OPINION CLEARS BONUS STATUTE

Four Points Are Elucidated In Comment by Attorney Van Winkle

Relative to rights existing under the state loan and bonus act for veterans of the World war, Attorney General Van Winkle has answered four questions upon inquiry received from the commission. They are: 1. A person who has received for military or naval service, extra compensation exceeding the amount of cash bonus, would be entitled to receive the loan, under the state bonus act, without deduction of the amount so received. 2. A person who has received for military or naval service, extra compensation, less than the amount of the cash bonus he would be entitled to receive the loan without such deduction, of the amount so received. 3. Any relative entitled to receive either the cash bonus or the loan under the provisions of section 7 of the bonus act, may elect which he will take, and section 5 specifies the relatives of a deceased veteran who may take a bonus in his stead. 4. A person who was a resident of Oregon at the time of his entry into the service and who is otherwise qualified, but who is now a resident of another state, is entitled to either the cash bonus or the loan.

Judge Coke Will Sit On Judge Eakin's Bench

Chief Justice Burnett of the state supreme court on Saturday signed an order for Judge John S. Visit of Old-Timers Recalls Days of Early Salem History When Lads Went Forth to Fight Cayuse Tribe

Here is an interesting letter that comes to the Statesman from C. B. Hagley, formerly a resident of Salem now of Seattle. "During the last week I have had a good visit with my old-time friends of your city, John G. Wright, of your state hospital. "He came to Salem in 1852 and our family arrived there September 21, 1852, or a year earlier. "We knew everybody in those days, all the federal and territorial officers and those who were candidates; also the judges and legislators. "John went to the Cayuse Indian war. Both his captains were killed. I saw the companies leave Salem and saw them when they returned including the guard who brought back the body of Captain Bennett, who was killed in action. "Bush had started the original Statesman in March of the year preceding my arrival there. "My earliest recollection of it was when it moved into the second story of Bill Gilliam's building which he moved up Commercial street from North Main where it had for a long time stood on the bank of the Willamette just north of that branch of Mill creek. It found rest at the southwest corner of State and Commercial and Mr. Bush soon installed there from North Main, Theodore Burmeister and I were in several classes together. He was six feet in height and weighed not less than 200, while I was a little over four feet and weighed about 60 pounds. I had a great admiration for him and as he was for a long time the motive power of the Statesman's press I used to go there and see him exercise his muscles. "One remark of Wright was that he is now the oldest settled in Salem, or rather that no one else is now living in the city who was in it when he reached there in 1853. This made a strong impression on my mind and was the cause of my writing this note to you. "There are today many more early settlers of Salem in Seattle than in that city. "I call to mind Mrs. Samuel Warren (Doctor) and her daughter Sadie, who married William H. Wilson here, and the two ladies are now living here. My wife and I, Fred W. Graham, daughters of Thomas Mercer, pioneer of Seattle; Mrs. Mary E. Shorey and Mrs. Gardner Kellogg, born in Bonney, lived in Salem during the winter of 1852. Dilis B. Ward reached Salem in the fall of 1852 and Jett, the son of Daniel W. Bass, was the son of

School Code of State Sent to Superintendents

J. A. Churchill, state superintendent of schools, is sending out to the county superintendents of the state pamphlets containing the school code of the state as altered by the legislature of 1921. "Owing to the high cost of material and labor," says Mr. Churchill, "copies of the school laws will be distributed to school officials only and then through the county superintendents. The chairman and clerk of each school board will receive a copy. Teachers desiring to prepare for the teachers' examinations may secure copies also through the county superintendent or from the state or local library. "Your daughter has invited me to dinner," said the bashful young man. "Well," replied Mr. Camrox, "seein' as you're a sultor for her hand, I'll do better a that. I'll invite you to breakfast, so's you can get a better idea of what she looks like without her eventin' makeup."—Washington Star.

Table with columns: THE SECRET COMES, No real chip, Low in tears, Had low rice, A kings help. Each column contains a sequence of letters and numbers for a puzzle.

