment was reached there was such a shout of noes that a