THE SECRET COMES... Solve This MOVIE MYSTERY... THE CLUES... SAID that great Movie Producer, Oscar B. DeMiller, to his hated rival, Marie Producer David Warkfield Griffin, 'I have engaged four of the greatest Moving Picture Stars in America for my next big 'Living Picture Play.' Of course this made Griffin angry because he likes to be the greatest of all the great Movie Producers and he tried his best to persuade DeMiller to tell him the names of the great Movie Stars. Just as he was about to do so, DeMiller gave David Warkfield Griffin four secret codes representing the names of the four Movie Stars he had engaged and told him that if he had brains enough to discover the names from these secret codes he should 'take them. It was too much of a puzzle for Griffin, so it is said he called in Scotland Yard and offered them a thousand dollars if they could discover the names for him from the four secret codes that DeMiller had given him. 'This was an easy job for the great Scotland Yard Detective Force, and in less than an hour they had the four names. They gave the names to Griffin and also gave him their system for working out their clues. HERE IS THE WAY THEY DID IT. 'It's easy,' said Chief-of-Detectives O'Flynn. 'I have worked out four sums which you see beneath each one of the four codes. 'Add up these four sums and your totals give you the four clues to the four names. 'You go about it this way. Each secret code has ten letters to it. Each letter represents a number. The first letter of the code represents 1, the second letter represents 2, the third letter represents 3, and so on. The fourth letter of each code represents the cipher 0 instead of 10. 'Each sum, as you see, instead of numbers is made up of letters, but it contains only the letters that are contained in the code above it. 'Now change the letters of each sum into their equivalent numbers, according to the code above, putting them down line by line from left to right, exactly as the letters; for instance, the first letter of the first sum is N. N as you will see in the first letter of the secret code above that sum and therefore represents number 1. H, the second letter in the first line of the first sum is the eighth letter in the code above it, therefore it represents number 8. 'After you have changed every letter of the sum into a number add up the sums line exactly as you would any other sum of figures, and the total that you get gives you your clues to the names of the four stars. 'Then work out your clues this way: 'Beginning at the left-hand side of the total of your sum change each figure of the total back to its letter as represented in the secret code above the sum; for instance, I can tell you that the first number of the total of the first sum is 7. The letter O is the seventh letter in the code above the first sum, therefore the first letter represented by your total is letter C. Now change every number of your total in the same way and you will have the name of the Movie Star represented by that sum.' 'This is not an easy problem, but patience and perseverance may find you the names of the great Movie Stars. For the best answers submitted we will pay the following prizes:

This Great Contest Is Absolutely FREE of Expense. Send In Your Answers To-day!

This great contest is being conducted by The Statesman Publishing Co., Salem, Oregon, one of the largest and best known publishing houses in Oregon. This is your chance to win big prizes. Be awarded with absolute fairness and squareness to you and every other contestant. Frankly, it is intended to introduce The Pacific Homestead, Oregon's Greatest Farm Magazine, and The Northwest Poultry Journal, the leading poultry magazine of the Pacific Northwest. You may enter and win the best of prizes whether you are a subscriber to either of these publications or not—and moreover, you will neither be asked nor expected to take these measures or spend a single penny of your money to compete. Here is the idea: The Pacific Homestead is the oldest and best farm magazine published in the Pacific Northwest, issued weekly. It has a very large number of readers. The Northwest Poultry Journal is also very widely read and has the largest circulation of any magazine in the state published in the Pacific Northwest. But our motive is one of our magazines in every home. We want more readers to become acquainted with these famous publications. Therefore, when we acknowledge your entry to the contest and you know your standing for the prizes, we shall send you without cost a copy of our very latest issues. Then in order to qualify your entry to be sent on for the judging and awarding of the grand prizes, you will be asked to assist us in carrying on this big production plan by showing your copies to just four friends or neighbors, who will appreciate these really worth while magazines and want them to come to them regularly—two readers to The Pacific Homestead and two readers to The Northwest Poultry Journal, or any other combination you like to make four. You will easily fulfill this simple condition in a few minutes of your spare time, and we will even send copies to each of your friends if you wish. HOW TO SEND YOUR SOLUTIONS. Use only one side of the paper that contains names of the Movie Stars, and put your name and address (stating Mr., Mrs. or Miss) in the upper right-hand corner. If you wish to write anything but your answers, use a separate sheet of paper. Three independent judges, having no connection whatever with this firm, will award the prizes, and the answers gaining 250 points will take the First Prize. You will get 25 points for every name completed correctly. 40 points will be awarded for general neatness, style, spelling, punctuation, etc., 10 points for handwriting, and 100 points for fulfilling the conditions of the contest. Contestants must agree to abide by the decision of the judges. The contest will close at 5 p. m., November 30, 1921, immediately after which answers will be judged and the prizes awarded. Address your answers today to: The Great Movie Mystery, Statesman Publishing Co., Salem, Or.
